Lake Michigan's Water Is Getting Better

By C. G. McDaniel
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The quality of water in Lake Michigan, especially at the southern end, has improved substantially over the past decade, a federal official said Monday. Ten years ago, he said, the lake was declining rapidly because of pollutants. "Now we hope we have stopped or reversed that process," he told reporters. The official, Robert J. Bowden, is head of the Environmental Protection Agency's central region laboratory. He participated in a news conference on board the EPA research vessel the Roger R. Simons in Lake Michigan off Chicago.

George R. Alexander, EPA midwest regional administrator, said the Simons has embarked upon a two-year sampling to determine just how much water quality has improved and what problems remain. This is the first such study since 1962, he said, noting that other studies since then have concentrated on rivers and other streams emptying into the lake. "This summer we're devoting our entire efforts to Lake Michigan," he said.

The Simons and a vessel sponsored by the University of Michigan are sampling water at some 50 sites over the entire area of the lake. Sites in the southern portion will be sampled at least eight times during this summer, and an equal number next summer. Cost of the two projects is expected to be about $3 million. The 122-foot Simons carries a staff of eight to 14 scientific personnel and a crew of eight. About 20 experiments are conducted on board and another 20 at EPA land-based laboratories.

Bowden said results of chemical and microbiological analyses will be compared with similar studies done in the last decade.

Twin Cities Still Await Lake Research Ship

Apparently bucking heavy seas, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency research vessel Roger R. Simons did not make it into the Twin Cities harbor Monday as scheduled.

Matt Racki, EPA public information specialist in Chicago, said the 122-foot laboratory ship was currently taking samples off the Lake Michigan coast near the Twin Cities and might possibly come into the St. Joseph river harbor at about 6 o'clock this evening.

Racki said if weather and scheduling problems re-occur today, the ship may proceed to its next scheduled stop at Holland and skip the Twin Cities.

The ship was scheduled to be docked in the Twin Cities harbor Monday and be open to the public from 7 to 9 p.m.

The Coast Guard station in St. Joseph reported waves on Lake Michigan ranged from 4 to 6 feet last night and may have prevented the ship from entering the harbor.

The ship is currently conducting a survey of the open waters of Lake Michigan to determine if industrial and municipal cleanup programs in the last six years have improved the lake's water quality.

Phosphates in the lake were a prime concern previously because they were contributing to its eutrophication — or death — but deposits of this chemical have been brought under control, Bowden said. And, he said, while oil spills are being reported more frequently in the lake, there probably are far fewer of them because of stringent rules about reporting them than in earlier times.

The EPA's major concern now is with such toxic chemicals as DDT, PCBs, mercury and arsenic, he said. In addition to the offshore sampling, intake water is being sampled at Manitowish, Wis., and South Haven, Mich. Bowden said it is particularly difficult for Lake Michigan to recover from pollutants because of the long time they remain in the water once they are dumped there or get into the water through runoff from the land or deposits from the air.

A ridge runs across the lake eastward from Milwaukee, and this provides a barrier for pollutants from the south end. It takes 100 years for water to make its way through currents from Chicago into the outlet at Mackinaw City at the northern end of the lake, he said.

Barbara Jordan Wows 'Em In NY

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Carter was expected to decide on a running mate today after the Democratic convention heard keynote Barbara Jordan's rousing call for a new "national community" to fulfill America's purpose.

Carter intimates indicated he would make his choice today although it probably won't be announced until Thursday, following Carter's own presidential nomination Wednesday.

Speculation centered on Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, Walter Mondale and John Glenn as the leading prospects for the No. 2 spot. Also under consideration are Sens. Frank Church, Henry Jackson and Adlai Stevenson.

Meanwhile, the first real excitement of the convention was added by Miss Jordan, the black congresswoman from Texas, who brought yawning delegates to their feet with a speech that took some pages from the Carter stylebook.

"We must restore our belief in ourselves," Miss Jordan said. "We must address and master the future together."

"It can be done if we restore the belief that we share a common national endeavor, if we restore our sense of national community," she told the cheering conventioners.

"We are a people in search of a national community," she said. Such a search is an attempt "to fulfill our national purpose, to create and sustain a society in which all of us are equal."

Miss Jordan, who had been mentioned in early speculation over a Carter running mate but had not made the list of finalists, received a standing ovation before and after she spoke and upstaged Sen. John Glenn, the other opening night keynoter who is still on Carter's lists of prospects.

Glenn had first crack at the audience in a speech declaring that "this is the time to erase divisiveness and despair ... to build a nation of justice, a nation of equality, a nation of opportunity in which we can be proud patriots."

But the delegates, who have lacked the stimulus of a nominating contest, milled about the convention floor and chatted among themselves throughout the Glenn speech.

It was a different matter, however, when Miss Jordan, the first black woman ever to keynote a major political convention, rose to speak. "There is something different and

Convention 'Exciting' For Ailing Phil Hart

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Forty-four years ago, Phil Hart, then a 19-year-old college student, saw his first Democratic National Convention. He was certain that Franklin Roosevelt couldn't possibly win the presidency. Now, eight conventions later, Hart has changed his mind about the Democrats, and about the conventions. "I feel — well, a national political convention is an exciting thing, even without any controversy," he said Monday. "It's a World Series, a heavyweight title and a Super Bowl all in one." But this one, he admits, is not as exciting as they used to be, in part because "the fact you don't feel 100 per cent changes in your mood."

This time, says the ailing U.S. senator from Michigan, "I'll attend the sessions and pass up the parties." Hart, 63, will retire in January after 18 years in the Senate. "I plan to read a lot," he says. "We plan to live in our house in Washington, use that as a base. We have the house on Mackinac Island and, if all goes well, it should get a lot more use by me since I will be around in early summer, and we won't have to close it up in time for school." But still, "I have no long-range plans." His health is the reason.

Hart has cancer of the lymph nodes, an illness that has clearly weakened him. "There's no pain, and that's really what you're frightened of. After you make 60, you've got no complaints about time. But you do hope you'll be spared the pain, or if you're not, that you will handle it right," he said. Hart says he would like to ask the Senate Appropriations Committee to give the National Institute of Health funds for programs "to manage terminal cases" and "to make death more tolerable." Hart talks openly and quietly about his health.

"I think the condition is just one where you wait," he says. "It's a cancer that's in progress. There's no timetable. You just wait till it takes root in your liver, or your lungs, or your nervous system, any old place." Hart, one of Michigan's at-large delegates backing Morris Udall, was mentioned as the man who would put Udall's name into nomination Wednesday night for the presidency. But Hart says it will not be him. "I think if a fellow wants to be nominated for president of the United States, he should have somebody do who can put their biggest physical as well as intellectual effort into it," he said.

After saying months ago that he felt "most comfortable" with Udall and was backing him for that reason, Hart said Monday he is comfortable, too, with a Carter nomination and a Carter presidency. "He has demonstrated an ability to organize, to be disciplined, to attract diverse groups, which is part of leadership," he said. The less than full support some Democrats, particularly Morris Udall delegates, feel for Carter is not necessarily skepticism, he said. "The unease is a combination of the fact that we don't know him as well and ... you don't even know how your own brother is going to do as president," he says.

SEN. PHIL HART
No Long-Range Plans

Hart claims to know, however, how he himself would do in the White House. "I would be a basket case in three to six months," he says bluntly. Hart's presence at the convention this week got him a long standing ovation from the Michigan delegation at its first meeting Monday. "I don't understand it," he said later of the uncommonly universal respect he gets from colleagues and constituents. He attributed the impressions people have of him to good fortune and pure luck.

For Carter, Hart is predicting four years of some "horrendous complications," including a Middle East tension "that seems no closer to resolution than it was five years ago or 500 years ago," and an American pie of plenty that is growing smaller. "If the pie is going to grow at a smaller rate, the contest is going to be horrendous unless citizens can be convinced that we're trying to be fair" in dividing up America's good things, he said. But such things are tough — tougher than putting a man on the moon, Hart said.

Helen Ford Fired By Action Agency

Helen Ford was fired last night as executive director of Berrien County Action in a 6 to 4 vote by the board of directors.

Nora Jefferson, chairman of the local anti-poverty agency's board of directors, said the termination is effective today but Mrs. Ford will be given the customary two-week notice with pay and accrued vacation.

Mrs. Ford, who has held the post since October, 1974, could not be reached for comment. Her salary had been $15,000 but recently was advanced to $20,000.

The vote to fire Mrs. Ford came during a two-hour special meeting of the board in the Berrien county courthouse. The meeting was closed to the public, although a meeting which preceded it, to discuss future funding of BCA with state and federal officials, was attended by about 60 people.

Asked why Mrs. Ford was fired, Mrs. Jefferson told reporters: "The present director (Mrs. Ford) has become so controversial her presence has been hindering rather than helping Berrien County Action. The main issue was Mrs. Ford's controversialism," she said, and added "a lot of agencies have been alienated."

Mrs. Jefferson also noted the county board of commissioners has not designated BCA as the county's anti-poverty agency, and BCA was hampered in getting funds without the designation.

"The feeling was that because of the non-action of the county board they had no intention of doing so (designating BCA as the anti-poverty agency) under the present administration," Mrs. Jefferson pointed out.

She said she did not know if the firing would get BCA the

New Grade School Cleared At Bangor

BANGOR — The Bangor school board last night voted to drop a proposal aimed at shelving plans for a new grade school here and diverting the funds elsewhere.

In a unanimous vote of five members present, the board voted to rescind action creating a committee that would have surveyed people in the district about dropping the school construction plan.

The building is to cost $1 million and the money is to come from a $4.1 million bond issue approved by voters in 1974.

Board action came after the board learned it could not change the bond issue.

Board Secretary Peggy Phillips said the board did not realize the 1974 bond referendum was legally binding until it conferred with attorneys recently.

The board at a special June 28 meeting created a committee to measure public opinion on the proposal and suggested September as a month when a special referendum on whether to continue with the elementary school could be held.

She said falling elementary school enrollment and financial problems in the district had prompted the proposal to not build the elementary school.

In other action, the board elected Otto Watkins Jr. as board president for the coming year and set Sept. 9 as a special election on a 2.42 extra property tax levy to help finance school operations.

Watkins, whose term expires in 1978, won by a 4 to 1 vote over Dr. Frederick Durham, incumbent board president. Neither of the two was at the meeting.

In secret balloting that took five separate votes before a majority was reached, Mildred Royal was elected board vice president by a 4 to 1 margin over Durham.

Mrs. Phillips was elected secretary in a unanimous ballot and Phillip Wiles was elected board treasurer by a 4 to 1 margin over Harold Wright.

School officials said the revenue from the proposed extra 2.42 mills is needed to finance school operations.

The millage would raise $28,000 locally plus nearly another $43,000 in state aid, board members said.

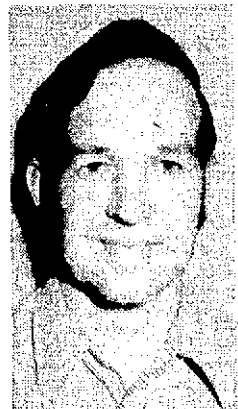

At a June 15 meeting, Durham said the school could

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Politics Takes Over The Olympic Games

Seventy years ago Baron Pierre de Coubertin, a French educator, persuaded nine nations to send track and field athletes for a revival of the ancient Greek Olympiad.

He reasoned that a worldwide mingling of athletes could promote education, culture and international understanding.

The modern Olympics continued to assemble each four years thereafter save for World War I's interruption of the 1916 convocation and World War II's cancellation of the 1940 and 1944 meetings.

The athletic span of events was enlarged in 1924 by adding the Winter Olympics.

The founding theory in the Olympics is the individual winner of an event, including second and third placements, not a team participation.

From the first revival, however, the sports writers sabotaged de Coubertin's thinking by toting up each country's share of the gold, silver and bronze medals.

Thirty years after the Athens' matches, Adolf Hitler punched a hole in the baron's premise about international understanding by an accelerated training program for German entrants. The Nazis' concentration on certain sports gave Germany the team victory at Berlin.

The Olympics recovered from that setback in earlier meetings after World War II, but the rise of the communism as the governing force in many countries and the emergence of former African colonies into statehood have pushed the Olympics infinitely farther backward than Hitler contrived to do.

Since 1964 the games have turned into ideological forums.

Rhodesia and South Africa have been blocked, at least partially, from participation in protest against their apartheid policies.

Four years ago two U.S. sprinters gave the Black Power salute from the winner's podium and Arab terrorists virtually wiped out the Israeli contingent by gunfire.

This year it is Canada's turn to sour the milk.

As the host country she has prevailed over strenuous protests from the International Olympics Committee in banning the Republic of China's athletes from competing under their own flag.

This bit of woozy statesmanship results from Red China demanding the Republic's ban as part of the deal between Ottawa and Peiping a few years wherein Canada dropped its diplomatic recognition of the Taiwan government in favor of Mao-tse-tung's mainland organization.

Still unresolved is a demand from Tanzania and Mauritius that New Zealand be barred from the Montreal spectacle which opens this Friday because the New Zealand rugby team plans to tour South Africa when the 1976 Olympics close.

The two African countries already have pulled their teams out of the competition and are calling upon the other black African nations to do likewise until Canada and the IOF meet their demands.

Pointing out that rugby is not an Olympic sport, the IOF thus far has taken a hard line against the New Zealand squabble.

Nonetheless, the Down Unders are wondering if the IOF means what it says and if Canada will back up the Committee.

Early in the Republic of China dispute the chairman of the American section in the IOF gave out press releases indicating the U.S. might withhold entering its team if the ROC ban held up.

Before Lord Killanin, the IOF president, threw in the towel, the American chairman reversed himself. The potential political repercussion of withdrawal in an election year has to be considered as exerting some influence in the decision.

Just to frost the cake at Montreal, provincial and national security forces are preparing for possible demonstrations against Queen Elizabeth's opening of the ceremonies.

Strong French Canadian separatist groups in Quebec province object to her participation as symbolic of a foreign influence which over two centuries ago substituted British dominion for French rule.

Government is a necessary evil and so are those who run it.

It's too bad those in charge have to reach for absurdities to make their presence known.

Mandatory Sentences Working For Delaware

There is no better way to find out whether strict laws vigorously enforced can act as a deterrent to major crime than to put one on the books and try it out. Delaware has done just that regarding first degree robbery and the results show the word has gotten around.

Last August, a new law went into effect in Delaware requiring a mandatory minimum prison term of three years without probation or parole for anyone convicted of first degree robbery. To complement the law, the state's department of justice adopted a policy providing that only the top three legal officers of the state could approve a reduction in a first degree robbery charge.

That seems to seal effectively the escape hatch for anyone convicted of the crime. What of the results? During the first three months of 1975 — before the law became effective — armed robberies averaged 40 a month. In January, 1976, there were 31 armed robberies in the state. In February there were 18; in March, 15; and in April, 12.

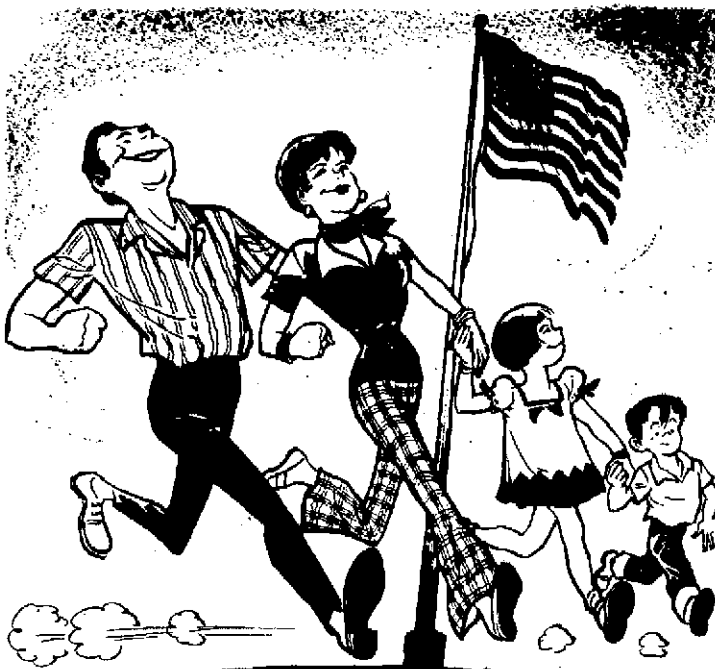

Lesser robbery charges — those not involving weapons — have continued to increase. The logical conclusion is that mandatory sentencing does dramatically reduce incidences of major crime, at least those in which premeditation is present. The state attorney general's office is drafting legislative proposals to extend minimum sentencing to include all forms of robbery.

Crime can be reduced, if would-be perpetrators decide they don't like the odds. In Delaware, the odds are becoming tougher.

SAYS JOBS BILL IS NOT NEEDED

Editor,
I continue to be concerned about the naivete expressed by people such as Secretary of State Austin who support the Humphrey-Hawkins Full employment bill.

Our company has many job openings which we cannot fill. Where are all these people who can't find a job?

If Secretary Austin would support a program whereby the government would help provide companies such as ours with the employees it needs, my concerns might be allayed. I can't, however, be impressed with the expenditure of taxpayer funds to provide jobs when many companies such as ours have job opportunities that remain unfilled.

Lawmaker Scores Pay Boost Plan

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A freshman legislator who returned a pay raise has blasted a leadership proposal to hike lawmakers' salaries next year.

Rep. Ed Fredricks, R-Holland, contended Monday that increasing legislative salaries would contribute to raising state taxes after the November election. He also said raising legislative salaries would force legislators to give salary boosts to department heads and other state workers, including their own employees.

"It's symbolic. When you get yourselves pay raises, how can you refuse it to the staff or department heads?" Fredricks asked. "One thing leads to another. It's a matter of having the moral authority to slow things up."

"There is no question in my mind that the same legislators who propose a pay hike now will ask for a tax increase after the November election to help pay for it," Fredricks said.

"With all of Michigan's financial problems, such as the high cost of doing business in this state, businesses leaving the state because of these high costs, the Single Business Tax, high unemployment, how can legislators justify a pay increase for themselves?" asked Fredricks, 34.

Legislative leaders of both parties said last week the state Officers' Compensation Commission should increase lawmakers' $19,000 salaries. Some suggested the boost should be to between $24,000 and $27,000 annually. The seven-member commission, which sets salaries for legislators, the governor, lieutenant governor and state Supreme Court justices, holds an organizational meeting July 19 in Lansing.

Some leaders also have called for boosting lawmakers' current expense allowance of $3,500.

Ray Crowley Campaign Donor Lists Intriguing

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The list of major contributors to President Ford's campaign is as different from Ronald Reagan's as Reagan's is from that of Jimmy Carter.

A sampling of the Ford big donors — those who gave $100 or more — reveals an unusually heavy backing by men and women who classify themselves as business executives or corporation officers — and housewives.

The number of those listed as retired also was unusually great in comparison with the comparable Reagan and Carter reports.

Further down the Ford list in numbers came lawyers and bankers and self-employed.

In my sample, there was even one major donor who classified himself as "unemployed."

By contrast, Reagan's lists included relatively large numbers of engineers and technical men, airline pilots, physicians and surgeons, small businessmen, government employees, ranchers and blue-collar workers.

And attorneys, editors and publishers and small radio station operators and owners, stock brokers, investment men, real estate developers, contractors and builders stood out in Jimmy Carter's reports.

Mr. Ford also seemed to be receiving support from a wider range of political funds than his two major rivals.

Typical were the American Bankers Political Action Committee, the Gas Employees Political Election Committee, the American Insurance Mens Political Action Committee, the Hawaiian Telephone Employees Good Government Fund and political funds sponsored by Standard Oil of Indiana, the Lockheed, Central Soya, Burlington, the Carpet and Rug Industry, Chevron (petroleum), Olin (chemicals), Union Carbide (chemicals) and East Ohio Gas Employees.

There are, of course, some clear reasons why the Ford, Carter and Reagan lists differ.

One of the top men in the real estate, development, construction business nationally said privately the other day that he and most of those he knew well in his field, would not support a Republican candidate for president in this election because of the way in which the Nixon and Ford administrations had treated the industry these past years.

Though it is certain this man had taken no poll, the sentiment he expressed no doubt accounts for the relatively low numbers of those in the Ford and Reagan big givers lists who classify themselves as being in the real estate, development or construction business and the frequency with which men in these fields appear in the Carter lists.

There have been reports of late of rumblings among government employees, bothered, it's said, by Mr. Ford's joining Carter and Reagan in downgrading the bureaucracy. There are indications, in fact, that this has hurt both Mr. Ford and Carter in the donor column — except, of course for donations by major Ford appointees. Curiously, however, Reagan's strong statements on the bureaucracy do not seem to have discouraged donors in that group.

Jeffrey Hunt Sportswriters Missing Mark

"Outlined against a blue-gray October sky, the Four Horsemen rode again. In dramatic lore they are known as Famine, Pestilence, Destruction and Death. These are only aliases. Their real names are Stuhldreier, Miller, Crowley and Layden."

That is the opening paragraph Grantland Rice wrote for his New York Sun article on the Notre Dame-Army game of 1924.

Not every sportswriter of that day was a Grantland Rice, but in reading their copy you always have the impression that the writers thought they were covering something important.

They actually tried to convey an impression of what took place on the football field or in the prize ring. Just why did certain plays begin to click in the third quarter? How was it that the fullback began to freeze the line-backer? Just how did the right fielder play his position in order to take into account the strengths and weaknesses of the opposing team?

Reading the sports pages today, you gather that the writers think of themselves either as entertainers or as sociologists or perhaps economic reporters.

We hear a great deal about complex contractual disputes, about the racial relations on the team, about the personality of Mr. Charles O. Finley. Coverage of what actually happens in the sporting event ranges from incompetent to dismal.

The fundamental question of what happened and why no longer seems to be answered.

I recall that when Jack Kramer badly beat Bobby Riggs on their first pro tour, Riggs told me that his major problem turned out to be Kramer's big American twist serve.

Kramer's fast serve did not bother Riggs, it was the twist, Riggs said, spun high and awkwardly to his backhand. He could not "hit over the ball." He had to slice the return. The result was that the ball "sat up" for Kramer coming to net. That is the sort of information a sports fan appreciates.

Who cares how much the Yankees attempted to pay for Vida Blue or what Bowie Kuhn's lawyers think?

I would like to know why Manuel Orantes of Spain swept through the tennis Open Tournament at Forest Hills last year and has not beaten anyone much since. The sports-writers are not telling us.

Bill Tilden once told me how the French beat him in a late 1920s Davis Cup match in Paris. For the French team, the tactical problem was Tilden's fast serve, but it occurred to them that the home team had to supply the balls. To neutralize Tilden's service, they simply kept the balls in an icebox under the stands, trotting out a nice new cold set periodically. With those icy tennis balls, Tilden could not have served an ace if he had been using a blowitzer.

Some say that TV has ruined sportswriting, and, psychologically speaking, they may have a point. It is obvious that the spoken commentary that goes along with the image on the tube is maddeningly trivial. People who must know a lot about what is taking place reduce themselves to chatty entertainers.

The same is true in the printed medium. If you have played a sport at a fairly advanced level, you know at once that the written report is thin and deceptive. Quite possibly sportswriters assume that many of their readers have seen the contest on the tube and, as writers, are demoralized by that assumption.

On the other hand, the impression is irresistible that many sportswriters do not think that sports, in themselves, are all that important.

Last year, David Shaw of the Los Angeles Times surveyed the sportswriting scene and very much liked what he saw. He reported with enthusiasm: "Racism, drugs, sex, religion, gambling, exploitation, cheating, feminism, dress styles, violence, anti-trust legislation — all these subjects, and many more, have been explored in detail on the sports pages in recent months."

Yes, and that may be a large part of the trouble. Too many sportswriters apparently wish they were covering something else.

Politics Takes Over The Olympic Games

Seventy years ago Baron Pierre de Coubertin, a French educator, persuaded nine nations to send track and field athletes for a revival of the ancient Greek Olympiad.

He reasoned that a worldwide mingling of athletes could promote education, culture and international understanding.

The modern Olympics continued to assemble each four years thereafter save for World War I's interruption of the 1916 convocation and World War II's cancellation of the 1940 and 1944 meetings.

The athletic span of events was enlarged in 1924 by adding the Winter Olympics.

The founding theory in the Olympics is the individual winner of an event, including second and third placements, not a team participation.

From the first revival, however, the sports writers sabotaged Coubertin's thinking by toting up each country's share of the gold, silver and bronze medals.

Thirty years after the Athens matches, Adolf Hitler punched a hole in the baron's premise about international understanding by an accelerated training program for German entrants. The Nazis' concentration on certain sports gave Germany the team victory at Berlin.

The Olympics recovered from that setback in earlier meetings after World War II, but the rise of the communism as the governing force in many countries and the emergence of former African colonies into statehood have pushed the Olympics infinitely farther backward than Hitler contrived to do.

Since 1964 the games have turned into ideological forums.

Rhodesia and South Africa have been blocked, at least partially, from participation in protest against their apartheid policies.

Four years ago two U.S. sprinters gave the Black Power salute from the winner's podium and Arab terrorists virtually wiped out the Israeli contingent by gunfire.

This year it is Canada's turn to sour the milk.

As the host country she has prevailed over strenuous protests from the International Olympics Committee in banning the Republic of China's athletes from competing under their own flag.

This bit of woozy statesmanship results from Red China demanding the Republic's ban as part of the deal between Ottawa and Peiping a few years wherein Canada dropped its diplomatic recognition of the Taiwan government in favor of Mao-tse-tung's mainland organization.

Still unresolved is a demand from Tanzania and Mauritius that New Zealand be barred from the Montreal spectacle which opens this Friday because the New Zealand rugby team plans to tour South Africa when the 1976 Olympics close.

The two African countries already have pulled their teams out of the competition and are calling upon the other black African nations to do likewise until Canada and the IOF meet their demands.

Pointing out that rugby is not an Olympic sport, the IOF thus far has taken a hard line against the New Zealand squabble.

Nonetheless, the Down Unders are wondering if the IOF means what it says and if Canada will back up the Committee.

Early in the Republic of China dispute the chairman of the American section in the IOF gave out press releases indicating the U.S. might withhold entering its team if the ROC ban held up.

Before Lord Killanin, the IOF president, threw in the towel, the American chairman reversed himself. The potential political repercussion of withdrawal in an election year has to be considered as exerting some influence in the decision.

Just to frost the cake at Montreal, provincial and national security forces are preparing for possible demonstrations against Queen Elizabeth's opening of the ceremonies.

W.H. Ehrenberg Has Heart Attack

Former St. Joseph Mayor William H. "Duke" Ehrenberg was reported in "stable" condition this morning in the intensive care unit at Memorial hospital after sustaining a heart attack Sunday. Mrs. Dorothy Ehrenberg said her husband was eating supper and watching television about 7 p.m. Sunday when he was stricken. He is 62. A son, James, from Valparaiso, Ind., who was visiting his parents, rushed his father to the hospital. Mrs. Ehrenberg said her husband had not complained of feeling ill prior to the attack and did not have a previous history of heart trouble. Ehrenberg has operated a service station at 220 Main street, St. Joseph, more than 40 years. He served on the city commission 21 years, with six as mayor, before retiring from the commission in 1972.

Riegle Plan Is New Cash For Elderly

By MARK RODIN
Staff Writer

Congressman Donald Riegle of Flint, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate, is advocating an "income maintenance" program for senior citizens. Speaking at the Benton Harbor Senior Citizens center yesterday afternoon, Riegle proposed supplementing Social Security payments to bring annual incomes for elderly single persons to $4,000.

He also proposed a $5,500 minimum for a married couple.

Riegle said the extra money would not come from Social Security funds, but rather from the federal treasury and administered through the Social Security system.

Riegle, who has served in Congress for 10 years, called the proposed income "income maintenance" program "the best investment our country can make today."

"We can't wait five years of ten years to see this happen," he added. "Some of you seniors won't be around."

Riegle, one of four contenders for the Democratic nomination, also spent Monday morning campaigning in Berrien county with stops in Buchanan and Niles.

He is opposed by Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, Congressman James G. O'Hara of Utica and James Leonard Elmsman, a Birmingham attorney.

Riegle also touched on his economic proposals, calling for expanding the nation's money supply, lowering interest rates and creating "emergency jobs" through the passage of federal public works to lower unemployment.

"Much of this problem is due to the fact we're in a planned recession where certain sectors of the economy have been shut down deliberately by the Nixon-Ford administration," he commented.

He supports the "concept" of the Humphrey-Hawkins bill, proposed federal legislation intended to cut unemployment to 3.5 per cent by 1980 and require the President to submit a master plan for economic growth.

Riegle advocates breaking up monopolies held by large oil companies and developing alternative sources of energy, especially from coal and the sun.

The congressman also wants "authoritative, tough, fair firm jawboning" from the President to labor and industry leaders as another method to curb inflation.

Court ordered busing is not favored by Riegle, but voluntary plans are.

Riegle said he does not favor court-ordered busing to achieve integration but supports voluntary plans. He said he prefers "upgrading and enriching" schools and compulsory spending for districts in poor areas.

Riegle considers Austin his prime opponent. But he said the secretary of state does not have "10 years of front line experience" in Congress, nor does he "appear to have legislative experience."

Parks Chief Named By Royaltan

The Royaltan township board last night appointed Milton Geisler, route 1, Berrien Springs, as township parks superintendent, according to Otto Jasper, township clerk.

Geisler is to be paid $3.25 an hour.

The board also voted to give township election inspectors a raise beginning with the Aug. 3 primary election. Inspectors will be paid $2.50 an hour instead of $2 an hour.

Trio Accused In Robbery Of BH Newspaper Girl

Benton Harbor police Monday arrested two juvenile boys and a man on charges of the unarmed robbery Saturday of a Benton Harbor city commissioner's daughter as she made collections for her newspaper route.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was Eric Jerome Williams, 17, of 166 Apple avenue, Benton Harbor. The two boys, 15 and 16, were lodged at the Berrien juvenile home and were to be petitioned to juvenile court.

Gayle Bolin, 12, daughter of Commissioner Arnold and Mrs. Bolin was robbed while riding her bicycle on Colfax avenue near Kline avenue about 8:15 p.m. Her collection bag was snatched by two youths on a bike but she was unhurt. No money was recovered, police reported.

Police said they believe several youths were involved, although not directly, and can be charged with the same offense under Michigan law.

Joseph Gets Right To Contest Recall

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns yesterday ruled Charles Joseph will be permitted to challenge election results which recalled him from office as Benton Harbor mayor.

But the judge also issued a strict warning in laying out a timetable for the challenge. "I'm not going to play games with this—there have been too many games played with this already and they're not going to be played in court," Byrns said from the bench.

Joseph, who was not in court, was granted leave to proceed "quo warranto," which is a legal procedure in which a private citizen must first get the court's permission to file a suit challenging election results.

An earlier suit filed on behalf of Joseph, which will now be filed quo warranto, contends the petitions seeking his recall were filed too early and asks the court to overturn the election results of the recall pertaining to Joseph. The matter hinges upon the court's ruling of whether Joseph was a legislative or "any other officer."

Byrns stressed that the Aug. 3 election in which Benton Harbor voters will elect a mayor and three city commissioners is not immediately affected by the granting of the quo warranto. However, he noted the results of the election regarding the mayor's position might be affected depending on the final decision in Joseph's case.

"It would be an abuse of discretion to refuse the leave to file quo warranto," Byrns said, noting "the public has a great interest in the legality of the election."

Pointing out that his ruling came on July 12, the judge threw a barb at the attorneys in the case, saying: "We're now back to where we should have been on May 17 when the action was first started."

"The whole question is whether Mr. Joseph was a legislative officer or some other type of officer—it's as simple as that," Byrns stated. He said that if leave to proceed quo warranto had been filed in May "we would have had a decision a long time ago."

The judge gave attorneys a timetable in which to file briefs on the case, and said a final decision should be reached by the end of October. Byrns said he had wanted to conclude the case before the Aug. 3 election "but I'm convinced we can't do that."

Counsel during the hearing were Atty. Alvin R. Davidson, of Kalamazoo, who recently was ordered by Byrns to remain on the case as Joseph's attorney even though Davidson had asked to withdraw, and Atty. Clinton Canady, III, of Lansing.

Canady will now represent only the city in the case, since both attorneys yesterday agreed to dismiss Acting City Clerk T.J. (Jack) Carter as a defendant.

Noting that Joseph had requested a Chicago attorney to assume the case on his behalf, Byrns said Joseph has until July 26 to get any attorney he wants, but said he must have at least one attorney who is already admitted to practice in Michigan.

BH ELKS HIT AGAIN: Berrien sheriff's officers are investigating second break-in in less than week at Benton Harbor Elks Lodge 544, Kerlikowski road, Hagar township. Officers said this hole in wall was made to gain access to safe in cooler area near bar. Reported stolen were more than $800 in cash from safe and cigarette machine and seven cartons of cigarettes. Officers discovered rear door kicked open while on routine patrol shortly before 4 a.m. today. Last Thursday another safe under bar was damaged, but not opened. Cigarettes, candy and beer were reported stolen at that time. (Staff photo)

BH Commission Adjourns Again Without Action

The Benton Harbor city commission again adjourned without taking any action last night because of the absence of Commissioner Helen Ford.

Mrs. Ford was attending a special meeting of the board of directors of Berrien County Action, Inc., where she was fired as executive director of the anti-poverty agency.

The remaining four commissioners—Arnold Bolin, Charles Yarbrough, Edmund Eaman and Alfred Williams—were present last night at city hall.

A quorum of five commissioners is required to conduct city business but the commission has been unable to get all five to attend a meeting since the May recall election of former Mayor Charles Joseph and three city commissioners.

Mrs. Ford has attended two meetings since the recall election, but at both meetings fellow Clean State Commissioner Williams has failed to show.

She appeared at last week's commission meeting but Commissioner Edmund Eaman was on a scheduled vacation and Commissioners Yarbrough and Williams were absent.

Ex-St. Joe Mayor Blasts Planners

St. Joseph city commissioners last night heard complaints about the planning commission from former City Mayor Tom Sparks.

Sparks voiced displeasure with the planning commission's recent approval of a lot split at 308 Wallace (northeast corner of Wallace and Lake Shore drive) near where he lives at 315 Kingsley avenue.

Sparks told the commission there is a "monster" of a traffic problem at that corner and that if a house were built on a vacant lot resulting from the split the traffic flow would increase. He said he was concerned because it will create more of a traffic problem near his home.

Sparks accused the planning commission of not studying the situation prior to making the decision. He said, "I'm an ardent supporter of the planning commission, but I challenge those on the planning commission to take a look at that lot split."

Sparks also said city residents are not made aware of when the planning commission meets or what is on their agenda. He also voiced concern that an unelected body such as the planning commission can make some decisions that concern all the residents without city commission approval.

City Manager Gerald W. Hepler said approval of lot splits that meet the proper requirements do not need city commission approval.

The lot split at 308 Wallace was requested by Doris E. Spica of that address. The commissioners approved a determination by the city's traffic engineer that all city traffic controls meet the city's uniform code.

City Atty. Arthur G. Preston said such approval was deemed necessary because the city receives money from the federal government for some street improvements. He said the federal government has not yet asked the city commission to make sure all the traffic controls meet requirements, but he anticipated the federal officials would eventually. Preston said Police Chief Tom Gillespie, who also acts as the city's traffic engineer, recently checked all the city's traffic controls (signs, signals, traffic lights, lane markings, etc.) to make sure they met the uniform traffic code.

The commission also directed Hepler to write letters to State Sen. Charles O. Zollar (R-Benton Harbor) and State Rep. Harry Gast Jr. (R-St. Joseph) in opposition to an amendment to a bill recently passed in the Senate. The bill provides that routine property repairs and maintenance shall not be used as a basis for increasing assessments except when part of a complete or major renovation.

The commission voiced opposition to an amendment to the bill that would exempt real estate broker fees which could cause a six to eight per cent cut in assessments and significant loss in local property tax revenues. The bill is headed for the house for approval of the amendment. The bill originated in the house.

Also last night: —The commission approved a recommendation from the planning commission to deny a request for a special use permit to convert a house at 2006 Morton avenue into medical offices. —The commission approved paying a total of $1,250 for 50 people to work during the state primary elections Aug. 3.

—Mayor Franklin Smith said he'd heard a number of people comment favorably about the city's Fourth of July activities and said the art fair over the weekend was a success. He said, "It's been a great (last) couple of weeks in St. Joseph as far as I'm concerned."

Drowned Man's Body Recovered

The nude body of a Jackson man who drowned in Lake Michigan was recovered Monday morning by Berrien sheriff's deputies south of where St. Joseph police believe he entered the water.

George Robert Simmons, 53, a native of Benton Harbor, was identified by his family after St. Joseph police located his car parked at Lion's Park beach Monday afternoon along with his clothing and began investigating. Dr. Richard Lininger, assistant Berrien medical examiner ruled death was caused by drowning.

St. Joseph police said there was no way to make a ruling whether the drowning was accidental or suicide.

Police said Archie Manning, 27, route 1, Watervliet, reported finding clothing near the water at the beach about 2:15 p.m. Police said a wallet with the clothing gave Simmons' identity and his car was located nearby.

Police said when they reported the incident to the St. Joseph Coast Guard, they learned the sheriff's deputies had recovered a body about 11 a.m.

Deputies said Mrs. Edward Founie, 5134 Notre Dame road, Stevensville, reported seeing a body on the beach near her home about 7 a.m. Deputies reported the body was located several miles farther south after it apparently washed back into the lake.

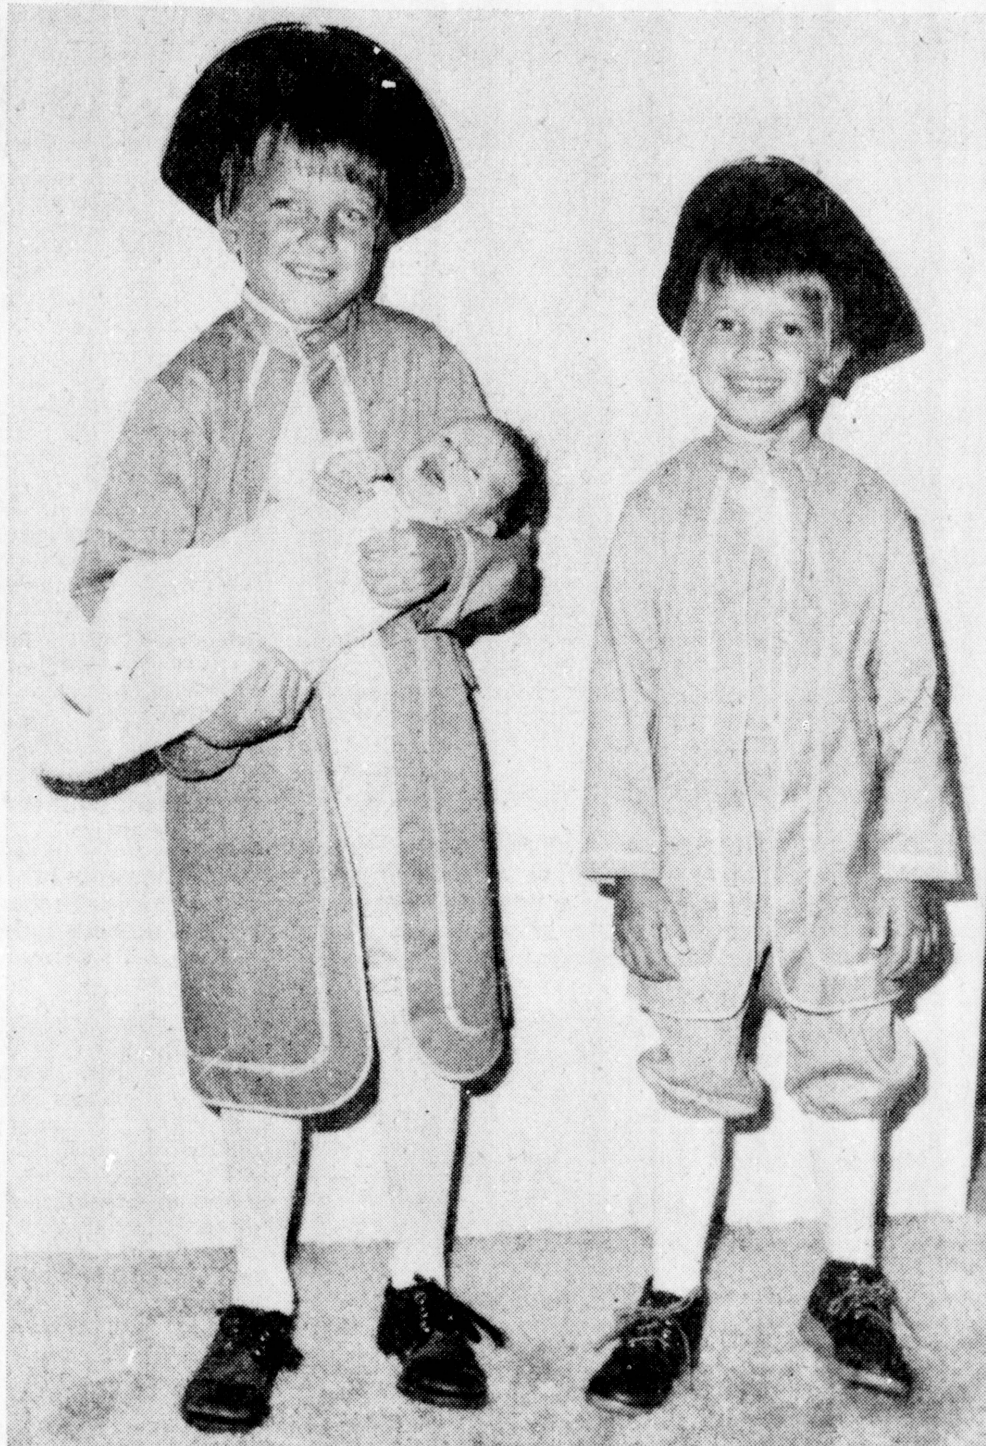

Positive identification was made by the family, police reported.

Police said the family last saw Simmons at his home about 1 p.m. Sunday.

Mr. Simmons was born Aug. 17, 1922, in Benton Harbor and was employed as a prison guard at Jackson prison.

Surviving are his widow, Honor, five children and his mother. Also surviving are three brothers and two sisters.

The body has been taken to the Vander Pool funeral home, Grand Rapids. Local arrangements were in charge of Kerley and Starks funeral home, St. Joseph.

The second and final weekend of performances by the Lakeshore Community Theatre of the "King and I," is scheduled Friday and Saturday, July 16 and 17.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. and the production is being presented on the stage of Lakeshore high school auditorium. Tickets will be available at the door and seating is limited.

Leading roles in the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical are being played by Lisa Hightower, Robert Vogie, Ilene Nemitz, Marilyn Hass, John Fetters, Bill Downey and Phil Eaton.

The next production of Lakeshore Community Theatre will be "West Side Story," which is scheduled Aug. 6 and 7 and Aug. 13 and 14.

SISTER LAKES

Philip King's farce, "See How They Run," opens Wednesday.

Beef Barons Myth

Years of television and movie westerns have created the image of American cattlemen as "Beef Barons," owning herds of thousands of animals which are driven to market by large crews of cowboys.

The image, however, doesn't quite match reality. Although there are a number of large cattle herds in existence, the owners of these herds are in the minority. Almost half of the total cow population is in herds of 50 animals or less. About two-thirds of the cow population is in herds of 100 animals or less.

To an urban resident, the idea of having 50 to 100 cows running around might seem like a lot of animals, but a herd of less than 100 animals would be lost in a TV or movie cattle roundup.

Cows are the basic unit of beef cattle operation as they produce the beef animals for market.

July 14, at Sister Lakes Playhouse, Sister Lakes, and will be presented through Sunday, July 18.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturdays and 7:30 p.m. Sundays. The playhouse offers a reserved seating policy.

Set in the English countryside in the late 1940s the realities of postwar Europe and the Berlin Blockade seem far away as soldiers, Russian spies and country vicars become embroiled in a fast-paced chase in and out of a quaint English vicarage, the home of Lionel Toop and his American wife, Penelope.

Directing the play is Eugene M. Wank. One of the owners of the playhouse, Wank last directed at the playhouse in 1968. In the interim, he has been living and working in London, England. A graduate of Oregon State university with the Ph.D. in theatre, Wank is originally from South Haven.

The cast includes Kris Naftel, John Andresen, Tom Nolan, Linda Kennedy Nemitz, Hal Vaughn Jr., Peggy Orosz, John F. Scott, Stanley Sparks and Dennis Sullivan.

BARN THEATRE

"The Ritz" continues into its second and final week at the Barn theatre in Augusta and will play through Sunday, July 18.

Following "The Ritz" on the Barn's schedule is the American comedy classic, "You Can't Take It With You," which opens for a single week on Tuesday, July 20.

Performances are at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; 7 and 9:45 p.m. Saturday and at 5 p.m. Sunday.

The setting is "The Ritz," a gay bath house in New York City, into which a Cleveland garbage collector has fled, chased by his murder-minded Mafia brother-in-law.

HOPE THEATRE

Hope Summer Repertory Theatre, Holland, will add to its repertory this weekend the classic and venerable American comedy "Arsenic and Old Lace."

Opening night for the comedy is Friday, July 9. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. and all performances are in the DeWitt Cultural Center.

"Arsenic and Old Lace" will run in repertory with "Fiddler on the Roof" and will be joined later in the season by "Dames at Sea" and "Of Mice and Men."

"Arsenic and Old Lace," a popular theatre piece since its opening in New York in 1941, captures the pretentious innocence of two charming Victorian spinsters. The ladies populate their cellar with the remains of socially and religiously "acceptable" roomers. The plot is complicated by their nephew who thinks himself to be Teddy Roosevelt. Another nephew and the preacher's daughter struggle with romance against the discovery of one of the aunts' victims.

THE CANTERBURY

"Born Yesterday," opens tonight at the Canterbury Summer Theatre in downtown Michigan City, Ind.

The comedy will be presented

ARTISTS' THEATRE: Among cast members of "Stew Mulligan's Hard Acts to Follow," a variety show which will be presented Friday and Saturday, July 16 and 17, are from left, Tom Winter; the puppet — Perkins Marble, and Paul Brohan. The show will be presented by the Artists' Theatre company at 8 p.m. both nights at St. Joseph high school auditorium.

through Saturday, July 17. Curtain times are 8 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday. A matinee is given at 2 p.m. Wednesday. All times are Central Daylight Savings Time.

The play tells the story of a girl intellectually "born yesterday" whose conscience stirs as her mind sharpens. The show was the outstanding comedy of the postwar Broadway stage.

TIN TREE

Three productions are being presented each week at the Tin Tree Theatre in New Buffalo.

"The Sound of Music" is presented each Wednesday at 2:30 and 8:45 p.m.

"Oklahoma" and "Carousel" play each weekend alternating days Thursday through Sunday. Curtain time is 8:45 p.m.

This week, "Oklahoma" will be presented Thursday and Friday and "Carousel" is planned Saturday and Sunday.

DUNES THEATRE

"The Odd Couple" is its second and final week of production at the Dunes Summer Theatre, Michiana Shores.

The comedy will be presented Wednesday, July 14, through Saturday, July 17. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. (CDST).

The play begins with a group of boys assembled for cards in the messy apartment of a divorced fellow. Late to arrive is another fellow, meticulous and tense, who, they learn, has just been separated from his wife. As it turns out, the slob bachelor and the meticulous bachelor decide to bunk together with hilarious results.

Next on the theatre schedule will be "Scapino," which will play July 21-24 and July 28-31.

CHERRY COUNTY

Vicki Lawrence is starring in "My Fat Friend," which will be presented at Cherry County Playhouse, Traverse City, through July 18.

Miss Lawrence of the "Carol Burnett Show" portrays a lovable overweight shopkeeper who loses her weight and her lover, but never her sense of humor.

Curtain times are 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; 6 and 9:45 p.m. Saturday; and 7:30 p.m. Sunday. A matinee is presented Wednesday at 2 p.m.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Who Nose What He'll Say

Dear Ann Landers: An aunt of mine is driving me crazy. I plan to be married in a few months. She thinks it is very important that I tell my fiancé I had rhinoplasty — better known as a nose job.

I don't think it's any of his business. Aunt Marcia insists that it would be unfair not to tell him. And wait till you get a load of the reason. She is afraid our children might be born with a schnozz like my old one and my husband would wonder who the father is. (I now have a little turned-up nose, and his nose is small also.)

What is your opinion of the situation? — Nobody Nose The Trouble I've Seen

Dear Trouble: The decision should be yours, but I see no reason for not telling him. After all, he fell in love with you, not your nose.

No Manners

Dear Ann Landers: My problem is a 19-year-old son. He has never been in any kind of trouble, works every day and pays board and room.

Things began to change around here last October when Phil took up with a 14-year-old girl. She looks 17, is very mature physically but not mentally. Phil is at Dolly's house every night of the week. They seldom go to a movie or out with friends. Their only interest is each other.

Dolly seems like a nice girl but she forgets to wash her hands before meals and never uses a napkin. When Phil tries to hold her chair to help her get seated, she says, "I'm not crippled. I can seat myself." (No manners whatsoever.)

Last week she asked for permission to stay here for the weekend while her parents were out of town. I said O.K. Ann, the girl didn't bring a thing with her, not even a toothbrush. She slept with my daughter who offered her a nightgown. Her reply was, "I hate those things."

Phil bought a camper and plans to take Dolly camping every weekend. I don't know what this girl's parents are thinking about. Will you please comment? — Plenty Worried

Dear P.L.: Phil has obviously gone gaga over this Dolly and there is nothing you can (or should) do about it. He is 19 — old enough to know his own mind — such as it is.

Your son should be aware, however, of the legal ramifications. In many states a 14-year-old girl is considered a child. Under certain circumstances he could get into legal trouble for contributing to her delinquency.

The girl sounds pathetically ignorant and completely without parental guidance. I hope Phil will assume the responsibility to see that his Dolly doesn't get pregnant.

Dear D.C.: I can't improve on your one-word answer. Thank you.

Chivalry Dead

Dear Ann Landers: Your column is a great escape valve for people who need to sound off. May I blow my top? Thank you.

Dear "Gentlemen" Commuters: Although you insist Women's Lib has killed chivalry, it doesn't mean good manners and common sense are also dead. How can you sit in that seat on the bus while a woman eight months pregnant

Dr. Lester Coleman

Both my father and grand-father had prostate operations. I am 35 and I'm concerned that this will also happen to me. Is there any way that this can be prevented? Is there any relationship between sex and the development of prostate trouble? — Mr. H.R., S.D.

Dear Mr. R.: There is no relationship between heredity and the development of prostate disorders.

Many men past middle age have some enlargement of the prostate gland. It is probably coincidence, rather than heredity, that two members of your family have had this condition.

There are some measures that men can take to prevent the progression of the enlargement of the prostate. The most important is a prostate examination as a regular part of a general physical examination. Only in this way can early evidences be discovered and early treatment be started.

There is no relationship between normal sexual patterns and the eventual enlargement of the prostate gland. In some instances of sexual overindulgence there may be temporary enlargement of the prostate gland. Untreated infections are considered by some to be a factor in the eventual development of prostatic difficulty.

There is enormous confusion about the prostate. One of the major misconceptions is that the prostate gland itself is responsible for the production of sperm. This is not true. The sperm is produced in the testicles and is carried in the fluid that is produced by the prostate.

Any changes in the normal pattern of urination should be brought to the attention of the doctor. Frequency of urination and the inability to empty the bladder may be evidence of prostatic enlargement.

With drugs and massage, the problem can usually be eliminated in younger men.

To live in fear that you will inevitably have prostate problems does you an emotional injustice. Discuss this with your doctor now.

My uncle has sarcoid disease of the lung. Is this the same as sarcoidosis of the bone that I read about? — Miss E.J., JR.

Dear Miss J.: They are totally unrelated. Sarcoidosis is a strange disease that resembles, but is not, tuberculosis. It, too, affects the lungs in particular. Sarcoid is a malignant tumor.

East and West have most of the high cards, but North and South have the spade suit and better distribution.

East and West can make four hearts while North and South can make four spades. When the hand was played in a rubber bridge game the bidding went as shown in the box. East and West got after diamonds in time to collect a diamond, two clubs and 100 points above the line, but North and South were very unhappy with the result.

North was mad because South had doubled five hearts, but had to take it out when South doubled.

South was mad because he felt that North had tried to bid both their hands and had managed to get to the wrong contract all by himself.

We have to agree with South on all counts. North might have bid in such manner as to get doubled at four spades, but North had sledgehammered his way right there.

South had heard all the bidding and decided that he was going to take three tricks against East. Hence his double.

Ask the Jacobys

A Connecticut reader wants to know the correct bid with: ♠ 7 9 8 7 6 ♦ Q 8 5 3 ♠ A Q 10 5. The bidding was opened one heart to your left; your partner bid two hearts and third hand passed.

Assuming that you are playing a standard system that your partner has shown a very strong hand you should bid three diamonds with every intention of making some further bid.

Plan Benefit Sale For AU Scholarships

BERRIEN SPRINGS — A flea market will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, July 18, in Johnson auditorium on the campus of Andrews university.

The public is invited.

Proceeds from the sale will go towards a scholarship for needy students. The senior class of 1978 decided to raise the $5,000 necessary for a scholarship as a gift to the university.

"So far, said David Zima, president of the class, "we have raised $2,500 for our gift. We've showed benefit films, held car washes and even sold root beer floats." Members of the class have also asked for donations from business friends and family.

The flea market will consist of community and university residents who will sell furniture, clothing, books, antiques and other items. Participants will donate a percentage of their profit to the senior class gift scholarship fund.

Golden Fruit Salad

Golden Fruit Salad makes an easy do-ahead-salad for summer buffets.

Drain canned cling peach halves, saving syrup. Place each peach cut-side down in custard cups. Add enough water to saved syrup to make one and three-fourths cups liquid. Heat to simmer, stir in one package (three ounces) lemon gelatin and two tablespoons lemon juice.

Chill until slightly thickened and spoon over peaches. Chill until firm. Unmold onto salad greens.

'Great Train Trip' Sunday

BERRIEN SPRINGS — William Stockdale will narrate his film, "The Great Train Trip — Across Siberia and Around the World," in a program at Johnson auditorium at Andrews university Sunday, July 18, at 8 p.m.

With animated titles and maps, William Stockdale starts his train trip at midnight in Springfield, Mass., rides the "Electric Scot" in London, takes the boat train to Paris, arrives in Warsaw on the "Bohemia" and finally sees Moscow aboard the "Moscow Express." He then crosses Siberia on the Trans-Siberian Express, arriving at the port city of Nakhodka. From there, he goes on to Japan, Canada and home.

Stockdale first came to public attention in 1949 during the course of a walk that took him across the United States. The trip was made over a period of seven months and served as source material for a series of newspaper articles. He was accompanied by his wife, Connie.

Free Films Friday

A variety of humorous films for youngsters will be shown free Friday, June 18, at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of the Benton Harbor public library.

They include "Clown," a tale of a shaggy dog named Clown who lives with a street urchin in France; "Fixer Uppers," a Laurel and Hardy film in which the boys try to make a husband jealous, and "Home Made Car," the story of a young man who puts together a car from scratch in a humorous fashion.

Interested children may still register for the Summer Reading program at the library, according to Carolyn Sutter, director.

New books added to the junior collection include "The Ancient Visitors," Daniel Cohen; "Cakes and Custard," Brian Alderson and "Wild Bill Hiccup's Riddle Book," Ann Bishop.

Pullman Events

PULLMAN — The monthly Penny Supper, sponsored by the Pullman Odd Fellow Lodge, will be held Saturday, July 17, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Odd Fellow Temple.

The public is invited.

PULLMAN — The Ladies Guild of the Pullman Congregational church will meet Monday, July 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the church Friendship room.

All area women are invited.

Last week she asked for permission to stay here for the weekend while her parents were out of town. I said O.K. Ann, the girl didn't bring a thing with her, not even a toothbrush. She slept with my daughter who offered her a nightgown. Her reply was, "I hate those things."

Phil bought a camper and plans to take Dolly camping every weekend. I don't know what this girl's parents are thinking about. Will you please comment? — Plenty Worried

Dear P.L.: Phil has obviously gone gaga over this Dolly and there is nothing you can (or should) do about it. He is 19 — old enough to know his own mind — such as it is.

Your son should be aware, however, of the legal ramifications. In many states a 14-year-old girl is considered a child. Under certain circumstances he could get into legal trouble for contributing to her delinquency.

The girl sounds pathetically ignorant and completely without parental guidance. I hope Phil will assume the responsibility to see that his Dolly doesn't get pregnant.

Chivalry Dead

Dear Ann Landers: Your column is a great escape valve for people who need to sound off. May I blow my top? Thank you.

stands, being jostled around for 45 minutes? Doesn't it bother you when a 60-plus, grand-motherly type faints from standing in a crowded aisle, in stifling heat, while you sit next to a breezy window? How do you think you look shoving women and children aside in your rush to get on the bus and grab a seat? If you don't know, I can tell you in a word. Lousy. — Turned Off In D.C.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Both my father and grandfather had prostate operations. I am 35 and I'm concerned that this will also happen to me. Is there any way that this can be prevented? Is there any relationship between sex and the development of prostate trouble? — Mr. H.R., S.D.

Dear Mr. R.: There is no relationship between heredity and the development of prostate disorders.

Many men past middle age have some enlargement of the prostate gland. It is probably coincidence, rather than heredity, that two members of your family have had this condition.

There are some measures that men can take to prevent the progression of the enlargement of the prostate. The most important is a prostate examination as a regular part of a general physical examination. Only in this way can early evidences be discovered and early treatment be started.

There is no relationship between normal sexual patterns and the eventual enlargement of the prostate gland. In some instances of sexual overindulgence there may be temporary enlargement of the prostate gland. Untreated infections are considered by some to be a factor in the eventual development of prostatic difficulty.

There is enormous confusion about the prostate. One of the major misconceptions is that the prostate gland itself is responsible for the production of sperm. This is not true. The sperm is produced in the testicles and is carried in the fluid that is produced by the prostate.

Any changes in the normal pattern of urination should be brought to the attention of the doctor. Frequency of urination and the inability to empty the bladder may be evidence of prostatic enlargement.

With drugs and massage, the problem can usually be eliminated in younger men. To live in fear that you will inevitably have prostate problems does you an emotional injustice. Discuss this with your doctor now.

My uncle has sarcoïd disease of the lung. Is this the same as sarcoïd of the bone that I read about? — Miss E.J., Ill.

Dear Miss J.: They are totally unrelated. Sarcoïdosis is a strange disease that resembles, but is not, tuberculosis. It, too, affects the lungs in particular. Sarcoïd is a malignant tumor.

Golden Fruit Salad

Golden Fruit Salad makes an easy do-ahead-salad for summer buffets.

Drain canned cling peach halves, saving syrup. Place each peach cut-side down in custard cups. Add enough water to saved syrup to make one and three-fourths cups liquid. Heat to simmer, stir in one package (three ounce) lemon gelatin and two tablespoons lemon juice.

Chill until slightly thickened and spoon over peaches. Chill until firm. Unmold onto salad greens.

Plan Benefit Sale For AU Scholarships

BERRIEN SPRINGS — A flea market will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, July 18, in Johnson auditorium on the campus of Andrews university.

The public is invited.

Proceeds from the sale will go towards a scholarship for needy students. The senior class of 1976 decided to raise the $5,000 necessary for a scholarship as a gift to the university.

"So far, said David Zima, president of the class, "we have raised $2,500 for our gift. We've showed benefit films, held car washes and even sold root beer floats." Members of the class have also asked for donations from business friends and family.

The flea market will consist of community and university residents who will sell furniture, clothing, books, antiques and other items. Participants will donate a percentage of their profit to the senior class gift scholarship fund.

'Great Train Trip' Sunday

BERRIEN SPRINGS — William Stockdale will narrate his film, "The Great Train Trip — Across Siberia and Around the World," in a program at Johnson auditorium at Andrews university Sunday, July 18, at 8 p.m.

With animated titles and maps, William Stockdale starts his train trip at midnight in Springfield, Mass., rides the "Electric Scot" in London, takes the boat train to Paris, arrives in Warsaw on the "Bohemia" and finally sees Moscow aboard the "Moscow Express." He then crosses Siberia on the Trans-Siberian Express, arriving at the port city of Nakhodka. From there, he goes on to Japan, Canada and home.

Stockdale first came to public attention in 1949 during the course of a walk that took him across the United States. The trip was made over a period of seven months and served as source material for a series of newspaper articles. He was accompanied by his wife, Connie, who had been promised a cross-country trip following her marriage to the fledgling journalist.

As a professional motion picture producer since 1950, Stockdale has specialized in filming and writing about unusual aspects of popular travel subjects. The films are spiced with a number of trips to less-traveled ports-of-call including Baja, California, Uganda and Brazil.

All programs for the summer concert series are open to the public. There is an admission charge.

Free Films Friday

A variety of humorous films for youngsters will be shown free Friday, June 16, at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of the Benton Harbor public library.

They include "Clown," a tale of a shaggy dog named Clown who lives with a street urchin in France; "Fixer Uppers," a Laurel and Hardy film in which the boys try to make a husband jealous, and "Home Made Car," the story of a young man who puts together a car from scratch in a humorous fashion.

Interested children may still register for the Summer Reading program at the library, according to Carolyn Sutter, director.

New books added to the junior collection include "The Ancient Visitors," Daniel Cohen; "Cakes and Custard," Brian Alderson and "Wild Bill Hiccup's Riddle Book," Ann Bishop.

Expert To Study PBB In State

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A cancer researcher who studies the effects of chemicals on humans will arrive in Michigan a week from today to lay the groundwork for an investigation of the toxic chemical PBB.

His study will provide "the first hard scientific data on the effect of PBB on humans," House Speaker Bobby Crim said Monday.

Crim said Dr. Irving Selikoff of Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York will arrive in Grand Rapids and will be accompanied by four doctors from the National Cancer Society and the National Institute of Environmental Health Science, which is footling the bills for the study.

The toxic fire retardant PBB, or polybrominated biphenyl, was accidentally mixed with livestock feed in 1973. There have been no scientific determinations on what short-term effects on humans it may have.

Crim said he expects to have data from the study by the time the legislature reconvenes in September.

The team's research headquarters will be Kent Community Hospital in Grand Rapids, Crim said. The Davison Democrat said the team will test people on farms who ate PBB-tainted meat and dairy products and a control group composed of those who were not exposed.

Crim also said a six-member Farmer's Advisory Council group will work with the researchers.

The members, chosen by Crim, are Rick Halbert of Battle Creek, a farmer and chemical engineer; Dr. Alfa Clark of McBain, a farmer and veterinarian; Gary Zuiderveen of Falmouth, a farmer; Mrs. David Curtis of West Branch, a farmer and nurse; James Gleason of Three Rivers, a farmer; and Richard Grabenmyer of Dowagiac, a farmer.

Selikoff's team will meet with state health and agriculture officials along with representatives of Michigan State University, the Food and Drug Administration and the Center for Disease Control, Crim said.

Selikoff will stay in Michigan for from four to six days, meeting with farmers around the state, Crim said.

Some farmers and legislators have criticized what they call state inaction on the problem and have been especially harsh towards agriculture department director B. Dale Ball.

A special panel appointed by

Gov. William Milliken has warned that PBB could cause cancer and birth defects in humans if consumed even in small quantities over a long period of time.

The panel recommending scrapping current federal guidelines that say food containing more than 300 parts per billion of PBB cannot be sold for human consumption. It suggested banning the sale of products containing any trace of the chemical.

KEEP TAKING THE MEDICINE!

Too often, people will stop taking a medicine because they think that an illness has disappeared. This can be harmful, especially in cases of children who are given anti-biotics to combat an infection. If your physician directs you to give a child a medicine four times a day for ten days, keep giving that prescription until it is all used up.

In studies where medicine was stopped before it was finished, over 20 per cent of the children showed lingering traces of infection, requiring another round of medication.

Self Defense Is Claimed In Shooting Of Three

DETROIT (AP) — A Troy man arrested Monday following the slayings of three reputed Detroit Mafia figures has admitted shooting the men, but said he was ambushed and acted in self-defense.

The man told police he was lured to the home of Frank "Rah Rah" Randazzo and when he went into the basement of the home was attacked by two other men.

Police Monday were granted a special writ allowing them to hold the man an additional 24 hours before presenting him for arraignment in the shooting deaths of Randazzo, 62, and Joseph Seragusa, 66, both of Detroit; and Nick Ditta, 69, of St. Clair Shores.

A second man arrested in connection with the shootings was released after questioning, police said.

Police found the bodies of Randazzo and Seragusa in the basement of Randazzo's home on Detroit's east side. Each had been shot in the chest.

Despite a chest wound, Ditta managed to climb the basement stairs and call an emergency police number to report the shootings. He died a short time later at St. John Hospital on the city's east side.

Police said Ditta was able to speak with officers before he died.

Police said the Troy man was arrested after appearing at a Madison Heights hospital for treatment of minor stab wounds and hospital officials called police.

Police said the man told hospital attendants he had been in a fight at Kensington and East Warren and had "killed someone." The Randazzo home is on Kensington.

Jean Randazzo, wife of one of the slain men, told police the man in custody owed money to her husband.

Randazzo was free on bond while appealing a 1975 conviction of income tax evasion.

He was named as a Mafia "section leader" in 1963 testimony before the Senate Rackets Committee. In 1969, a U.S. Senate crime probe said Randazzo operated "large-scale prostitution and vice activities" in downtown Detroit.

Police said Ditta was a known associate of reputed Mafia figures and had been arrested nearly two dozen times on charges including robbery, extortion, grand larceny and assault with intent to kill.

His only conviction aside from a traffic charge was for conspiracy to violate gambling laws for which he paid fines and court costs totaling $300.

Police said Seragusa was another associate of organized crime figures. He had not been arrested in the Detroit area, however, since 1939.

Emily Harris Trial Hears About 'Life On The Run'

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Emily Harris has told jurors a story of life on the run with Patricia Hearst — of a time when each day was lived "as if on the edge of a precipice" and death was waiting at every corner.

Miss Hearst herself escaped by hours — and by sheer luck — an appointment with death, Mrs. Harris revealed.

The 29-year-old Mrs. Harris' opening statement, delivered in the role of co-counsel, set the stage for prosecution testimony to begin today against her and her husband, William, charged with Miss Hearst with kidnapping, assault and robbery.

The 22-year-old newspaper heiress will be tried separately after sentencing on her San Francisco bank robbery conviction.

Miss Hearst's name arose frequently in Mrs. Harris' first account of their fugitive days.

She recalled the events of May 16, 1974:

"A freak chance happening" saved Miss Hearst's life, Mrs. Harris said — but for a twist of fate, the newspaper heiress also would have been killed in the fiery shootout on May 17, 1974, in which six Symbionese Liberation Army members were slain.

"Bill and I were going shopping," Mrs. Harris recalled. Patricia "Mizmoon" Soltysik, an SLA soldier, planned to accompany them.

"But at the last minute, she stayed home and Patricia Hearst stated a desire to come with us. That chance decision cost Mizmoon her life and saved Patricia Hearst from death."

Miss Soltysik died on her 28th birthday in a battle with police which left only charred remains of her body and those of five other SLA soldiers at the hideout Miss Hearst had left the day before.

Mrs. Harris, defending her husband and herself, said while on the shopping trip, Miss Hearst fired two machine guns without orders from them.

"In the course of these events, Bill and I never fired a shot. We never harmed anyone," she said, recounting how Miss Hearst opened fire on Mel's Sporting Goods store to cover the Harris' escape from an alleged shoplifting attempt.

"These events at Mel's were totally unexpected," she said, "and Patricia Hearst's resulting actions in firing of the automatic weapon were spontaneous."

"Patricia Hearst was not there to protect Bill or me. If anything, it was the reverse..."

Self Defense Is Claimed In Shooting Of Three

DETROIT (AP) — A Troy man arrested Monday following the slayings of three reputed Detroit Mafia figures has admitted shooting the men, but said he was ambushed and acted in self-defense.

The man told police he was lured to the home of Frank "Rah Rah" Randazzo and when he went into the basement of the home was attacked by two other men.

Police Monday were granted a special writ allowing them to hold the man an additional 24 hours before presenting him for arraignment in the shooting deaths of Randazzo, 62, and Joseph Seragusa, 66, both of Detroit; and Nick Ditta, 69, of St. Clair Shores.

A second man arrested in connection with the shootings was released after questioning, police said.

Police found the bodies of Randazzo and Seragusa in the basement of Randazzo's home on Detroit's east side. Each had been shot in the chest.

Despite a chest wound, Ditta managed to climb the basement stairs and call an emergency police number to report the shootings. He died a short time later at St. John Hospital on the city's east side.

Police said Ditta was able to speak with officers before he died.

Police said the Troy man was arrested after appearing at a Madison Heights hospital for treatment of minor stab wounds and hospital officials called police.

Police said the man told hospital attendants he had been in a fight at Kensington and East Warren and had "killed someone." The Randazzo home is on Kensington.

Jean Randazzo, wife of one of the slain men, told police the man in custody owed money to her husband.

Randazzo was free on bond while appealing a 1975 conviction of income tax evasion.

He was named as a Mafia "section leader" in 1963 testimony before the Senate Rackets Committee. In 1969, a U.S. Senate crime probe said Randazzo operated "large-scale prostitution and vice activities" in downtown Detroit.

Police said Ditta was a known associate of reputed Mafia figures and had been arrested nearly two dozen times on charges including robbery, extortion, grand larceny and assault with intent to kill.

His only conviction aside from a traffic charge was for conspiracy to violate gambling laws for which he paid fines and court costs totaling $300.

Police said Seragusa was another associate of organized crime figures. He had not been arrested in the Detroit area, however, since 1939.

Emily Harris Trial Hears About 'Life On The Run'

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Emily Harris has told jurors a story of life on the run with Patricia Hearst — of a time when each day was lived "as if on the edge of a precipice" and death was waiting at every corner.

Miss Hearst herself escaped by hours — and by sheer luck — an appointment with death, Mrs. Harris revealed.

The 29-year-old Mrs. Harris' opening statement, delivered in the role of co-counsel, set the stage for prosecution testimony to begin today against her and her husband, William, charged with Miss Hearst with kidnapping, assault and robbery.

The 22-year-old newspaper heiress will be tried separately after sentencing on her San Francisco bank robbery conviction.

Miss Hearst's name arose frequently in Mrs. Harris' first account of their fugitive days. She recalled the events of May 16, 1974.

"A freak chance happening" saved Miss Hearst's life, Mrs. Harris said — but for a twist of fate, the newspaper heiress also would have been killed in the fiery shootout on May 17, 1974, in which six Symbionese Liberation Army members were slain.

"Bill and I were going shopping," Mrs. Harris recalled. Patricia "Mizmoon" Soltysik, an SLA soldier, planned to accompany them.

"But at the last minute, she stayed home and Patricia Hearst stated a desire to come with us. That chance decision cost Mizmoon her life and saved Patricia Hearst from death."

Mrs. Harris, defending her husband and herself, said while on the shopping trip, Miss Hearst fired two machine guns without orders from them.

"In the course of these events, Bill and I never fired a shot. ... We never harmed anyone," she said, recounting how Miss Hearst opened fire on Mel's Sporting Goods store to cover the Harris' escape from an alleged shoplifting attempt.

"These events at Mel's were totally unexpected," she said, "and Patricia Hearst's resulting actions in firing of the automatic weapon were spontaneous."

"Patricia Hearst was not there to protect Bill or me. If anything, it was the reverse..."

Hometown Parishioners Pay For Gearhart's Body

WASHINGTON (AP) — The remains of Daniel Gearhart will be returned from Angola for burial, with parishioners from the mercenary's Maryland hometown church paying $5,000 to have the body shipped home.

Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., said Monday the "basic arrangements have been made" for the Angolans to send Gearhart's body home. But, he said, "it looks as though the body will not come up from Angola to Lisbon until later this week."

Parishioners of the Gearhart's church in suburban Kensington have guaranteed payment of the $5,000 demanded by Angola for the release of the body.

Gearhart's widow, Sheila, had said she could not raise the money, and that she and her four children are now on welfare. But she said she was determined to have her husband's body returned for burial.

Gearhart was killed by an Angolan firing squad last Saturday, his 11th wedding anniversary. He and three British mercenaries were executed for participating in the Angolan civil war.

Gearhart claimed he never had a chance to fight before being captured by Cuban troops, but the man who recruited him said Gearhart penetrated enemy territory, engaged in firefights and was commended by his British commander. He said Gearhart won a cash bonus, too.

Gearhart said before his death that he received three weeks' pay — $1,000 — on arrival in Angola last February. He said he asked that the money be sent to his family, but his wife says the money never arrived.

During his trial, Gearhart testified he was in Angola only a few days when captured and that he never fired his weapon.

Washtenaw Deputy Suspended

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Washtenaw County Sheriff Fred Postill has suspended one of his deputies indefinitely following a brawl between the two lawmen.

Deputy Basil Baysinger filed assault charges Monday against Postill with State Police. Baysinger charged Postill with assaulting him and his wife, claiming the sheriff drew his gun during the fight and threatened to shoot him.

The brawl, which occurred Sunday at a wedding reception, was broken up by the Chelsea Police Department.

Postill, who doctors said needed 14 stitches in his lower lip after the confrontation, said Baysinger wanted to talk to him at the reception. They couldn't hear each other over the music so they went outside, Postill said.

The sheriff said he criticized Baysinger for the way the deputy handled his job and was

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiations resumed Monday between the United Rubber Workers Union and the striking United Rubber Co. and the B.F. Goodrich Co.

About 80,000 URW members went on strike April 21 against Uniroyal, Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and the B.F. Goodrich Co.

The Chelsea police appeared on the scene about 10 minutes after the fight began. State Police at the Jackson post were investigating the matter. Washtenaw County Prosecutor William Delhey said a final state police report was due in his office this morning.

Drowning Victim

NEWBERRY, Mich. (AP) — The body of a 29-year-old Detroit man who drowned in the Tahquamenon Falls State Park was recovered Sunday, according to Lapeer County officials. Deputies said Tom McCaskey drowned over the weekend while attempting to retrieve a friend's shoe.

Detroit Club's Joke May Be A Rich One

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A lottery club that began as a joke will win a minimum $5,000 or maximum $200,000 for its 10 members in Thursday's super drawing.

The G.T.W. Funny Farm Ten Lottery Club of Detroit was formed by 10 Grand Trunk Western railroad employees as a lark — but its members will be "laughing all the way to the bank," a state lottery bureau spokesman said.

The lottery club is one of six contestants going after prizes of $200,000, $25,000, $15,000, $12,500, $10,000 and the $5,000 "comeback prize." The

During his trial, Gearhart testified he was in Angola only a few days when captured and that he never fired his weapon.

"It wasn't three or four days. Gearhart went over with me and we were there for several weeks before he was taken prisoner," said David Bufkin, 39, who said he advertised nationally for mercenaries to fight in Angola before deciding to go himself.

Bufkin said Monday that he didn't discuss Gearhart's participation before "because his defense was he hadn't fired a shot." Bufkin said he didn't want to compromise that position.

Bufkin, who works as a crop-duster, said he accompanied Gearhart to Angola, along with a number of other mercenaries he recruited, including Gary Acker, 21, of Sacramento, Calif., and Gus Grillo, 27, of Jersey City, N.J.

"Danny did a very good job and was commended by Cmdr. Peter MacAleese," Bufkin said. "It was a verbal commendation and was accompanied by a cash bonus. Mercenaries don't get medals. They get cash and a pat on the back."

The sheriff said he criticized Baysinger for the way the deputy handled his job and was joined by jail administrator Frank Donley. Donley and Baysinger then got involved in a shoving match, Postill said.

The sheriff said he tried to stop them and got "decked." Postill said when he returned to the reception hall he saw three people, including Baysinger, surrounding Donley and "putting the boots to him." Postill said he again tried to break up the fight and got hit a second time.

But Baysinger told authorities that Postill and Donley were trying to antagonize him because he is supporting one of Postill's opponents in the upcoming sheriff's election.

Baysinger said he told Postill he was not campaigning for any candidate during working hours. When the pair began to swear at him, Baysinger said, the argument moved outside.

Baysinger said he and his

Crop Outlook Offers Good News For Consumers

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1976 corn crop, vital for the production of much of the American food supply, is expected to be a record of more than 6.5 billion bushels, up 14 per cent from last year's bumper harvest, the Agriculture Department said Monday.

A senior USDA economist said the huge crop, which will be ready for harvest early this fall, will help dampen consumer food prices through 1977. Last year's crop of nearly 5.8 billion bushels, the record so far, has helped ease the food price spiral in 1976. Michigan's supply of corn will be an estimated 180 million bushels, with an anticipated per-acre yield of 80 bushels per acre, the government said. Michigan also is expected to grow 36.6 million bushels of winter wheat, for a yield of 38 bushels an acre, and 22.4 million bushels of durum wheat, for an average of 56 bushels per acre.

The department's Crop Reporting Board also estimated 1976 wheat production, based on July 1 crop surveys, at about 2.04 billion bushels.

Although 4 per cent smaller than the 1975 record of more than 2.1 billion bushels, this year's wheat harvest is the second largest in U.S. history and is expected to provide ample bread grain for domestic and foreign markets through most of next year. As livestock feed, corn is the most important grain for producing beef, pork, poultry and dairy products. It also is in great demand overseas, including the Soviet Union, as livestock feed.

The report said corn yields are expected to average 80.5 bushels per acre against an earlier projection of around 80 bushels. Last year the crop averaged 86.2 bushels per acre harvested. Don Paarlberg, USDA director of economics, said in an interview last week in anticipation of Monday's report that a 1976 corn crop in the range of 6.03 billion to 6.73 billion bushels would add significant muscle for holding down retail food prices through the coming year.

"If there is an increase in the retail price of food it is likely to come after the stuff leaves the farmer's gate," Paarlberg said. "But so far as the agricultural component of retail food prices is concerned, that looks to me as if it is likely to be stable or dampening rather than inflationary."

Paarlberg cautioned, however, that weather conditions through August will be crucial to the development of the corn crop as usual and that farmers will need at least normal rainfall before the crop can mature properly.

On the average, about 60 per cent of what consumers spend on food goes to middlemen who transport, process and sell it.

Property Taxes Are Called Unfair

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Property taxes are unfair to farmers, the elderly, and dedicated homeowners, said many of those who testified Monday at a public hearing.

The comments came at a hearing in the House chambers by the governor's Advisory Task Force on Property Tax Revision. Lt. Gov. James Daman is chairman.

"Our township is at the point of revolt," said Gary Barnett of Litchfield.

Barnett, who is running for township supervisor, said he owns 10 acres on which he's built his own home. "We experienced a 28 per cent increase in valuation this year and were told it will be 32 per cent next year. We are about ready to stop paying our property tax," he said.

He said under the "unfair" property tax laws, if he builds and maintains a home that outshines his neighbor's poorly-maintained residence, "I am penalized for it," through higher valuations.

He suggested property taxes no longer be used to finance education, adding state income tax should be used instead. "There's a chance I might pay more by the income tax but there'd be more people paying it," he said.

Calhoun County Commissioner Darol Bingley called the property tax "outmoded and obsolete."

David McMahon, president of the Michigan Education Association, called the property tax "unfair, unwise and unjust." He suggested it be kept but wants "drastic revisions."

McMahon suggested every school district in the state should have to levy the same property tax.

Local Stations Concerned

PBS Showdown Ahead?

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public broadcasting, buoyed by the promise of a bigger budget and long-term financing, remains deeply troubled over how its federal dollars should be spent.

The issue, which has been simmering since the early years of the Nixon administration, is called in the industry the centralists vs. the localists. What this means is that the public television and radio stations think they should be given more money to improve their equipment and their local programs; the federal establishment prefers to put most of its money into national programming.

The localities maintain that the latter approach seems to be aimed at development of another network, which is at variance with many public pronouncements about what the public broadcasting role should be. Both the House and the Senate have approved the concept of long-term financing, which public broadcasting has long advocated on the grounds that it is needed to plan programs a year or so in advance.

The Senate voted $188 million for the present fiscal year; the House voted $96.75 million, with the difference still to be resolved. The money voted by Congress is funneled through the Corporation for Public Broadcasting to more than 250 public television and some 170 public radio stations, and to the Public Broadcasting Service, which handles the distribution and technical processes.

One strong new personality entered the picture early this year: Lawrence K. Grossman, former vice president for advertising of NBC and for 10 years head of his own marketing and advertising firm in New York. He was regarded with some skepticism in the community, one federal source says, because of his background in commercial television and his connection with the Eastern establishment.

"He has exhibited a sophisticated concept of programming," this man says. "He has not forced his ideas down anyone's throat. He could be the first strong man in public broadcasting." Frederick Brightenfeld, executive director of the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting, agrees that the new president of PBS is intelligent, responsive, brilliant and interested in providing good service. But he has some reservations about the thrust. "Is the main question the local stations' strength, or is it in providing a broad national service," Brightenfeld said in a telephone interview.

"Larry believes the latter; many of us believe in the former. We see this as moving in the direction of a confrontation in programming."

State Demands Nuclear Dump Impact Report

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The State of Michigan will file suit if the federal government tries to locate a dump for nuclear wastes near Alpena without first preparing an environmental impact statement.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, who once served as Alpena city attorney, said Monday he has given formal notice to the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) of his intent to file such a suit if an environmental impact statement is not prepared.

"We want to put them on notice we will go to court if necessary. We have had one bad experience with the federal government already," said Stan Steinborn, Kelley's chief deputy.

The 1969 National Environmental Policy Act prohibits the Energy Administration from proceeding with such a significant federal action without advance preparation of "a detailed statement of environmental consequences," Kelley said.

He said in a letter to Robert Seamans, ERDA administrator, that Kelley would go to court, if necessary, to "restrain the creation of an A-dump in Michigan if ERDA attempts to proceed without an adequate advance study of potential environmental consequences."

Kelley said, however, he hoped ERDA "would fully comply with federal law without the necessity of legal action."

Kelley said the previous "bad experience" came in 1974 when the U.S. Forest Service ignored his warning to draft an environmental impact statement before attempting to spray the toxic herbicide "agent orange" near Bond Falls Basin in the Upper Peninsula. Kelley got a federal court injunction, which is still in effect, against the aerial spray.

Local Stations Concerned

PBS Showdown Ahead?

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public broadcasting, buoyed by the promise of a bigger budget and long-term financing, remains deeply troubled over how its federal dollars should be spent.

The issue, which has been simmering since the early years of the Nixon administration, is called in the industry the centralists vs. the localists. What this means is that the public television and radio stations think they should be given more money to improve their equipment and their local programs; the federal establishment prefers to put most of its money into national programming.

The localities maintain that the latter approach seems to be aimed at development of another network, which is at variance with many public pronouncements about what the public broadcasting role should be. Both the House and the Senate have approved the concept of long-term financing, which public broadcasting has long advocated on the grounds that it is needed to plan programs a year or so in advance.

The Senate voted $103 million for the present fiscal year; the House voted $96.75 million, with the difference still to be resolved. The money voted by Congress is funneled through the Corporation for Public Broadcasting to more than 250 public television and some 170 public radio stations, and to the Public Broadcasting Service, which handles the distribution and technical processes.

One strong new personality entered the picture early this year: Lawrence K. Grossman, former vice president for advertising of NBC and for 10 years head of his own marketing and advertising firm in New York. He was regarded with some skepticism in the community, one federal source says, because of his background in commercial television and his connection with the Eastern establishment.

"He has exhibited a sophisticated concept of programming," this man says. "He has not forced his ideas down anyone's throat. He could be the first strong man in public broadcasting." Frederick Brightfield, executive director of the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting, agrees that the new president of PBS is intelligent, responsive, brilliant and interested in providing good service. But he has some reservations about the thrust. "Is the main question the local stations' strength, or is it in providing a broad national service," Brightfield said in a telephone interview.

"Larry believes the latter; many of us believe in the former. We see this as moving in the direction of a confrontation in programming."

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, July 13, the 195th day of 1976. There are 171 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1863, rioting against the Civil War military draft broke out in New York City. Some 1,000 persons were killed in three days of disorders.

On this date: In 1787, Congress enacted an ordinance for the government of the Northwest Territory.

In 1822, the Greeks defeated the Turks at Thermopylae Pass in Greece.

In 1878, the Russo-Turkish War ended.

In 1919, the first dirigible to cross the Atlantic, Britain's R34, completed its round trip.

In 1960, a Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles nominated Sen. John F. Kennedy for president.

In 1974, the Senate Watergate Committee issued a final report in which it proposed a sweeping overhaul of the laws governing political campaigns.

Ten years ago: The United States disclosed that two Czechoslovak diplomats had tried to plant an electronic listening device in the State Department in Washington but were foiled by a department employee.

Five years ago: Firing squads in Morocco executed 10 army officers accused of trying to overthrow King Hassan.

One year ago: An American Apollo spacecraft began a countdown at Cape Canaveral for the first joint space mission with the Soviet Union.

Today's birthday: Broadcaster Dave Garraway is 63 years old.

Thought for today: Jumping to conclusions seldom leads to happy landings. — anonymous. Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, it was recorded that a copy of the American Declaration of Independence arrived in Providence, R. I.

State Demands Nuclear Dump Impact Report

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The State of Michigan will file suit if the federal government tries to locate a dump for nuclear wastes near Alpena without first preparing an environmental impact statement.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, who once served as Alpena city attorney, said Monday he has given formal notice to the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) of his intent to file such a suit if an environmental impact statement is not prepared.

"We want to put them on notice we will go to court if necessary. We have had one bad experience with the federal government already," said Stan Steinborn, Kelley's chief deputy.

The 1969 National Environmental Policy Act prohibits the Energy Administration from proceeding with such a significant federal action without advance preparation of "a detailed statement of environmental consequences," Kelley said.

He said in a letter to Robert Seamans, ERDA administrator, that Kelley would go to court, if necessary, to "restrain the creation of an A-dump in Michigan if ERDA attempts to proceed without an adequate advance study of potential environmental consequences."

Kelley said, however, he hoped ERDA "would fully comply with federal law without the necessity of legal action."

Kelley said the previous "bad experience" came in 1974 when the U.S. Forest Service ignored his warning to draft an environmental impact statement before attempting to spray the toxic herbicide "agent orange" near Bond Falls Basin in the Upper Peninsula. Kelley got a federal court injunction, which is still in effect, against the aerial spray.

Motive Sought In Slaying Spree

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — The picture of a quiet, clean-cut loner troubled over breaking up with a wife a bit younger than himself has emerged as authorities try to pinpoint the motive for a shooting spree that left seven persons dead and two wounded.

Edward Charles Allaway, 37, turned himself over to authorities shortly after he allegedly shot down nine persons Monday morning at the California State University at Fullerton library.

The shooting spree left bodies strewn throughout the basement of the library building. One policeman said later, "It was just too damn gruesome. It looked like Vietnam."

Authorities said Allaway, a custodian at the school, failed to report for his regular 6 a.m. shift but turned up about three hours later, allegedly carrying a rifle. "I'm gonna get you SOB's for messing around with my wife," Allaway purportedly shouted. Seconds later, he allegedly opened fire. Within five minutes, the nine victims were cut down.

Those killed were identified as Paul Herzberg, 41, of Pomona, an employee in the library's instructional media center; Donald Karges, 41, of Santa Fe Springs, a custodian; Bruce Jacobson, 32, of Pomona, a media center employee; Deborah Paulsen, 25, of Anaheim, a custodian; Stephen

Becker, 32, a library assistant; Seth Fessenden, 72, of Fullerton, a professor emeritus of speech communication; and Frank Teplansky, 51, of Anaheim, a media center graphic artist.

Listed in serious condition at St. Jude's Hospital, Fullerton, were Maynard Hoffman, 64, Fullerton, supervisor of custodial services; and Donald Keran, 55, Fullerton, a library employee.

"He was a quiet type," said Arnel Navarro, a chief custodian who said he had known Allaway since he was hired 18 months ago. "Whenever he went on a break, he would go alone. And he never seemed to eat lunch with anyone. He always seemed to want to be alone."

Navarro said Allaway "never cussed, had a good attendance record at work and was clean-cut."

Navarro added, however, that Allaway had been troubled for the past few weeks over the separation from his wife, Bonnie, 22. "He had a problem. He told me he had a family problem, and the last two days he worked he was awful hard to get along with."

Paw Paw Lake Safety Measure To Be Reviewed

WATERVLIET — An ordinance to control boating and water skiing on Paw Paw lake is going to be prepared for approval by the state's Department of Natural Resources, the Watervliet township board said last night. Clerk Barbara Tyler suggested the board review its 1960 ordinance on lake safety and send it to the DNR which would hold public hearings on the proposal.

Approval by the DNR is required before local marine enforcement agencies can enforce boating and skiing hours and speeds on the lake and its channels.

The 1960 lake safety ordinance has never gone through the DNR's public hearing procedure, township officials said.

Mrs. Tyler said Coloma township has a similar ordinance and the two governmental units had been advised by the marine patrol division of the Berrien county sheriff's department to work with the DNR in establishing common lake rules and regulations. The lake is bordered by both townships.

A recent July 4 boating accident on the lake highlighted the need for better safety measures, she explained to the board.

In other business, Robert Jackson, township representative to the Paw Paw Lake Improvement board, reported that a weed control program for the lake would be dropped for the summer.

Jackson said the contractor, Rocco Bertuca, Jr., had not received a performance bond for the work and had written the board he could not fulfill the contract for weed cutting and harvesting on the lake. He recommended the board let new bids sometime this summer so a contractor would be available to do the work for next year.

A low bid of $300 to repair the Hutton avenue seawall on Paw Paw lake was accepted from Walt Army, Coloma.

The board also voted to have three pilings removed at the Forest Beach public park at $30 each and to replace five fire lane signs throughout the township.

Biker, 11, Hurt When Hit By Car

MATTAWAN — An 11-year-old Mattawan boy was listed in fair condition today at Borgess hospital in Kalamazoo after being struck by a car at 11 last night while riding a bicycle near here.

State police at Paw Paw said Daniel Sutherland, route 1, Almena drive, was trying to cross CR-652 from a private drive when he was hit by a car driven by Geraldine L. Gokey, 37, rural Mattawan.

Mrs. Gokey told police she was unable to stop in time. She was not ticketed.

Bangor To Erect New Building probably meet its basic budget of $1,796,000 by using $30,000 in reserves, but had no money for another possible $145,000 in programs, including sports, three additional teachers, teacher insurance, teacher salary increases, band and other programs.

The last three extra-voted millage proposals have been defeated by voters. In the last school year, the district levied 25.88 mills for debt retirement and operations.

Also last night, the board voted to see what it can get from the sale of the two-room Breedsville school no longer used by the district. Any bids on purchase of the building, located in Breedsville village, will be opened in two months, board members said.

The board also announced it will appoint in February a committee to begin screening applicants for the job of superintendent.

The application of acting Supt. Frederick Stap will be considered. Stap was recently given a salary boost and his status as acting superintendent was extended until June 30, 1977.

Stap was appointed to the top administrator's chair after veteran Supt. Howard Beyer was dismissed from the job by the board which brought several charges against him.

Tuition rates for non-district residents attending the Bangor school next year were set by the board. The rates approved are $200 per semester for high school students and $200 yearly for students in kindergarten through eighth grades.

Bangor's Water Bills May Rise

BANGOR — An ordinance amendment that would raise city water rates was formally introduced before the Bangor city council last night.

The proposed amendment, which would bring a 50 per cent water hike to residential users and an estimated 80 per cent boost in water rates for commercial and industrial customers will be acted on by the council at its next meeting.

City officials have said the boost in rates is needed to help pay off some $455,000 in bonds sold in 1973 to finance water line and tower construction.

The base rates would go from $1 per 100 cubic feet for the first

5,000 cubic feet used to $1.50 per 100 cubic feet for the first 1,000 cubic feet used.

Also last night, the council voted to lease space for a cable television antenna and base station to Bangor Cablevision, for $200 yearly for 10 years. The firm is putting up a cable television system in the city.

The city council also approved a request by the Kiwanis club that it be allowed to stretch a banner across M-43 in the business district to announce an Aug. 11 corn roast being sponsored by the club. The request now goes to the state highway department for final approval.

Lawrence Gets Practice Field

LAWRENCE — The Lawrence school board last night accepted Carl Eliason's offer to allow the high school football team free use of land he owns as a practice field.

The board voted to provide Eliason with a written statement he requested freeing him of liability for any injuries which might occur as a result of football practice. The land is located adjacent to the west side of the elementary school.

In other areas, the board re-elected all its officers for the upcoming school year. Lester Zoodsma will continue as president, Robert Carpp as vice president, Rachel Garrod as secretary, and Lester Hagberg as treasurer.

The board voted to contract with the Klett Construction company, Hartford, to pave two tennis courts and a 40 by 60 foot playground area and parking area.

The firm had submitted the only bids for the projects. The tennis courts are to cost $2,395 of which the Lawrence Lions club is to pay $1,500.

The playground area will cost $3,700 a square yard. The playground includes a six-inch gravel base as well as 1 1/2 inches of asphalt.

The board voted to purchase home economics supplies next year from the Lawrence Hardware store.

Board members said the store had offered to sell supplies for $432 while a national catalogue supplier offers the same materials at a cost of $773.

Director Fired By BCA Board

county designation, but a member of the BCA board of directors, who asked not to be named, said there is a "good possibility" the county will designate BCA as its community action agency. The matter of designation had been tabled some time ago by the county board.

The firing of Mrs. Ford came almost two weeks after the board of directors in another special meeting had voted to retain Mrs. Ford as director by a 5 to 4 margin.

Mrs. Jefferson said the vote was by secret ballot, but a BCA board member who declined to be named said those voting to oust Mrs. Ford were Cecilia Burke, Melvin Farmer, Jr., Victor Greer, Harvey Robinson, Ken Platt, and Mrs. Jefferson. The source said members who voted to retain Mrs. Ford were Charles Joseph, Ruby Wynn, Edna Jones, and Nancy Christian.

The board is composed of 14 people, but Mrs. Jefferson said only a simple majority of those present was needed to fire Mrs. Ford. "The board has the privilege of hiring and firing the director," Mrs. Jefferson said. "She serves at the pleasure of the board."

She said the board of directors hopes to appoint an interim director at the July 21 meeting of BCA, noting there "are not presently" any candidates who appear to be in the forefront. "We will be looking for a permanent director," Mrs. Jefferson added, but pointed out the position must first be advertised and then interviews conducted.

Bridgman School Board Shifts One Principal, Hires Another

BRIDGMAN — One principal was reassigned and a second was appointed by the Bridgman school board last night.

The action followed the resignation of Mrs. Vickie Markavitch, Bridgman elementary school principal, effective Aug. 1. Mrs. Markavitch has accepted a position as director of special education for the Niles community schools.

Ted Tucker, currently Reed middle school principal, will replace Mrs. Markavitch as principal at the elementary school, the board said.

Named the new middle school principal was William Weirick, currently director of the shared-time consortium that includes six Berrien county school districts including Bridgman.

Weirick and Tucker will continue to be paid salaries of $21,500 and $20,950, respectively.

In other areas, Dr. David Lechner, superintendent, said that the district had an operating fund surplus from the 1975-76 school year of $102,314. The figure was included in a treasurer's report explained in detail in an executive session of the board held last night, Dr. Lechner said. The amount will be applied to the 1976-77 operating budget, he added.

The board approved a subsidy of $11,928 for the athletic department for the 1976-77 school year, as recommended by Douglas Hendricks, athletic director. Hendricks said the amount was an increase of some $5,000 over the 1975-76 school year, and said the hike was due to the addition of non-revenue sports, many in the girls' athletic program.

Buchanan Hearing Aug. 9 On Sewer, Curb Projects

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan city commission last night set an Aug. 9, 7:30 p.m. public hearing on special tax assessment rolls for storm sewers and curbs and gutters in the Rynearsen street-Liberty and gutters to be installed on 3,152 feet of Rynearsen and Liberty. Cost for curbs and gutters has been estimated at $17,688.

Assessments have been set at $5.67 per front foot.

Storm sewers will be installed on 2,883 feet along Rynearsen and Liberty. Estimated cost for that portion of the project is $25,918. Assessments have been set at $8.95 per front foot.

In related matters, the commission approved appointing a professional appraiser to appraise property on Rynearsen for a retention basin as part of the project.

The commission also received a letter from the Buchanan township board saying the board was not opposed to the retention basin, to be located within the city, as long as an outlet with a rate control device was installed in order to keep water from overflowing onto property located in the township.

In other areas, Robert Faulhaber, city manager, was instructed by the commission to contact advisors Cripps and Associates, Berrien Springs, to see if $7,500 for a senior citizens center included in a federal community development grant application could be rechanneled to other projects not yet specified. The commission said it had not been able to locate an adequate building in the city in which to locate the center.

The commission received a letter from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Wel-

Troopers Charge Kazoo Man

PAW PAW — State police here said a 19-year-old Kalamazoo youth was issued citations for making a false report and for failing to report an accident after he appeared at the post yesterday.

Troopers said Charles M. Lamb had originally told them he had been assaulted by a man and had his car stolen while attending a blue grass music festival at Edgewater park near Hartford early Saturday morning.

Police said the car was recovered from a pond near 54th avenue and CR-687 in rural Hartford early Saturday.

Troopers say Lamb told them yesterday that he was traveling west on 54th and that when he tried to halt at a stop sign, his brakes locked and his car skidded across the road into a pond.

$1,200 In Jewelry Missing

COLOMA — The theft of $1,200 in jewelry was reported to Coloma township police Monday afternoon by Debby Riddle, 5768 Mountain road.

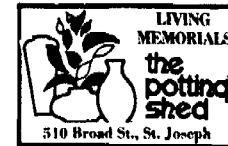

According to police, three rings, numerous earrings, bracelets and necklaces were reported missing from a jewelry box in a bedroom of her home.

Deliberate?

Benton Harbor firemen said two separate fires at the James Chambers home early today are believed to have been deliberately set.

Firemen said they found a fire in the living room that was started in a couch and a blaze that started in a bedroom closet of the home at 746 McAllister avenue. Damage was confined to the couch in the living room, but the other fire spread from the closet to the bed and a part of the bedroom wall.

Firemen said Chambers had not yet returned home from work when the fire was reported shortly after 1 a.m. No one else was home at the time. Damage was estimated at about $3,500 and the blaze is under investigation.

Motive Sought In Slaying Spree

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — The picture of a quiet, clean-cut loner troubled over breaking up with a wife a bit younger than himself has emerged as authorities try to pinpoint the motive for a shooting spree that left seven persons dead and two wounded.

Edward Charles Allaway, 37, turned himself over to authorities shortly after he allegedly shot down nine persons Monday morning at the California State University at Fullerton library. The shooting spree left bodies strewn throughout the basement of the library building. One policeman said later, "It was just too damn gruesome. It looked like Vietnam."

Authorities said Allaway, a custodian at the school, failed to report for his regular 6 a.m. shift but turned up about three hours later, allegedly carrying a rifle.

"I'm gonna get you SOB's for messing around with my wife," Allaway reportedly shouted. Seconds later, he allegedly opened fire. Within five minutes, the nine victims were cut down.

Those killed were identified as Paul Herzberg, 41, of Pomona, an employee in the library's instructional media center; Donald Karges, 41, of Santa Fe Springs, a custodian; Bruce Jacobson, 32, of Pomona, a media center employee; Deborah Paulsen, 25, of Anaheim, a custodian; Stephen

Becker, 32, a library assistant; Seth Fessenden, 72, of Fullerton, a professor emeritus of speech communication; and Frank Teplansky, 51, of Anaheim, a media center graphic artist.

Listed in serious condition at St. Jude's Hospital, Fullerton, were Maynard Hoffman, 64, Fullerton, supervisor of custodial services; and Donald Keran, 55, Fullerton, a library employee.

"He was a quiet type," said Amol Navarro, a chief custodian who said he had known Allaway since he was hired 18 months ago. "Whenever he went on a break, he would go alone. And he never seemed to eat lunch with anyone. He always seemed to want to be alone."

Navarro said Allaway "never cussed, had a good attendance record at work and was clean-cut."

Navarro added, however, that Allaway had been troubled for the past few weeks over the separation from his wife, Bonnie, 22. "He had a problem. He told me he had a family problem, and the last two days he worked he was awful hard to get along with."

Paw Paw Lake Safety Measure To Be Reviewed

WATERVLIET — An ordinance to control boating and water skiing on Paw Paw lake is going to be prepared for approval by the state's Department of Natural Resources, the Watervliet township board said last night. Clerk Barbara Tyler suggested the board review its 1960 ordinance on lake safety and send it to the DNR which would hold public hearings on the proposal.

Approval by the DNR is required before local marine enforcement agencies can enforce boating and skiing hours and speeds on the lake and its channels.

The 1960 lake safety ordinance has never gone through the DNR's public hearing procedure, township officials said.

Mrs. Tyler said Coloma township has a similar ordinance and the two governmental units had been advised by the marine patrol division of the Berrien county sheriff's department to work with the DNR in establishing common lake rules and regulations. The lake is bordered by both townships.

A recent July 4 boating accident on the lake highlighted the need for better safety measures, she explained to the board.

In other business, Robert Jackson, township representative to the Paw Paw Lake Improvement board, reported that a weed control program for the lake would be dropped for the summer.

Jackson said the contractor, Rocco Bertuca, Jr., had not received a performance bond for the work and had written the board he could not fulfill the contract for weed cutting and harvesting on the lake. He recommended the board let new bids sometime this summer so a contractor would be available to do the work for next year.

A low bid of $300 to repair the Hutton avenue seawall on Paw Paw lake was accepted from Walt Army, Coloma.

The board also voted to have three pilings removed at the Forest Beach public park at $30 each and to replace five fire lane signs throughout the township.

Bangor's Water Bills May Rise

BANGOR — An ordinance amendment that would raise city water rates was formally introduced before the Bangor city council last night.

The proposed amendment, which would bring a 50 per cent water hike to residential users and an estimated 80 per cent boost in water rates for commercial and industrial customers will be acted on by the council at its next meeting.

City officials have said the boost in rates is needed to help pay off some $455,000 in bonds sold in 1973 to finance water line and tower construction.

The base rates would go from $1 per 100 cubic feet for the first

5,000 cubic feet used to $1.50 per 100 cubic feet for the first 1,000 cubic feet used.

Also last night, the council voted to lease space for a cable television antenna and base station to Bangor Cablevision, for $200 yearly for 10 years. The firm is putting up a cable television system in the city.

The city council also approved a request by the Kiwanis club that it be allowed to stretch a banner across M-43 in the business district to announce an Aug. 11 corn roast being sponsored by the club. The request now goes to the state highway department for final approval.

Raises of $5 for election workers were approved. The election chairman will now be paid $40 and election workers $35.

The board set its annual visitation of schools for the morning of Oct. 6.

In a reorganizational session, Robert Roth was re-elected president of the board. Other officers elected or re-elected were Joseph Lozeau, vice president; Lewis Matthias, secretary, and Dorothy Mathieu, treasurer.

Buchanan Hearing Aug. 9 On Sewer, Curb Projects

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan city commission last night set an Aug. 9, 7:30 p.m. public hearing on special tax assessment rolls for storm sewers and gutters in the Rynearson street-Liberty avenue area.

Storm sewers will be installed on 2,883 feet along Rynearson and Liberty. Estimated cost for that portion of the project is $25,918. Assessments have been set at $8.95 per front foot.

In related matters, the commission approved appointing a professional appraiser to appraise property on Rynearson for a retention basin as part of the project.

The commission also received a letter from the Buchanan township board saying the board was not opposed to the retention basin, to be located within the city, as long as an outlet with a rate control device was installed in order to keep water from overflowing onto property located in the township.

In other areas, Robert Faulhaber, city manager, was instructed by the commission to contact advisors Cripps and Associates, Berrien Springs, to see if $7,500 for a senior citizens center included in a federal community development grant application could be rechanneled to other projects not yet specified. The commission said it had not been able to locate an adequate building in the city in which to locate the center.

Lawrence Gets Practice Field

LAWRENCE — The Lawrence school board last night accepted Carl Eliason's offer to allow the high school football team free use of land he owns as a practice field.

The board voted to provide Eliason with a written statement he requested freeing him of liability for any injuries which might occur as a result of football practice. The land is located adjacent to the west side of the elementary school.

In other areas, the board re-elected all its officers for the upcoming school year. Lester Zoodsma will continue as president, Robert Carrp as vice president, Rachel Garrod as secretary, and Lester Hagberg as treasurer.

The board voted to contract with the Klett Construction company, Hartford, to pave two tennis courts and a 40 by 60 foot playground area and parking area.

The firm had submitted the only bids for the projects.

The tennis courts are to cost $2,395 of which the Lawrence Lions club is to pay $1,500.

The playground area will cost $3,70 a square yard. The playground includes a six-inch gravel base as well as 1½-inches of asphalt.

The board voted to purchase home economics supplies next year from the Lawrence Hardware store.

Board members said the store had offered to sell supplies for $432 while a national catalogue supplier offers the same materials at a cost of $773.

Director Fired By BCA Board

The firing of Mrs. Ford came almost two weeks after the board of directors in another special meeting had voted to retain Mrs. Ford as director by a 5 to 4 margin.

Mrs. Jefferson said the vote was by secret ballot, but a BCA board member who declined to be named said those voting to oust Mrs. Ford were Cecilia Burke, Melvin Farmer, Jr., Victor Greer, Harvey Robinson, Ken Platt, and Mrs. Jefferson. The source said members who voted to retain Mrs. Ford were Charles Joseph, Ruby Wynn, Edna Jones, and Nancy Christian.

The board is composed of 14 people, but Mrs. Jefferson said only a simple majority of those present was needed to fire Mrs. Ford. "The board has the privilege of hiring and firing the director," Mrs. Jefferson said. "She serves at the pleasure of the board."

She said the board of directors hopes to appoint an interim director at the July 21 meeting of BCA, noting there "are not presently" any candidates who appear to be in the forefront. "We will be looking for a permanent director," Mrs. Jefferson added, but pointed out the position must first be advertised and then interviews conducted.

The last three extra-voted millage proposals have been defeated by voters. In the last school year, the district levied 25.88 mills for debt retirement and operations.

Also last night, the board voted to see what it can get from the sale of the two-room Breedsville school no longer used by the district. Any bids on purchase of the building, located in Breedsville village, will be opened in two months, board members said.

The board also announced it will appoint in February a committee to begin screening applicants for the job of superintendent.

The application of acting St. Frederick Stap will be considered. Stap was recently given a salary boost and his status as acting superintendent was extended until June 30, 1977.

Stap was appointed to the top administrator's chair after veteran Supt. Howard Beyer was dismissed from the job by the board which brought several charges against him.

Tuition rates for non-district residents attending the Bangor school next year were set by the board. The rates approved are $200 per semester for high school students and $200 yearly for students in kindergarten through eighth grades.

St. Joe Schools Superintendent's Pay Is Raised

The St. Joseph board of education last night voted 4 to 3 to approve a $1,000 salary increase for Supt. Burton R. Aldrich, who will receive $30,000 for the 1976-77 fiscal year. Business Manager Dennis Percy was unanimously granted a 6 per cent pay increase that moves his salary from $23,600 to $25,016. He also was included in the 3 per cent retirement program.

Dr. John Porritt, newly-elected trustee, sounded the opposition to a salary raise for the superintendent. Porritt said performance goals should be set for the superintendent and no salary increase or contract extension should be granted until set goals could be evaluated after the next school year. Porritt did not list specific goals.

Porritt said his opinion was based on his personal observation and public sentiment.

Also voting against the salary increase were Trustees Beverly Linn and Freda Sparks.

Supporting the raise without comment were Board President Ray Dunke, Vice President James Mason, Secretary Dr. Joseph Naines, and Treasurer John Pielemeier.

The board unanimously approved additional fringe benefits, but no direct pay raises for all principals in the district. However, principals got what amounts to a 5 per cent raise as the board voted to pay an additional 5 per cent toward their retirements. The board also authorized a managed sick leave plan offered through the Michigan Association of School Boards.

Board officers were elected and numerous reports and programs discussed during the marathon session at Upton junior high that ran six hours until 1 a.m. today.

All incumbent officers of the board were re-elected except the secretary. Naines was named to replace Mrs. Linda Griswold who did not seek re-election in June.

A report by Jerry Radenbaugh, chairman of a five-member task force, recommended that Milton junior high school be torn down at board expense and the site sold, leased or deeded to the City of St. Joseph for use as a park.

The board took no action, but indicated a decision would be made in about two months. The city has made no commitment on the task force recommendation, it was reported. The board earlier voted to close Milton school at Niles and Forest avenue and said last night the cost of tearing it down would be from $70,000 to $80,000. The school is on a 2½-acre site.

Other alternatives discussed by the task force, appointed by the board, were: raze the school and parcel land into seven lots for homes; raze the school and offer the land for a professional building; keep the structure for a municipal recreation center.

The board in other areas: —Voted to participate in and pay $1,500 toward the Business Education Council, sponsored by the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce. The program exposes students to varied business operations.

sponsored Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program.

—Approved rent for the 1976-77 school year of $2,750 for use of five rooms at First United Methodist church, St. Joseph. Rooms are used by the Gard school program.

—Voted to purchase a $6,342 cooking steamer for the high school kitchen, from Parrish Equipment Co., Benton Harbor.

—Authorized obtaining bids for sale of unused Royal school, Niles and Marquette Woods roads, after securing an appraisal.

—Authorized two social worker positions and hired Mrs. Shirley White of Three Oaks as teacher consultant in special education.

The board will hold regular meetings on the second Monday of each month. Other organizational matters included naming Peoples State bank, St. Joseph, as depository for district funds; and retaining the law firm of Thrun, Maatsch and Nordberg, Lansing, for bonding and election counsel.

The board decided against membership in the Berrien-Cass county school board association.

Gobles Elects Gilbert

GOBLES — Carl Gilbert was elected president of the Gobles school board during the board's reorganizational meeting last night.

Gilbert 42, was elected to the board in June, 1974. He was board vice president last year.

Gilbert and his wife, Virginia, have six children, and live on M-40, south of Gobles.

Gilbert replaces Karl Blaha, who was defeated in a bid for re-election to the board in the annual June school election.

Other officers elected or re-elected were Clyde Crawford, vice president, Mrs. Mary Sutherland, secretary, and Mrs. Linda Hurst, treasurer.

In other areas, the board approved transfer of two pieces of property from the Bloomingdale school district to the Gobles school district. The transfer was rejected by the Bloomingdale district last night and is pending before the Van Buren county intermediate school board.

The property is located on 38th avenue and the owners were identified by the board as Robert Stevens and James Lisowski. Lisowski's property is valued at $3,500 and transfer of seven children is involved. Stevens property is valued $1,800 and no students would be transferred.

The board voted to have a history teacher from outside the Gobles school system regrade one student's book report for a history class. Whether the student passes or fails the high school history class will depend on regrading of the report, the board said.

The board declined to name either the teacher or the student.

The matter grew out of parent complaints over why 35 of 91 juniors and seniors taking the required course the past school year had failed the class instructed by Byrl Bowman.

Elton Hansler, representing the Gobles Education Association, told the board the GEA was opposed to the regrading.

The board voted to continue to purchase student insurance coverage from the First Agency, Kalamazoo, at a cost of $2.79 per student for the 1976-77 school year. The board estimated the cost to be $3,000. Last year, the agency was paid $2.47 per student.

The board voted to pay the Michigan Association of School Boards $100 to help defray costs in court suits over maternity leave for teachers.

Says Ugandans Aided Hijackers

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — An American woman rescued by Israeli commandos from pro-Palestinian hijackers at an airport in Uganda says she believes Uganda was cooperating with the terrorists.

"It was all planned ahead of time," said Janet Almog, 26, when she reached home Monday. "There were clothes there for the terrorists on the plane."

Ilene Fox New Secretary Of BH School Board

The Benton Harbor board of education in its reorganizational meeting last night elected Mrs. Ilene Fox secretary to replace Philip McDonald who was defeated in the June school board election.

In other action, the board re-elected three incumbent officers and agreed to continue its meetings at 7 p.m. on the third Monday of each month. Contrary to last year when meetings were held at various area schools, all meetings will be held in the student commons area of Benton Harbor high school.

Other board officers are Edward E. Bentley, president; Frank Culby, vice president, and Mrs. Janet Scott, treasurer. Robert W. Payne, deputy superintendent for administrative service, was reappointed recording secretary.

Melvin Farmer, Jr., was elected legislative delegate to the Michigan Association of School Boards, and Mrs. Fox and newly-elected board member Arthur Crump were elected representative and alternate respectively to the Berrien-Cass School Boards Association. Mrs. Scott was also elected at Berrien-Cass School Board Association Task Force representative. Other organizational matters included reappointment of Atty. Rocco DeFrancesco as legal counsel for general service. Jacobs and Ward law firm, Kalamazoo, was reappointed counsel for labor relations, and the certified public accounting firm of Herkner, Smits, Miskill and Merrifield, St. Joseph, was reappointed to handle the district audit.

Berrien Springs Holding Playground Hours Daily

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien Springs parks and recreation department has announced it is holding daily playground activities for children ages 5 to 12 at the Indian Fields Grave park. Playground hours are 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The department will also offer beginning golf, tennis and swimming for adults and children. Residents needing more information should contact the recreation department at the Berrien Springs school district office.

Board Retains Officers

CASSOPOLIS — The Lewis Cass intermediate school board has retained the same officers for the 1976-77 school year.

Re-elected president of the five-member board at last night's reorganizational meeting was Robert Bainbridge of Marcellus. Mrs. Janet Pendergrass, of Dowagiac, continues as vice president, and Samuel Hansen, of Cassopolis, as treasurer.

In other action, the board approved overall salary increases for three categories of employees.

Administrative salaries are to go up four per cent and salaries for both teachers and non-certified employees are to increase five per cent.

The approval is an overall percentage and does not mean that every member of each group will get a raise of that percentage, according to Supt. Arthur Towle.

New individual salaries have not all been established yet, it was noted.

The board gave first reading to a new policy statement which if finally adopted would forbid full-time employees of the district from serving as members of school boards in the school districts making up the intermediate district without authorization by the intermediate board. The four districts are Dowagiac, Cassopolis, Marcellus and Edwardsburg.

The statement goes on to say that violation of this policy may result in the immediate dismissal of the employee. Since the policy will be after-the-fact, it will have no effect on the recent election of Ned Sutherland to the Dowagiac school board.

He is director of career education for the intermediate district.

Berrien Couple Wins Small Suit Against Big Telephone Utility

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

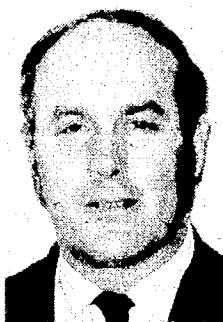

Walter and Karen Rudowski, of Berrien Springs, who spent $8 in fees to file a small claims court suit against a multi-million dollar public utility, won their case yesterday in Berrien District court. District Judge Leo Cook yesterday ordered Michigan Bell Telephone Co. to pay the Rudowskis $149.03 for interest they lost during a 17-year period because of telephone company overcharges. And Cook ordered the company to pay $8 court costs.

The Rudowskis, of Shawnee road, filed suit against the telephone company in the small claims division of District court, where legal representation is not allowed, Cook said. The judge heard the case June 28 and yesterday. Testifying for the company was Robert P. Fink, manager of the Benton Harbor office. He testified that from 1960 to 1975 the Rudowskis had been overcharged a total of $323.95. The company refunded the amount this year, when it learned of the mistake, Fink said.

Rudowski filed suit in order to get interest on the money, which he calculated was $196.34, but which Cook figured to be $149.03.

The Rudowskis "had the right to claim the money," Cook said after the trial. "Bell had the use of the money (in overcharges) all that time."

New Buffalo Sets Millage For Vote

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo school board last night set the property tax levy to be sought in a special election Aug. 30 at 16.612 mills.

That is the same amount school district voters rejected June 14 when it was offered in a two-part package.

The new proposal combines both the levies sought in June. If approved, the levy would run for three years.

It would raise about $710,000 toward the school districts budget of $1,572,813. That budget was set prior to the defeat of the first millage proposals.

The millage proposals sought in June asked for renewal of a 14.624-mill levy for three years and approval of a 1.988-mill levy for one year.

Income from the renewal was to have been used for school operations while income from the one-year levy was to have paid for repairs at the high school.

Approval from the county election scheduling committee for the Aug. 30 date was requested by the board on June 21.

However, the amount of millage to be sought in the second election was not revealed until last night.

Board members last night voted unanimously in setting the amount of millage and the election date.

In other areas, the board elected Charles Wilens as its president for the 1976-77 school year. He replaces Leo Mundi who was elected secretary for the upcoming year.

George Catlin was elected vice president and Howard Covert was elected treasurer.

The board cancelled its regular meeting scheduled for July 19 because the month's business had been acted on at last night's reorganization meeting.

The board voted to borrow $100,000 in anticipation of state aid. The loan is to be taken out from the Bank of Three Oaks, the only bidder, at an interest rate of 3.9 per cent.

It was also voted to seek approval from the state municipal finance commission to borrow another $200,000 in anticipation of local taxes.

The Bank of Three Oaks was chosen to provide a $28,830 five-year loan for the purchase of two 66-passenger school buses. That loan is to be repaid at 4.75 per cent.

No action was taken on a letter from Michael Oakes announcing his resignation as varsity basketball and junior varsity baseball coach. He said in the letter he is resigning for personal reasons but will remain as a high school teacher.

Two Deadbeat Dads Are Ordered Jailed

Two fathers who have made less than five child support payments each since 1974 were ordered jailed Monday in Berrien Circuit court, and three others were threatened with jail if they don't find or maintain employment.

Judge Chester J. Byrns held all five men in contempt of court for arrears totalling more than $9,200 and placed each on two years probation. Edward Pastrick, special investigator for the Berrien friend of the court's office, reported:

Scott Calder, of 707 Fourth street, Niles, was sentenced to 30 days in jail for $1,875 arrears for one child on ADC, and told to find work within 60 days of his release or he is to spend another 90 days in jail. Pastrick noted Calder has made only four payments since the order was entered in December, 1974.

Albert Sheppard, of 250 East Main street, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 10 days in jail for $1,500 arrears for one child on ADC, but Byrns told Sheppard he can avoid the jail term by paying $200 towards the arrearage. The judge also ordered Sheppard to sign a wage assignment of $25 weekly support plus $15 each week on the arrearage. Pastrick said Sheppard has made only three payments since December, 1974.

Paul Adams, of 801 Ferry street, Berrien Springs, was sentenced for $1,332 arrears for one child on ADC, and told to find work in 30 days or spend 60 days in jail. Byrns also told Adams to pay $25 weekly support and $5 weekly towards the arrearage. Pastrick said Adams has made only three support payments since June, 1975.

Harvesta Dickerson, of 258 South McCord street, Benton Harbor, received an almost identical sentence for $2,960 arrears for two children on ADC, but was ordered to sign a wage assignment of $48 weekly support and $5 each week on the arrears.

Robert Holley, of Kalamazoo, was sentenced to 60 days in jail, but Byrns waived the jail term providing Holley continues his employment. He was also told to pay $10 per week support and $40 weekly on the arrearage of $1,618 for one child on ADC. Pastrick added Holley has made $5 support payments since 1970, with the last payment in August, 1974.

New Watervliet Vote Aug. 30

WATERVLIET — A 1.15-mill property tax proposal will be resubmitted to Watervliet school district voters in an Aug. 30 special election approved by the Watervliet school board last night.

The one-year levy was defeated by 23 votes, 295 to 272, in the annual school election last month.

Supt. Samuel Gravitt said the district needs the extra money to avoid making cuts in the school programs and to offset rising operating costs.

The once-defeated extra millage is the first operational millage change sought by the school board since 1972 when the extra voted millage was reduced from 16 to 15 mills.

The 1.15 mills would raise about $35,000 locally and another $35,000 in state aid, Gravitt said.

The school's tentative budget for the 1976-77 school year is $2,083,744. If approved, the levy would boost the district's total 1976 rate to 26.207.

In other business, the board voted to recall 11 teachers who had been pinkslipped last spring due to uncertainty of available operational funds.

Gravitt said 13 teachers had originally been told their jobs were in jeopardy because of possible lack of funds. Two of those have since resigned.

Elected as board president during the board's annual reorganizational meeting was George Shane who served as vice president last year. W. E. Griffin, board president last year, did not seek re-election to a new term in the district's annual election in June.

Donald Goodrum was elected vice president, Mary Lou Long, secretary and Muriel Lord was elected treasurer.

The high bid of $403.99, for an old school bus, was accepted from the Flushing Bible Baptist church.

Horse Track Gets New Township OK

THREE OAKS — The Three Oaks township board last night for the second time approved a rezoning proposal to allow construction of a proposed horse racing track near here.

The board first approved the rezoning for a 400-acre tract on June 7. However, that action was held to be void because the proposal had not been first submitted to the Berrien county planning commission for its recommendation as required by law.

Supt. Alfred Hellenga said last night he delivered the rezoning request to the planning commission June 10. He said he was told that if he heard nothing on the matter within 30 days, the township board could assume the county planners would not object to the request.

The rezoning, first recommended by the township's zoning board May 24, changes the tract from residential and agricultural zoning to a planned unit development.

The site is located off US-12 southwest of Three Oaks.

However, before the $10 to $15 million track for thoroughbred and harness racing can be built, the state racing commission must give its approval.

In a related matter, Hellenga told Mrs. Eileen Green the board could not accept petitions she had submitted with the signatures of residents seeking a township-wide referendum on the race track zoning.

He said the petitions were submitted prior to the board legally approving the rezoning, and therefore would have to be resubmitted.

Mrs. Green said she planned to again circulate the petitions. Hellenga recommended they be completed and turned in no later than Tuesday, July 20, so that an election could be scheduled for Sept. 7.

Hellenga also noted he has received a letter from Arnold

Bolin, director of the Berrien county Council of Churches. The letter noted that the council's board of directors had voted to oppose the proposed race track because it has consistently opposed gambling in any form.

In other areas, Atty. Chalmers Ackerman told the board that the Three Oaks emergency vehicle association could seek payment of overdue ambulance bills through the small claims court.

Trustee Kenneth Williams said the association was having problems collecting several bills for ambulance service.

Hellenga said the township had been promised a federal grant for 75 per cent of the cost of installing storm drain tile in a new 20-acre section of Forest Lawn cemetery which is owned by the township.

The project cost was estimated at $1,720. The township would have to pay the remainder

Eau Claire To Try Again

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire school board last night decided to seek voter action in September on a one-year, two-mill property tax levy proposal. The board scheduled the special millage election for Sept. 7. Voters rejected a similar proposal in June when two-mills for three years were sought.

However, a renewal of a six-mill levy for three years was passed in that election. If approved, the additional two mills would raise about $35,000 locally, according to Dr. William Horie, superintendent.

That amount coupled with increased state aid might make it possible to rehire some of the remaining teachers laid off last March in an effort to cut costs, Dr. Horie said. If the additional millage is approved, the district's total levy in 1976 would be 34 mills, compared to 32 mills in 1975.

Because voters rejected the six mills, the board was able last night to rehire seven of the 15 teachers laid off in March, Dr. Horie said. Six of the remaining eight have indicated they want to return in the fall, he said.

In other areas during last night's annual reorganization meeting, the board re-elected its officers for the 1976-77 school year.

Reva Murphy will remain as president, William Renbarger as vice president, Bruce Dustin as secretary, and James Nichols as treasurer. Three new varsity coaches were appointed for the upcoming school year.

Tom Ferry Jr. was appointed head football coach. A physical education and science teacher, Ferry last year served as assistant football coach. Mathematics teacher Dick Sager was named head baseball coach. He had been coach of the junior varsity squad last year.

Tim Bergan, an English and reading teacher, was named head wrestling coach. He had been the assistant wrestling coach last year. The board approved an agreement to receive $10,688 in CE-TA funds through Jan. 31, 1977 to fund two non-certified jobs.

FRAZER TOURING DISTRICT

Candidate Turns To Camping

By RALPH LUTZ

David Frazer of Benton township, a Republican candidate for U.S. Representative from the Fourth District, said Monday there should be assistance for the needy — but,

"I don't like to see people using food stamps to buy $3-a-pound steaks," Frazer said. "I don't like to see people using food stamps to buy hamburger to feed their dogs," he added. He explained that you can't use food stamps to buy dog food.

Calling for reform of the food stamp program, Frazer said, "I don't intend to apply for them."

Frazer did apply for unemployment compensation July 2 after he was laid off as accounts manager in a plant-wide layoff at Benton Harbor Engineering, a division of Koehring Co. He said the first check should arrive about Friday.

On Monday, Frazer had a canoe with campaign sign atop his car and was preparing to take his wife and six children on a camping tour of the Fourth District.

"I want to reach the seven out of eight people in the (Fourth) district who didn't vote in the primary election two years ago," Frazer said the family will be camping in tents during the campaign swing.

Frazer called himself the first working man the Republican party has had as a Fourth District Congress candidate for many years. He decried voter apathy, but said it's hard to blame people for this, considering events in government recently.

Frazer said, "When I go to Washington, I'm going to have an 800 phone number installed in my office." The 800 series permits toll free calls.

He repeated Monday his other positions: the need to use more coal for energy and set national energy priorities; and more medical and dental schools are needed to alleviate shortages of these professional people.

Frazer and his family live at 1466 US-33 north.

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Walter and Karen Rudowske, of Berrien Springs, who spent $8 in fees to file a small claims court suit against a multi-million dollar public utility, won their case yesterday in Berrien District court. District Judge Leo Cook yesterday ordered Michigan Bell Telephone Co. to pay the Rudowskes $149.03 for interest they lost during a 17-year period because of telephone company overcharges. And Cook ordered the company to pay $8 court costs.

The Rudowskes, of Shawnee road, filed suit against the telephone company in the small claims division of District court, where legal representation is not allowed, Cook said. The judge heard the case June 28 and yesterday. Testifying for the company was Robert P. Fink, manager of the Benton Harbor office. He testified that from 1960 to 1975 the Rudowskes had been overcharged a total of $323.95. The company refunded the amount this year, when it learned of the mistake, Fink said. Rudowske filed suit in order to get interest on the money, which he calculated was $196.34, but which Cook figured to be $149.03.

The Rudowskes "had the right to claim the money," Cook said after the trial. "Bell had the use of the money (in overcharges) all that time."

Two Deadbeat Dads Are Ordered Jailed

Two fathers who have made less than five child support payments each since 1974 were ordered jailed Monday in Berrien Circuit court, and three others were threatened with jail if they don't find or maintain employment.

Judge Chester J. Byrns held all five men in contempt of court for arrears totalling more than $9,200 and placed each on two years probation. Edward Pastrick, special investigator for the Berrien friend of the court's office, reported:

Scott Calder, of 707 Fourth street, Niles, was sentenced to 30 days in jail for $1,875 arrears for one child on ADC, and told to find work within 60 days of his release or he is to spend another 60 days in jail. Pastrick noted Calder has made only four payments since the order was entered in December, 1974.

Albert Sheppard, of 250 East Main street, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 10 days in jail for $1,500 arrears for one child on ADC, but Byrns told Sheppard he can avoid the jail term by paying $200 towards the arrearage. The judge also ordered Sheppard to sign a wage assignment of $25 weekly support plus $15 each week on the arrearage. Pastrick said Sheppard has made only three payments since December, 1974.

Paul Adams, of 801 Ferry street, Berrien Springs, was sentenced for $1,332 arrears for one child on ADC, and told to find work in 30 days or spend 60 days in jail. Byrns also told Adams to pay $25 weekly support and $5 weekly towards the arrearage. Pastrick said Adams has made only three support payments since June, 1975.

Harvesta Dickinson, of 258 South McCord street, Benton Harbor, received an almost identical sentence for $2,960 arrears for two children on ADC, but was ordered to sign a wage assignment of $48 weekly support and $9 each week on the arrears.

Robert Holley, of Kalamazoo, was sentenced to 60 days in jail, but Byrns waived the jail term providing Holley continues his employment. He was also told to pay $10 per week support and $40 weekly on the arrearage of $1,618 for one child on ADC. Pastrick added Holley has made 85 support payments since 1970, with the last payment in August, 1974.

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire village council meeting last night was cancelled for lack of a quorum. A meeting has been scheduled for Monday, July 19, at 8 p.m. in the village hall, according to Carol Rumbaugh, deputy clerk.

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire school board last night decided to seek voter action in September on a one-year, two-mill property tax levy proposal. The board scheduled the special millage election for Sept. 7. Voters rejected a similar proposal in June when two-mills for three years were sought.

New Buffalo Sets Millage For Vote

CHARLES WILENS
New board president

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo school board last night set the property tax levy to be sought in a special election Aug. 30 at 16.612 mills.

That is the same amount school district voters rejected June 14 when it was offered in a two-part package.

The new proposal combines both the levies sought in June. If approved, the levy would run for three years.

It would raise about $710,000 toward the school districts budget of $1,572,813. That budget was set prior to the defeat of the first millage proposals.

The millage proposals sought in June asked for renewal of a 14.624-mill levy for three years and approval of a 1.988-mill levy for one year.

Income from the renewal was to have been used for school operations while income from the one-year levy was to have paid for repairs at the high school.

Approval from the county election scheduling committee for the Aug. 30 date was requested by the board on June 21.

However, the amount of millage to be sought in the second election was not revealed until last night.

Board members last night voted unanimously in setting the amount of millage and the election date.

In other areas, the board elected Charles Wilens as its president for the 1976-77 school year. He replaces Leo Mundt who was elected secretary for the upcoming year.

George Calnin was elected vice president and Howard Covert was elected treasurer.

The board cancelled its regular meeting scheduled for July 19 because the month's business had been acted on at last night's reorganization meeting.

The board voted to borrow $100,000 in anticipation of state aid. The loan is to be taken out from the Bank of Three Oaks, the only bidder, at an interest rate of 3.9 per cent.

It was also voted to seek approval from the state municipal finance commission to borrow another $200,000 in anticipation of local taxes.

The Bank of Three Oaks was chosen to provide a $26,830 five-year loan for the purchase of two 66-passenger school buses. That loan is to be repaid at 4.75 per cent.

No action was taken on a letter from Michael Oakes announcing his resignation as varsity basketball and junior varsity baseball coach. He said in the letter he is resigning for personal reasons but will remain as a high school teacher.

Horse Track Gets New Township OK

THREE OAKS — The Three Oaks township board last night for the second time approved a rezoning proposal to allow construction of a proposed horse racing track near here.

The board first approved the rezoning for a 480-acre tract on June 7. However, that action was held to be void because the proposal had not been first submitted to the Berrien county planning commission for its recommendation as required by law.

Supt. Alfred Hellenga said last night he delivered the rezoning request to the planning commission June 10. He said he was told that if he heard nothing on the matter within 30 days, the township board could assume the county planners would not object to the request.

The rezoning, first recommended by the township's zoning board May 24, changes the tract from residential and agricultural zoning to a planned

However, before the $10 to $15 million track for thoroughbred and harness racing can be built, the state racing commission must give its approval.

In a related matter, Hellenga told Mrs. Eileen Green the board could not accept petitions she had submitted with the signatures of residents seeking a township-wide referendum on the race track zoning.

Agreement Reached In Baseball Labor Dispute

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It seems only appropriate that after 13 months of haggling, peace should come to baseball in the City of Brotherly Love.

But, like any truce, the agreement reached Monday between the Major League Players Association and the Player Relations Committee had its price. Both sides gave ground to reach the settlement.

Although neither management nor the union would reveal any terms of the pact, these key elements of the four-year agreement were learned:

—A player will have the right to demand a trade after having played in the majors for five years. He will have a veto right over six clubs. If he is not traded, he will become a free agent.

—Players who become free agents, including those now governed by the Andy Messersmith decision, will be able to negotiate with a maximum of 12 teams, starting with the inverse order of the previous season standings.

Each club will be limited in the number of free agents it can sign, being permitted one if the free-agent pool totals one to 14. However, a club will be able to sign as many free agents as it might lose.

—The only compensation for a lost player will be draft choices. If one of the 12 lowest teams signs a player, it would lose its second choice in the next draft of college and high school players to the player's former team. If one of the top 12 teams signs a player, it would forfeit its No. 1 draft choice.

—Players can take their salary differences to arbitration as they did before the 1974 season. However, if a player is eligible to become a free agent, his salary dispute can go to arbitration only by mutual consent of the player and the club.

The players also had to agree to stay five years with their new teams once they exercised their free agent option.

The new contract also called for a 28 per cent increase in pension plan contributions by management.

But the pact did not solve baseball's "one-and-one" dilemma created when pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally won free agent status last winter under an arbitrator's decision after completing the 1975 season without signing contracts.

The 40 or so unsigned major league players still are considered to be "playing out their options," and unless they sign by October they will be free agents when the season ends. Other players who signed single or multi-year contracts may still exercise their options at the conclusion of those pacts, should they choose to move elsewhere.

The difference now, however, is that with an agreement, management has something of a deadline hanging over the players. Once they exercise or pass up that single option chance, the players will be tied to their teams for various lengths of time.

But, of course, that six-year point could be reached quickly for individual players, depending on when they came to the majors. So baseball still faces a situation which could find many players moving around freely every year.

That element and the continued 1-1 factor apparently has left some owners less than thrilled with the agreement which has the unanimous support of the Player Relations Committee and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The owners will meet Wednesday morning to consider the pact. The committee will recommend approval and the commissioner said he would support that recommendation.

"This is a constructive development for baseball," Kuhn said.

Approval of the pact would require 13 affirmative votes, a simple majority, from the 24 owners. There must be at least five positive votes from each league to pass the agreement.

The player representatives were almost unanimous in approving the agreement presented to them by Marvin Miller, executive director of the union. There was just one abstention in the 23 votes cast: Asked if this meant the labor dispute that delayed the start of spring training some 17 days was over, Miller said, "I believe so."

Ron LeFlore To Bat First

AL All-Stars Seeking To Halt NL Win Streak Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Speedy Ron LeFlore of the Detroit Tigers has been named to lead off for the American League in its bid to end the National League's four-game winning streak in Tuesday night's All-Star baseball game.

Johnson, manager of the Boston Red Sox, said Monday he would use LeFlore, normally a centerfielder, in left field. He will be followed in the lineup by first baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota and third baseman George Brett of Kansas City. Thurman Munson, the New York Yankee catcher, will bat fourth.

Boston's Fred Lynn will play centerfield and bat fifth, followed by Texas shortstop Toby Harrah, Detroit right fielder Rusty Staub and second baseman Bobby Grich of Baltimore. Tiger rookie Mark Fidrych will be Johnson's starting pitcher and bat ninth. President Ford will join 61,000 fans at Veteran Stadium who will attend the game, which will be viewed by a national television audience. The game will be broadcasted locally on channels 7 and 23.

THE WORLD OF Sports

Johnson picked his own player, Lynn, to play center field and moved LeFlore, a centerfielder, to left.

"In my opinion, Freddy Lynn is a better center fielder than Ron LeFlore," Johnson said after he announced his decision to shift LeFlore to left.

Johnson also said he picked Fidrych to start "because I think he's the best to get us started right."

"Why shouldn't I start him?" Johnson asked. "He knows how to pitch and he's well rested and they'll have six righthanded batters in the starting lineup."

"We'll see how they (the National League batters) feel after they get a look at this kid's low stuff," said Johnson.

Fidrych, who was bombarded by questions from newsmen Monday and had his own press conference, said he was not worried about facing the powerful NL lineup.

"I don't know who they are anyway," he said.

Johnson called "The Bird" a "fine pitcher" and predicted he would have no problems with catcher Munson of the Yankees. Earlier, Munson called Fidrych "bush" for his mound gyrations but Johnson said, "Whoever said Mark Fidrych is bush is full of beans. I am sure they will get along together."

National League Manager Sparky Anderson of the Cincinnati Reds named Cincinnati's Pete Rose, the NL third baseman, to bat first. He will be followed by Los Angeles first baseman Steve Garvey, second baseman Joe Morgan of the Reds and his teammate, centerfielder George Foster.

Jones, a sinker-ball specialist, has won 16 games at the All-Star break, a National League record. His last ball takes a long time to get to the plate, but he pitches fast games because he runs to and from the mound and seldom issues a walk. Jones won 20 last year and pitched 1 2/3 innings to gain a save in last year's All-Star game.

"I'm not at all embarrassed when people comment about how slow I throw," he said Monday. "If I do my job well, it will frustrate a hitter. On Astroturf, I have to be more careful. My success is all a matter of where I place the pitches."

Anderson said Foster had earned the cleanup job based on his performance for the Reds this season.

"I never heard of a 30-home run man batting seventh," he said, "but that's where we'll use Kingman."

Johnson shrugged off criticism of his selection of pitchers by Baltimore's Jim Palmer, who was left off the AL squad.

"When Jim Palmer gets to the point where he can manage an All-Star team, he can pick the pitchers and I'm sure he'll do an excellent job," Johnson said.

Mrs. Carner Wins Second Open Title

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "The first might have been luck. But when you win a second, you feel like a pro."

Such was JoAnne Carner's reaction after beating tiny but tough Sandra Palmer by two strokes Monday in their 18-hole playoff for the U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship.

It was Mrs. Carner's second Open title. She won in 1971, at Kahlwa Club in Erie, Pa. She became the fourth player in the history of the Open to win two or more times.

Mrs. Carner's victory wasn't exactly artistic. She blew a four-stroke lead with five holes to play, and came back to win with the help of an eight-foot birdie putt and a bogey by Miss Palmer on the 17th hole.

Her five-over-par 76 wasn't exactly the kind of score you expect from one of the game's great hitters in a clutch match. Fortunately for Mrs. Carner, however, Miss Palmer shot 78.

But artistic or not, it was good enough to win $9,000 for the 37-year-old Mrs. Carner, and more important the prestige of being Open champion. The Open is the women's most prestigious haul.

The 35-year-old Miss Palmer, who tied Mrs. Carner in the regulation 72-hole tournament when she rolled in a five-foot putt on the 18th green in Sunday's final round, took her defeat in stride.

"I had my chance and I turned around and gave it back to her," said the 5-foot-1 Miss Palmer, smallest player on the pro tour. "JoAnne is tough. That's why we call her 'Big Mama.'"

The two veteran women golfers each totaled eight-over-par 292s in the four-day tournament, which started with 130 in the field and was cut to 50 for the final two rounds.

Krumm Bids For Peace

Last Gasp Movement In Games Dispute

MONTREAL (AP) — Peace hopes in the great Olympics dispute rested today on the shoulders of Philip O. Krumm, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee and a man with a reputation for patching up other people's quarrels.

Krumm and his committee took over the role of mediators and became the central figures in the drama of the Taiwanese athletes who are shut out of Canada for political reasons.

The Americans were talking with the Canadian External Affairs Ministry in Ottawa and the Taiwanese officials in the Olympic Village in Montreal.

Olympic sources gave them a slim chance of success. But it was a last gasp effort to get the Taiwanese into the Games, opening Saturday, and to restore the battered image of the Olympic charter.

"We are working like the dickens to get both sides in this dispute to concede a little," Krumm said.

"The future of the Games depend on our success. Instead of friendly athletic competition between athletes, the Olympics have become a political contest between countries."

The International Olympic Committee (IOC) recognizes the national Olympic committee of Taiwan under the name of the Republic of China — a name which offends the Communist Chinese in Peking.

Canada, clearly concerned about its big wheat export trade with Peking, refused to allow the Taiwanese to enter the country unless they agreed to drop the "Republic of China" label and abandon their national flag.

The IOC executive board failed to make any impression on the Canadians. It tried asking the Taiwanese to march in the opening parade under the Olympic flag and the IOC insignia, but the Taiwanese said no.

Unless one side or another gives way, the Taiwanese will be the first athletes ever shut out of an Olympic host country because of politics. Krumm's men moved into the dispute after an appeal by President Ford in Washington.

Krumm, admitting no great progress was made in his peace moves Monday, said: "We shall be going back to both sides today, and we will aim to get some measure of agreement in time for the full session of the IOC."

The 75-strong IOC started a four-day session today. It will be called upon to approve recommendations of the executive board, which it usually does as a formality.

Detroit Lions Start Practice

ROCHESTER, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Lions training camp opened Monday and one unsigned rookie was on hand for the start.

A second unsigned rookie was reportedly on his way into camp, indicating both would sign contracts, the National Football League club said.

Appearing for opening day was unsigned second-round draft choice Ken Long, a guard from Purdue.

On his way into camp was fifth-round draft choice Stedman Scavella, a linebacker from the University of Miami.

A Lions spokesman said since no players are allowed to work out unless they have signed a contract, the arrivals were excellent indications the pair would soon agree to terms.

Coach Rick Forzano and his assistants sent a squad of about 40 players through a three-hour workout, with the full complement of 80 players due Wednesday. Participating in the early camp are second-year men, rookies and players coming back from injuries suffered last year.

The Lions said two players, 15th round draft choice Trent Smock, a wide receiver from Indiana, and free agent tight end Charles Douglass of the University of Missouri-Columbia, failed their physicals. Free agent quarterback Tim Lincecum failed to arrive, and 16th-round draft choice Craig McCurdy, a linebacker from William and Mary, left for personal reasons, the Lions said.

The third draftee who has not come to terms with the Lions is David Hill of Texas A and I. Hill, a tight end, is working out with college all stars in Chicago, preparing for a game with the Pittsburgh Steelers, winners of the last Super Bowl.

Also practicing in Chicago are top draft choice James Hunter, a defensive back from Grambling, and John Woodcock, a defensive tackle from Hawaii who was picked in the third round.

Denver Broncos Sign Players

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — Defensive end Barney Chavous and linebacker Joe Rizzo signed contracts Friday with the Denver Broncos of the National Football League, a team spokesman said.

Chavous, a 6-foot-3, 252-pound fourth-year player from South Carolina State, signed three one-year contracts. He has been a starter for Denver since his rookie season.

Rizzo, a 6-1, 220-pound third-year man from the Merchant Marine Academy, signed a one-year pact. Rizzo saw considerable action last season as an outside linebacker.

two-stroke edge over Tom Talkington of Ann Arbor who shot 70-75-145. Defending champion Tex Simon of Benton Harbor, head pro at Blossom Trails, shared fourth place with Wally Lasky of Coldwater. Simon posted 77-71-148 and Lasky 72-76-148.

Both were a stroke behind the 74-73-147 posted by Bill Wingo of Battle Creek.

The victory by Jawor followed by one day his election as president of the Michigan PGA Seniors Association. He became eligible for the post this summer by reaching his 50th birthday. His victory earned him $575 of the total purse of $2,500.

Ron LaParl of Battle Creek won the 55-59 year division with a 75-76-151 and Hal Whittington of Burr Oak led the 60-64 class with 78-72-150.

Eldon Briggs of Detroit won the 65-69 Class with 76-74-150 and Massie Miller of Howell beat Al Watrous of Birmingham for the 70 and over title by six strokes with his 81-82-163.

Openings At Bangor

BANGOR — Three head coaching positions have opened up at Bangor high school, athletic director Norm Johnson announced today.

The jobs open are for head varsity coaches in football, and boys and girls basketball. Bangor is also seeking a new girls junior varsity coach.

The openings came about when Terry Glidden left his football coaching job to become the cross country coach. Mike Witt resigned his basketball job to go into another line of work and girls basketball coach Karen Echelbarger left because of health reasons.

Bangor will be interviewing candidates for the positions from within its system and will also be accepting outside applications.

Agreement Reached In Baseball Labor Dispute

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It seems only appropriate that after 13 months of haggling, peace should come to baseball in the City of Brotherly Love.

But, like any truce, the agreement reached Monday between the Major League Players Association and the Player Relations Committee had its price. Both sides gave ground to reach the settlement.

Although neither management nor the union would reveal any terms of the pact, these key elements of the four-year agreement were learned:

—A player will have the right to demand a trade after having played in the majors for five years. He will have a veto right over six clubs. If he is not traded, he will become a free agent.

—Players who become free agents, including those now governed by the Andy Messersmith decision, will be able to negotiate with a maximum of 12 teams, starting with the inverse order of the previous season standings.

Each club will be limited in the number of free agents it can sign, being permitted one if the free-agent pool totals one to 14. However, a club will be able to sign as many free agents as it might lose.

—The only compensation for a lost player will be draft choices. If one of the 12 lowest teams signs a player, it would lose its second choice in the next draft of college and high school players to the player's former team. If one of the top 12 teams signs a player, it would forfeit its No. 1 draft choice.

—Players can take their salary differences to arbitration as they did before the 1974 season. However, if a player is eligible to become a free agent, his salary dispute can go to arbitration only by mutual consent of the player and the club.

The players also had to agree to stay five years with their new teams after they exercised their free agent option.

The new contract also called for a 29 per cent increase in pension plan contributions by management.

But the pact did not solve baseball's "one-and-one"

dilemma created when pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally won free agent status last winter under an arbitrator's decision after completing the 1975 season without signing contracts.

The 40 or so unsigned major league players still are considered to be "playing out their options," and unless they sign by October they will be free agents when the season ends. Other players who signed single or multi-year contracts may still exercise their options at the conclusion of those pacts, should they choose to move elsewhere.

The difference now, however, is that with an agreement, management has something of a deadline hanging over the players. Once they exercise or pass up that single option chance, the players will be tied to their teams for various lengths of time.

But, of course, that six-year point could be reached quickly for individual players, depending on when they came to the majors. So baseball still faces a situation which could find many players moving around freely every year.

That element and the continued 1-1 factor apparently has left some owners less than thrilled with the agreement which has the unanimous support of the Player Relations Committee and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The owners will meet Wednesday morning to consider the pact. The committee will recommend approval and the commissioner said he would support that recommendation.

"This is a constructive development for baseball," Kuhn said.

Approval of the pact would require 13 affirmative votes, a simple majority, from the 24 owners. There must be at least five positive votes from each league to pass the agreement.

The player representatives were almost unanimous in approving the agreement presented to them by Marvin Miller, executive director of the union. There was just one abstention in the 23 votes cast. Asked if this meant the labor dispute that delayed the start of spring training some 17 days was over, Miller said, "I believe so."

Ron LeFlore To Bat First

AL All-Stars Seeking To Halt NL Win Streak Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Speedy Ron LeFlore of the Detroit Tigers has been named to lead off for the American League in its bid to end the National League's four-game winning streak in Tuesday night's All-Star baseball game.

Johnson, manager of the Boston Red Sox, said Monday he would use LeFlore, normally a centerfielder, in left field. He will be followed in the lineup by first baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota and third baseman George Brett of Kansas City. Thurman Munson, the New York Yankee catcher, will bat fourth.

Boston's Fred Lynn will play centerfield and bat fifth.

fans at Veterans Stadium who will attend the game, which will be viewed by a national television audience. The game will be broadcasted locally on channels 7 and 28.

Johnson picked his own player, Lynn, to play center field and moved LeFlore, a centerfielder, to left.

"In my opinion, Freddy Lynn is a better center fielder than Ron LeFlore," Johnson said after he announced his decision to shift LeFlore to left.

Johnson also said he picked Fidrych to start "because I think he's the best to get us started right."

"Why shouldn't I start him?" Johnson asked. "He knows how to pitch and he's well rested and they'll have six righthanded batters in the starting lineup."

"We'll see how they (the National League batters) feel after they get a look at this kid's low stuff," said Johnson.

Fidrych, who was bombarded by questions from newsmen Monday and had his own press conference, said he was not worried about facing the powerful NL lineup.

"I don't know who they are anyway," he said.

Johnson called "The Bird" a "fine pitcher" and predicted he would have no problems with catcher Munson of the Yankees. Earlier, Munson called Fidrych "bush" for his mound gyrations but Johnson said, "Whoever said Mark Fidrych is bush is full of beans. I am sure they will get along together."

National League Manager Sparky Anderson of the Cincinnati Reds named Cincinnati's Pete Rose, the NL third baseman, to bat first. He will be followed by Los Angeles first baseman Steve Garvey, second baseman Joe Morgan of the Reds and his teammate, centerfielder George Foster.

Jones, a sinker-ball specialist, has won 16 games at the All-Star break, a National League record. His fast ball takes a long time to get to the plate, but he pitches fast games because he runs to and from the mound and seldom issues a walk. Jones won 20 last year and pitched 1 2/3 innings to gain a save in last year's All-Star game.

"I'm not at all embarrassed when people comment about how slow I throw," he said Monday. "If I do my job well, it will frustrate a hitter. On Astro turf, I have to be more careful. My success is all a matter of where I place the pitches."

Anderson said Foster had earned the cleanup job based on his performance for the Reds this season.

"I never heard of a 30-home run man batting seventh," he said, "but that's where we'll use Kingman."

Johnson shrugged off criticism of his selection of pitchers by Baltimore's Jim Palmer, who was left off the AL squad.

"When Jim Palmer gets to the point where he can manage an All-Star team, he can pick the pitchers and I'm sure he'll do an excellent job," Johnson said.

Israelis Feel Free At Olympic Village

MONTREAL (AP) — The gallant Israelis are walking the foot paths of Olympic Village and the streets of Montreal without looking over their shoulders.

"The attitude of the entire team is one of complete freedom," said Schmuel Lalkin, the team's chef de mission. "I find no tenseness, no concern at all."

"Certainly memories of Munich four years ago are still indelibly with us, but no one is afraid. After all, if you want to find somebody, you'll find him. You can't hide."

Lalkin, a handsome man in his 50s with graying hair and a thin mustache was in room 5 on the second floor of the Israeli headquarters when a band of Arab terrorists invaded the premises at the height of the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich. He was one of the few who escaped.

Before the long ordeal was ended that fateful day, Sept. 5, 1972, 11 members of the Israeli team, five of the terrorists and a Munich policeman lay dead.

It was one of the grim tragedies of sports. "We took an oath four years ago to return," Lalkin said. "And here we are."

The Israelis, instead of retreating, brought a much larger and stronger team numbering half a hundred athletes and administrative personnel. Lalkin praised the security provided by Montreal organizers.

"It's the best I have seen at any Olympics," he said.

Three hours after flag-raising ceremonies at the Village, the Israelis attended a memorial service at a Montreal synagogue for the Israeli martyrs of Munich. Five thousand jammed the synagogue for the moving ceremony.

Neat in white suits and blue shirts, they listened to a reading of selected passages from the Psalms by Canada's Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and a ringing commemorative address by Rabbi W. Gunther Plaut of Toronto.

"There must be no nation in the world left to give succor to those who hold others hostage at the point of a gun and the thrust of a bomb," the rabbi said. "And, if there is, let the rest of the nations shun it like the plague."

Rams Start Camp Despite Violence Shootings Don't Halt LA

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Chuck Knox agreed it was not the typical way to open a pro football camp. But the Los Angeles Rams' coach refused to cancel the workout despite the shooting deaths of seven persons a few yards from the practice field.

As Knox, his coaching staff and the 61 players who had reported to the National Football League team's camp were preparing for their first workout Monday morning at California State University-Fullerton, a security guard barged into the locker room and ordered them to "stay put."

The guard told Knox a "lunatic" gunman had just gone on a five-minute shooting spree in the school library and killed an unknown number of persons. He cautioned that the suspect was still loose and armed and that the Rams should not leave the locker room until the gunman had been apprehended.

Knox took the news calmly.

waited a few minutes, then ordered the club onto the field.

Campus police then approached the Rams' coach and told him to clear the football field. Again Knox refused.

"We'd walked through the area where the violence had occurred to get to the field and I didn't see any sense in walking back through it again," Knox said. "I felt we were much better off on the field doing what we're supposed to do."

He insisted the shootings, in which seven persons died and two others were critically injured, did not affect the club's practice session.

"We heard a lot of talk about it and saw a lot of people scurrying around," said a club spokesman, "but we didn't actually see or hear the shootings. It happened just a short distance from where we were, but as for our involvement in it, it could have happened at another school 20 miles away."

Coach Knox made the right decision in sending the team out to practice. The players would have been more upset if he hadn't, talking about the violence and all.

Knox said the workout went smoothly.

"It was a real good session," he said. "The players were all very enthusiastic. If anyone was bothered by the violence, they didn't show it."

Less than an hour after the shootings, officers arrested 37-year-old library custodian Edward Charles Allaway on suspicion of murder.

'Pro' Soccer Stars Facing Amateurs

MONTREAL (AP) — Five days before the start of the Olympics, the gold medal for hypocrisy already has a cinch winner: it goes to the Soviet Union, and two Bloc buddies, East Germany and Poland, who have sent their greatest state-professional soccer stars to tear up the amateur kids at the Olympic tournament.

The Russian team includes Oleg Blokhin, the blond forward who was last year's European Player of the Year. He passes for an amateur here, with 10 of his Dynamo Kiev teammates, but Blokhin is roughly the equivalent of a Rick Barry or a Julius Erving, and by Western notions as much a professional as Leonid Brezhnev is a politician.

Blokhin and his friends, who normally play only against the rest of the world's best pros, East Germany and 10 of its players who beat world champion West Germany in the last World Cup, and Poland, with a lineup that includes 12 players from its third place 1974 World Cup squad, will be playing against the mild and the meek of Korea, Zambia, Iran, etc. in the 16-team tournament.

Against the Eastern Europeans, the matchups will make all the sense of the Boston Celtics taking on the Garfield Road Grade School.

London's Daily Mail called the tournament "Montreal's soccer sham" and Munich's Sueddeutsche Zeitung said it was "a farce." Neither Britain nor West Germany, two of the great soccer powers, have a team in competition, with the British going as far as refusing to use the word amateur in connection with any of their soccer players because, they say, there just aren't any.

But the Eastern Europeans insist their players are not professionals. Yet they live remarkably well — Blokhin has been shown in European magazines in a car worthy of a high party official — and when they play outside of their countries the competition comes from the European pros whose salaries sometimes rival those of American baseball, basketball and football professionals.

Perhaps because they would be outvoted anyway, the Western countries that could challenge the status of the Communist nations' state-professionals just keep quiet at meetings of the International Football Federation (FIFA).

After a session Sunday, a FIFA spokesman reported "there were no appeals submitted on alleged professional status and thus no action. There are no investigations to initiate and nothing to add."

Rams Start Camp Despite Violence Shootings Don't Halt LA

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Chuck Knox agreed it was not the typical way to open a pro football camp. But the Los Angeles Rams' coach refused to cancel the workout despite the shooting deaths of seven persons a few yards from the practice field.

As Knox, his coaching staff and the 61 players who had reported to the National Football League team's camp were preparing for their first workout Monday morning at California State University-Fullerton, a security guard barged into the locker room and ordered them to "stay put."

The guard told Knox a "lunatic" gunman had just gone on a five-minute shooting spree in the school library and killed an unknown number of persons. He cautioned that the suspect was still loose and armed and that the Rams should not leave the locker room until the gunman had been apprehended.

Knox took the news calmly,

waited a few minutes, then ordered the club onto the field.

Campus police then approached the Rams' coach and told him to clear the football field. Again Knox refused.

"We'd walked through the area where the violence had occurred to get to the field and I didn't see any sense in walking back through it again," Knox said. "I felt we were much better off on the field doing what we're supposed to do."

He insisted the shootings, in which seven persons died and two others were critically injured, did not affect the club's practice session.

"We heard a lot of talk about it and saw a lot of people scurrying around," said a club spokesman, "but we didn't actually see or hear the shootings. It happened just a short distance from where we were, but as for our involvement in it, it could have happened at another school 20 miles away."

"Coach Knox made the right decision in sending the team out to practice. The players would have been more upset if he hadn't, talking about the violence and all."

Knox said the workout went smoothly.

"It was a real good session," he said. "The players were all very enthusiastic. If anyone was bothered by the violence, they didn't show it."

Less than an hour after the shootings, officers arrested 37-year-old library custodian Edward Charles Allaway on suspicion of murder.

Israelis Feel Free At Olympic Village

MONTREAL (AP) — The gallant Israelis are walking the foot paths of Olympic Village and the streets of Montreal without looking over their shoulders.

"The attitude of the entire team is one of complete freedom," said Schmel Lalkin, the team's chef de mission. "I find no tenseness, no concern at all."

"Certainly memories of Munich four years ago are still indelibly with us, but no one is afraid. After all, if you want to find somebody, you'll find him. You can't hide."

Lalkin, a handsome man in his 50s with graying hair and a thin mustache was in room 5 on the second floor of the Israeli headquarters when a band of Arab terrorists invaded the premises at the height of the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich.

He was one of the few who escaped.

Before the long ordeal was ended that fateful day, Sept. 5, 1972, 11 members of the Israeli team, five of the terrorists and a Munich policeman lay dead.

It was one of the grim tragedies of sports.

"We took an oath four years ago to return," Lalkin said. "And here we are."

The Israelis, instead of retrenching, brought a much larger and stronger team numbering half a hundred athletes and administrative personnel.

Lalkin praised the security provided by Montreal organizers.

"It's the best I have seen at any Olympics," he said.

Three hours after flag-raising ceremonies at the Village, the Israelis attended a memorial service at a Montreal synagogue for the Israeli martyrs of Munich. Five thousand jammed the synagogue for the moving ceremony.

Neat in white suits and blue shirts, they listened to a reading of selected passages from the Psalms by Canada's Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and a ringing commemorative address by Rabbi W. Gunther Plaut of Toronto.

"There must be no nation in the world left to give succor to those who hold others hostage at the point of a gun and the thrust of a bomb," the rabbi said. "And, if there is, let the rest of the nations shun it like the plague."

Isle Royale Park Wilderness 'Jewel'

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

An uncut, glittering jewel...that's Isle Royale National Park.

Located in the northwest part of Lake Superior, the island is one of the nation's few remaining unspoiled primitive wildernesses.

Rugged forests, sparkling lakes, bubbling streams, rocky shorelines, lovely wild flowers and an abundance of wildlife. That's all part of the Isle Royale "experience."

This reporter and my wife Carol, along with my brother, Rog, and his wife, Jan, were treated to the Isle Royale enchantment last month and came away with a new reverence for nature.

We backpacked for a week on the island and every day was a unique adventure.

Moose sightings are common on Isle Royale, as it has one of the largest moose herds in the United States. But spotting your first moose is a special thrill. In six days we saw 11 moose. On one occasion we saw a cow and her calf swimming a channel. Often in the middle of the night we could hear a moose splashing around in Lake Superior, just a few yards from our tents.

At one campground we had a fox follow us around much like a dog would. Many of the animals seem to have little fear of humans, probably because they have never been hunted by humans.

Beaver, muskrat, mink and weasel are also common on the island. There are also about 35 wolves. But wolf sightings are rare, only two were spotted all last summer. During our stay the bones of a young moose were discovered, a victim of a hungry wolf.

Bird lovers will delight in the more than 200 species listed on the island. The piercing cry of a loon often broke the solitude of our camp.

A huge variety of wild flowers dot the approximately 160 miles of trails covering the island, which is 45 miles long and nine miles across at its widest point.

We could only come up with a small pike, but fishing is generally excellent. Pike and perch are most common in the 30 inland lakes. The island also has about 25 miles of trout-fishing streams. No fishing license is needed.

Since there are no roads and no wheeled vehicles allowed on the island, travel within the park is accomplished solely by boat and foot.

Most of the nature lovers who come to Isle Royale backpack into the wilderness.

The trails of the island range from easy to very difficult. On one trail we had to consistently climb up and down over rocky cliffs, while just a few miles away we found a trail covered with a foot of water surrounded by lush green vegetation.

We covered about 43 miles of marked trails in our week's stay. The trails wind past inland lakes, go up mountains and past mine ruins to fire lookout stations and geological landmarks.

Many of the campsites on the island are equipped with shelters, which have three sides walled in, a screened front and a wooden floor. We camped in the shelters three nights and used our tents the other three nights when there were no shelters available. Many of the campsites are also equipped with stoves, picnic tables and toilet facilities.

The solitude of the 210 square miles of wilderness, virtually unchanged by man, is much in evidence on Isle Royale. We hiked for over five miles on one trail without seeing another person. And the other backpackers we did meet were appreciative of the wilderness setting and made it their duty to keep their campsites clean and natural.

For persons who don't wish to backpack there is a water taxi service offered to certain camping areas along the coast. We met a family of five from Iowa who used the boat to get around to different camps on the island since they had small children who couldn't backpack.

Isle Royale, which is owned by Michigan, is actually closer to Minnesota (17 miles) and Canada (20 miles). Copper Harbor is the nearest Michigan port, 48 miles away.

We reached the island by boat from Copper Harbor. But that's the last time we'll do that since we ran into a wicked Lake Superior storm on our return trip which left us fearing for our safety.

Isle Royale can also be reached by boat and plane from Houghton and by boat from Grand Portage, Minn.

An Isle Royale trip is also a cheap way to vacation. No fee is charged for admission to the park or for camping. But campsites cannot be reserved and are operated on a first-come, first-served basis.

It's about a 13-hour trip from the twin cities to the Houghton-Copper Harbor area. The boat crossing from Houghton to Isle Royale takes about six hours and the trip from Copper Harbor to the island four and a half hours.

Fishing Report

Perch fishing on Lake Michigan has been best offshore from boats, but some are being taken from piers and breakwaters. Top spots have been 12 to 20 feet of water off New Buffalo, at the Bridgman spawning grounds, at Rocky Gap north of Benton Harbor-St. Joseph and at the rocks south of South Haven.

Lake trout, salmon and steelhead continue to be taken by trollers on Lake Michigan over depths of 60 to 120 feet with lures 10 to 70 feet down.

On inland lakes, leaf worms are producing some good catches of bluegills. Better waters, according to Department of Natural Resources reports, have been Stone Lake in Cass county and Reynolds and Eagle Lakes in Van Buren county.

Smallmouth bass fishing has been productive on the lower St. Joseph River. Largemouth bass catches have also been fair on Diamond Lake in Cass county.

Paw Paw Lake in Berrien county has been giving up some northern pike.

Berries Ready

The wild black raspberry crop is ripening in southwestern Michigan, according to Department of Natural Resources reports.

Michigan Rates

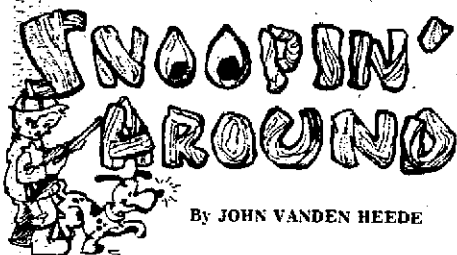

In land and water area combined, Michigan is the largest state east of the Mississippi and ranks 10th in the nation, reports the Department of Natural Resources. The state's area includes 57,022 square miles of land area and 38,769 square miles of water surface.

LONG CAMPAIGN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — John Muir, the naturalist, started a campaign in 1891 to gain federal protection for the 7,000 Sequoias in what is now Kings Canyon National Park. It was not until 1900, however, that the area was so designated.

FRIENDLY FOX: Fox sightings are fairly common on Isle Royale National Park. This fox had little fear of the campers as it scoured the campgrounds for food. (Staff photo)

Four more southwestern Michigan commercial fishermen are being awarded compensation for giving up the use of gill nets in Lake Michigan.

Schulz Fishery of Benton Harbor is set for $25,646, South Haven Fish Co. $15,915, J & L McCash of South Haven $17,158 and Glenn Richter of South Haven $8,789. Lloyd Mullhagen Jr. of St. Joseph previously accepted compensation.

Payments to the fishermen reflect 83 per cent of the average value of their 1971-73 catches. The compensation comes from $1.5 million appropriated by the legislature to reimburse fishermen for their lost business.

Under terms of the payments, fishermen waive any right to judicial review of the arrangement, "thereby saving both the Department of Natural Resources director and the fishermen the time, trouble and expense of contested hearings," the DNR says.

Much of the compensation currently being approved is for small mesh gill nets used for taking chubs, a species the DNR says is depleted and endangered. But compensation is also going out for large mesh fishermen up north.

Persons entering the $100,000 Pot-O-Gold Salmon-Trout Tournament at St. Joseph will be able to withdraw their $1,000 entry fee without penalty up until Aug. 20.

Chuck Knipschild, tournament publicity chairman, says the change in the Aug. 28-29 derby was made because some fishermen say they only want to be in the contest if all 140 spots are filled.

Another new rule for the derby, sponsored by Great Lakes Sportfishing Tournaments of St. Joseph, will require an observer on all participating boats. It's a method of "policing" the tournament, according to Knipschild. All winners will also be subject to polygraph tests.

Persons interested in the contest should call 426-8388 or write to P.O. Box 373, St. Joseph, Mich. 49085.

Dr. Howard Tanner, director of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, is against a proposal to stock striped bass in the Great Lakes.

"We've probably got the greatest fresh water fishing in the world in the Great Lakes, so let's not screw it up with striped bass," declares Tanner.

Tanner says it is known that striped bass, introduced to rivers running into the Pacific Ocean "are in conflict" with the Pacific salmon and trout and are eating significant numbers of the trout and salmon.

Hutchins Lake in Allegan county will again be closed to winter pike fishing. The Department of Natural Resources says the protection is needed to maintain pike populations at a satisfactory level.

Also, five muskellunge lakes in southwestern Michigan will also be closed to spearing to protect muskies. They include Dumont and Osterhout Lakes in Allegan county and Bankson, Three Legged and Round Lakes in Van Buren county.

The Heddon Tackle Company of Dowagiac has named Howard Bach to its Heddon Fishing Council. Bach is a marketing manager and outdoor writer from Greensburg, Pa.

Moose sightings are common on Isle Royale, as it has one of the largest moose herds in the United States. But spotting your first moose is a special thrill. In six days we saw 11 moose. On one occasion we saw a cow and her calf swimming a channel. Often in the middle of the night we could hear a moose splashing around in Lake Superior, just a few yards from our tents.

At one campground we had a fox follow us around much like a dog would. Many of the animals seem to have little fear of humans, probably because they have never been hunted by humans.

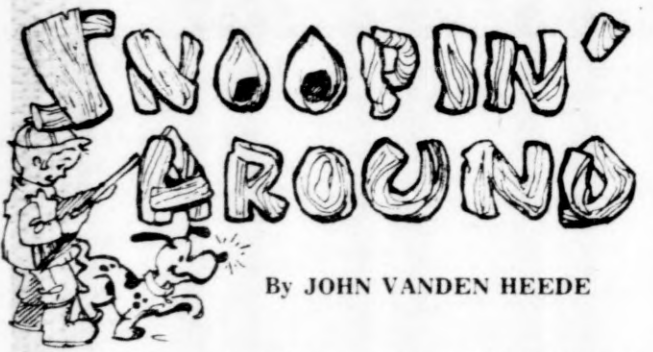

Beaver, muskrat, mink and weasel are also common on the island. There are also about 35 wolves. But wolf sightings are rare, only two were spotted all last summer. During our stay the bones of a young moose were discovered, a victim of a hungry wolf.

Bird lovers will delight in the more than 200 species listed on the island. The piercing cry of a loon often broke the solitude of our camp.

Four more southwestern Michigan commercial fishermen are being awarded compensation for giving up the use of gill nets in Lake Michigan.

Schulz Fishery of Benton Harbor is set for $25,646, South Haven Fish Co. $15,915, J & L McCash of South Haven $17,159 and Glenn Richter of South Haven $8,769. Lloyd Mollhagen Jr. of St. Joseph previously accepted compensation.

Payments to the fishermen reflect 83 per cent of the average value of their 1971-73 catches. The compensation comes from $1.5 million appropriated by the legislature to reimburse fishermen for their lost business.

Under terms of the payments, fishermen waive any right to judicial review of the arrangement, "thereby saving both the Department of Natural Resources director and the fishermen the time, trouble and expense of contested hearings," the DNR says.

Much of the compensation currently being approved is for small mesh gill nets used for taking chubs, a species the DNR says is depleted and endangered. But compensation is also going out for large mesh fishermen up north.

Persons entering the $100,000 Pot-O-Gold Salmon-Trout Tournament at St. Joseph will be able to withdraw their $1,000 entry fee without penalty up until Aug. 20.

Chuck Knipschild, tournament publicity chairman, says the change in the Aug. 28-29 derby was made because some fishermen say they only want to be in the contest if all 140 spots are filled.

Another new rule for the derby, sponsored by Great Lakes Sportfishing Tournaments of St. Joseph, will require an observer on all participating boats. It's a method of "policing" the tournament, according to Knipschild. All winners will also be subject to polygraph tests.

Persons interested in the contest should call 926-8388 or write to P.O. Box 373, St. Joseph, Mich. 49085.

Dr. Howard Tanner, director of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, is against a proposal to stock striped bass in the Great Lakes.

"We've probably got the greatest fresh water fishing in the world in the Great Lakes, so let's not screw it up with striped bass," declares Tanner.

Tanner says it is known that striped bass, introduced to rivers running into the Pacific Ocean "are in conflict" with the Pacific salmon and trout and are eating significant numbers of the trout and salmon.

Hutchins Lake in Allegan county will again be closed to winter pike fishing. The Department of Natural Resources says the protection is needed to maintain pike populations at a satisfactory level.

Also, five muskellunge lakes in southwestern Michigan will also be closed to spearing to protect muskies. They include Dumont and Osterhout Lakes in Allegan county and Bankson, Three Legged and Round Lakes in Van Buren county.

The Heddon Tackle Company of Dowagiac has named Howard Bach to its Heddon Fishing Council. Bach is a marketing manager and outdoor writer from Greensburg, Pa.

Outdoor Trail

of trails covering the island, which is 45 miles long and nine miles across at its widest point.

We could only come up with a small pike, but fishing is generally excellent. Pike and perch are most common in the 30 inland lakes. The island also has about 25 miles of trout-fishing streams. No fishing license is needed.

Since there are no roads and no wheeled vehicles allowed on the island, travel within the park is accomplished solely by boat and foot.

Most of the nature lovers who come to Isle Royale backpack into the wilderness.

The trails of the island range from easy to very difficult. On one trail we had to consistently climb up and down over rocky cliffs, while just a few miles away we found a trail covered with a foot of water surrounded by lush green vegetation.

We covered about 43 miles of marked trails in our week's stay. The trails wind past inland lakes, go up mountains and past mine ruins to fire lookout stations and geological landmarks.

Many of the campsites on the island are equipped with shelters, which have three sides walled in, a screened front and a wooden floor. We camped in the shelters three nights and used our tents the other three nights when there were no shelters available. Many of the campsites are also equipped with stoves, picnic tables and toilet facilities.

The solitude of the 210 square miles of wilderness, virtually unchanged by man, is much in evidence on Isle Royale. We hiked for over five miles on one trail without seeing another person. And the other backpackers we did meet were appreciative of the wilderness setting and made it their duty to keep their campsites clean and natural.

For persons who don't wish to backpack there is a water taxi service offered to certain camping areas along the coast. We met a family of five from Iowa who used the boat to get around to different camps on the island since they had small children who couldn't backpack.

Isle Royale, which is owned by Michigan, is actually closer to Minnesota (17 miles) and Canada (20 miles). Copper Harbor is the nearest Michigan port, 48 miles away.

We reached the island by boat from Copper Harbor. But that's the last time we'll do that since we ran into a wicked Lake Superior storm on our return trip which left us fearing for our safety.

Isle Royale can also be reached by boat and plane from Houghton and by boat from Grand Portage, Minn.

An Isle Royale trip is also a cheap way to vacation. No fee is charged for admission to the park or for camping. But campsites cannot be reserved and are operated on a first-come, first-served basis.

It's about a 13-hour trip from the twin cities to the Houghton-Copper Harbor area. The boat crossing from Houghton to Isle Royale takes about six hours and the trip from Copper Harbor to the island four and a half hours.

Fishing Report

Perch fishing on Lake Michigan has been best offshore from boats, but some are being taken from piers and breakwaters. Top spots have been 12 to 20 feet of water off New Buffalo, at the Bridgman spawning grounds, at Rocky Gap north of Benton Harbor-St. Joseph and at the rocks south of South Haven.

Lake trout, salmon and steelhead continue to be taken by trollers on Lake Michigan over depths of 60 to 120 feet with lures 40 to 70 feet down.

On inland lakes, leaf worms are producing some good catches of bluegills. Better waters, according to Department of Natural Resources reports, have been Stone Lake in Cass county and Reynolds and Eagle Lakes in Van Buren county.

Smallmouth bass fishing has been productive on the lower St. Joseph River. Largemouth bass catches have also been fair on Diamond Lake in Cass county.

Paw Paw Lake in Berrien county has been giving up some northern pike.

Berries Ready

Lakeshore Board Elects Steinke Again

John W. Steinke was re-elected president of the Lakeshore school board last night during the board's annual re-organizational meeting. Steinke has been president since 1972. In the only change of board officers from the last term, James F. Murphy replaced Mary Jane Waldenmaier as secretary. George A. Zinkil was re-elected vice president and Gerald A. Totzke was renamed treasurer.

In other areas, the board decided to meet next Monday with representatives from the University of Michigan's school of education to discuss a comprehensive plan outlining future classroom and facility needs in the district. Supt. Frederick J. Schmidt said the study would include a projection on population and curriculum trends.

A continuing trend of increased enrollments makes the study necessary, Schmidt said. There has been an average increase of 100 pupils in three of the past four years, and another increase of the same size is expected when schools reopen in September, he added.

Raises expected to total $3,333 were approved for coaching positions in all girls sports. The positions included basketball, junior varsity basketball and softball.

A request from the Michigan Association of School Boards asking the district to join in the defense of a U.S. District court suit against all school districts was tabled. Schmidt said the suit, filed by the Michigan Education association, seeks to have boards give accumulated sick leave benefits to teachers on maternity leave. The Lakeshore district is being asked to give $253 for legal costs which are expected to total at least $100,000, he added.

The board did not take action on a proposal from the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce to join a business education council which would be to give students better understanding of several career fields in which they show interest. Isadore DiMaggio, director of career awareness and summer youth employment for the chamber, said representatives from government, labor, business and large industrial firms would come into the school to speak with students about their jobs and lifestyles. The program is also designed to explain about training which would be needed. The program would be conducted one day each week for seven weeks and would cost the district $1,500. A total budget of $30,100 is needed to operate the program with business, government and local school districts who decide to participate contributing.

The Benton Harbor, Berrien Springs, Bridgman, Coloma, Galien, River Valley and St. Joseph school boards have also been invited to join the council, DiMaggio said. Board President John W. Steinke said the district already had a career education program and wanted to know what other services the chamber's program could provide.

DiMaggio replied the chamber's proposal would be more advantageous because of its 1,200 members in local business and industry. Kenneth Humes, a guidance counselor and chairman of the board's committee on career education, said "When I talk with many of our juniors and seniors and ask 'do you have any idea where you're heading', many of them say no," Humes said.

New President Is Elected By Dowagiac Board

DOWAGIAC — The Dowagiac school board last night elected G. Edward Miller, a Sister Lakes merchant, as its president for 1976-77. Miller replaces James Corbit, of Dewey Lake, who was elected vice president for the upcoming year at the board's annual reorganization meeting.

Richard Sifford was re-elected secretary and Dewain Townsend was re-elected treasurer.

In other areas, a special meeting was scheduled for Wednesday, July 21, at 7:30 p.m. to open bond bids for financing construction of a vocational education building and an eight-room academic addition.

Bonds in the amount of $400,000 are to be sold.

The original plans for the project were approved at the June 7 meeting, but last night extensive changes were announced.

As originally planned, an 18,000 square foot steel building would have been built to house auto shop, wood shop, metal shop, drafting and agriculture classes. There would also have been remodeling of the present shop rooms in the high school to provide eight to 10 more classrooms.

The new plans call for a smaller steel building of 8,100 square feet which will house first and second year auto repair classes and possibly one other class.

The present shop rooms will be left intact for continued use for wood and metal shop. Eight additional permanent classrooms will be added across the east end of the building on what is now lawn and part of the parking lot.

The new plan will result in more square feet of class space, according to Donald Weiland, business affairs manager.

As a result of another action,

G. EDWARD MILLER
New board president

the Dowagiac district is losing part of the name by which it has been known since the early days of public education in Michigan. The part being dropped is its designation as District 31, a number given it by the state board of education in the last century.

Henceforth, for legal purposes, the district will be known as "Dowagiac Union School District, Cass, Van Buren and Berrien counties, Michigan."

TO EXPAND CARRIERS — SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Soviet Union will expand its fleet of big aircraft carriers, says the commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet.

William Austin Hartford Board's New President

HARTFORD — For the first time in nine years, Hartford school board has a new board president. The board last night elected William Austin, 36, to the one-year term as president. For the past eight years, Bill Burnette had served as the school's top elected officer. Burnette, 61, was defeated in June in his bid for re-election to a fifth four-year term on the board.

Austin, vice president of Dowd orchards, was elected to a one-year term on the board in 1974 and re-elected to a four-year term in 1975.

Other board officers elected were Harold Leach as vice president; Stephen Shafer as secretary and Tom Smith as treasurer.

In other matters handled

during the annual reorganization meeting, the board:

— Voted to continue salaries for board members at $175 yearly for trustees, $300 for the secretary, $250 for the treasurer and $200 for the president, but agreed to look into possible waiver of salaries to help cut expenses.

— Designated the Benton Harbor Herald-Palladium and South Bend Tribune as papers in which school board meeting minutes are to be published.

In other business, the board approved pay raises of six per cent for non-teaching personnel except for teacher aides who are to get nine per cent.

It also created two standing committees, a communications council and athletic disciplinary committee and said appointments to the committees will be made at the next meeting.

WILLIAM AUSTIN
New board president

The board also received the first draft of a band student handbook for study for possible approval in August.

The handbook rules, aimed at avoiding controversy that erupted this spring when students were threatened with failing grades for missing band performances, will be sent home for parental review once approved by the board.

The board also changed the school calendar for the coming school year.

Students will start to school Aug. 31 and teachers are to report Aug. 30, both a day earlier than previously scheduled.

Moon Elected By Buchanan School Board

BUCHANAN — William Moon was elected Buchanan school board president during the board's reorganizational meeting last night. Moon, 50, lives at 310 West Front street, Buchanan. He was elected to the board in June of 1973. Vice president of the board for the 1976-76 school year, Moon replaces David Hanson, who did not seek re-election in June.

Other officers elected or re-elected were William DeVos, vice president; Mrs. Jeanette Mahan, secretary, and Richard Rossow, treasurer.

In other areas, the board accepted the low bid of West Motors, Niles, for two school bus coaches at a total cost, including trade-in of two old buses, of $29,930.

The board approved the district's remedial reading program with a computer testing program designed to test the reading skills of students. William Fisher, Stark elementary school principal, said the program will reach more students and advance able readers. He said the program was recommended by the district's curriculum committee.

A change in the high school pass-fail grading system, as recommended by the Student Representative Assembly, was approved on a one-year trial basis. Currently, a student enrolled in some courses must decide whether to take the class for grades or for a pass-fail mark. Under the change, a student could change his mind up to the second grading period.

The board denied a request from Dr. Stephen Worland that his son, Stephen, be issued a diploma. The boy left the high school after completing his junior year last year to enroll at the University of Michigan. The denial was based on failure to complete a required course.

WILLIAM MOON
Buchanan board president

A recommendation from the school farm committee that income raised by farm enterprises be placed in the farm's activity fund was approved. The funds will be used to pay for farm programs and equipment. Casey, outdoor education director, was assigned to handle the funds.

Reed Robert Inc., a nationwide firm, was hired by the board to deal with unemployment compensation claims.

The resignation of Larry Robinson, high school physical education teacher and coach, was accepted by the board. Michael Morrison, school band director, was placed on three years probation by the board.

John Impler, South Red Bud trail, Niles, was appointed as a board representative to the Buchanan park board.

Hartford City Council Meeting Tonight

HARTFORD — The regular meeting of the Hartford city council was postponed last night because of a lack of a quorum. The meeting is to be held tonight at city hall, city officials said.

MRS. BETTY RASMUSSEN

Paw Paw Board Picks 2 Women

PAW PAW — Women won both the top spots on the Paw Paw school board during its annual re-organizational meeting last night.

Mrs. Betty Rasmussen, who had served as board vice president, was elected president, while Mrs. Gloria J. Berry was elected vice president. Mrs. Rasmussen is believed to be the first woman ever to head the board, according to Supt. Norval Bovee.

She succeeds Harold Price who did not seek re-election to the board in the June election. Douglas Howe was elected secretary and Robert Teske treasurer.

In other areas, the board following an executive session, approved a new one-year contract with the district's 18 custodial employees calling for pay raises averaging 6.5 per cent, Bovee said.

Mrs. Wesley Wickett, past president of the Black River school parent group, presented the board with a check for $135 to be used toward the purchase of an air conditioner for the school's library.

The board scheduled a work session for Aug. 9 to discuss goals and objectives for the coming year. Bovee noted that there are three vacant teaching positions yet to be filled for this fall at the high school.

The expenditure of $7,000 was also approved for a new freezer for the high school lunch program.

Board Picks Geik At Galien

WILLIAM GEIK
Elected president

GALIEN — William Geik was elected president of the Galien school board last night.

He succeeds Duane Smith who had served two terms as head of the board. His election was unanimous.

Other officers elected were Jack Estep, vice president; Ronald Freehling, secretary; and Dean Lozmack, treasurer.

In other areas, the board voted to ask the state for permission to borrow $100,000 against anticipated state aid revenues.

The loan would finance school operations until the first state aid payments are received.

Quinn Will Head Covert Board Again

COVERT — Donald Quinn was re-elected to his second one-year term as Covert school board president during the board's annual organizational meeting last night.

In other balloting, Harold Bracken was selected as vice president, Bernard Lucas as secretary, and Mrs. Alice Blair as treasurer. In the only race where there was opposition, Lucas defeated Carl Grigeriet for secretary by a 5-2 margin in a secret vote.

The board also decided to again hold its regular meetings at 8 p.m. the second Monday of each month.

In other areas, the board voted to spend up to $7,000 and seek bids for drapes in the new high school and elementary school addition. It also authorized Bosh Plumbing of Grand Rapids to check the pipes leading to the boiler in the elementary school and make recommendation on any needed repairs.

Three bids, all low among those submitted, were also accepted. They included $383 by Parkway Electric, Holland, for brackets to prevent the removal of public address speakers; $2,750 by Jones Sporting Goods for a new football scoreboard; and $1,057 by the A.L. Holcomb company for a paint spray booth in the building trades room.

Tuesday, Sept. 7 was also scheduled as the first day of classes for students this fall.

Cyclist Injured Woman

VANDALIA — State police from the Niles post said a rural Vandalia woman was injured last night when the motorcycle she was riding on her property crashed into a parked pickup truck.

Listed in satisfactory condition this morning at Pawating hospital, Niles, was Mrs. Patricia Young, 38, route 1, Lewis Lake road, Vandalia.

Police said Mrs. Young suffered a severe cut on her knee about 9:30 p.m. when she lost control of the cycle and it struck the truck.

Machines Pried Open, Coins Gone

BUCHANAN — Police here said an estimated $150 in change was taken from four vending machines pried open at two Clark Equipment Co. buildings early this morning.

Police said the unlocked buildings on Clark's production facilities were entered sometime between 12:40 and 1:35 a.m. today. All four machines had been forced open and the change taken, police said.

Covert To Delay Next Meeting

COVERT — The Covert township board last night rescheduled its next meeting to Monday, Aug. 9.

The meeting, originally scheduled for Aug. 2, was moved back so as not to interfere with preparations in the township hall polling place for the Aug. 3 primary election.

In other areas, it was announced in the minutes of the board's June 28 meeting, that William Brown had offered to sell a lot on M-140 and Lake street with an abandoned three-story building to the township for $19,000. No action was taken on the offer.

The board asked the township's Bicentennial chairman, Mrs. S. Mae Lucas, not to dissolve her committee yet, but to continue working with the county committee.

The board approved a permit for a trailer on 75th street near 24th avenue sought by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Koc.

Dryer Fire Causes No Damage

St. Joseph firefighters reported they were called to the home of Clifton Nelson, 839 Volcott avenue, yesterday when fire broke out in a clothes dryer. The fire, caused by a buildup of lint which was ignited by heat, was out on arrival, firemen reported. No one was injured and there was no damage.

The handbook rules, aimed at avoiding controversy that erupted this spring when students were threatened with failing grades for missing band performances, will be sent home for parental review once approved by the board.

The board also changed the school calendar for the coming school year.

Students will start to school Aug. 31 and teachers are to report Aug. 30, both a day earlier than previously scheduled.

Moon Elected By Buchanan School Board

BUCHANAN — William Moon was elected Buchanan school board president during the board's reorganizational meeting last night. Moon, 50, lives at 310 West Front street, Buchanan. He was elected to the board in June of 1973. Vice president of the board for the 1976-76 school year, Moon replaces David Hanson, who did not seek re-election in June.

Other officers elected or re-elected were William DeVos, vice president; Mrs. Jeanette Mahan, secretary, and Richard Rossow, treasurer.

In other areas, the board accepted the low bid of West Motors, Niles, for two school bus coaches at a total cost, including trade-in of two old buses, of $29,930.

The board approved the district's remedial reading program with a computer testing program designed to test the reading skills of students. William Fisher, Stark elementary school principal, said the program will reach more students and advance able readers. He said the program was recommended by the district's curriculum committee.

A change in the high school pass-fail grading system, as recommended by the Student Representative Assembly, was approved on a one-year trial basis. Currently, a student enrolled in some courses must decide whether to take the class for grades or for a pass-fail mark. Under the change, a student could change his mind up to the second grading period. The board denied a request from Dr. Stephen Worland that his son, Stephen, be issued a diploma. The boy left the high school after completing his junior year last year to enroll at the University of Michigan. The denial was based on failure to complete a required course.

A recommendation from the school farm committee that income raised by farm enterprises be placed in the farm's activity fund was approved. The funds will be used to pay for farm programs and equipment. Casey, outdoor education director, was assigned to handle the funds.

Reed Robert Inc., a nationwide firm, was hired by the board to deal with unemployment compensation claims.

The resignation of Larry Robinson, high school physical education teacher and coach, was accepted by the board. Michael Morrison, school band director, was placed on three years probation by the board.

John Impler, South Red Bud trail, Niles, was appointed as a board representative to the Buchanan park board.

Hartford City Council Meeting Tonight

HARTFORD — The regular meeting of the Hartford city council was postponed last night because of a lack of a quorum. The meeting is to be held tonight at city hall, city officials said.

MRS. BETTY RASMUSSEN

Paw Paw Board Picks 2 Women

PAW PAW — Women won both the top spots on the Paw Paw school board during its annual re-organizational meeting last night.

Mrs. Betty Rasmussen, who had served as board vice president, was elected president, while Mrs. Gloria J. Berry was elected vice president. Mrs. Rasmussen is believed to be the first woman ever to head the board, according to Supt. Norval Bovee.

She succeeds Harold Price who did not seek re-election to the board in the June election. Douglas Howe was elected secretary and Robert Teske treasurer.

In other areas, the board following an executive session, approved a new one-year contract with the district's 18 custodial employees calling for pay raises averaging 6.5 per cent, Bovee said.

Mrs. Wesley Wickett, past president of the Black River school parent group, presented the board with a check for $135 to be used toward the purchase of an air conditioner for the school's library.

The board scheduled a work session for Aug. 9 to discuss goals and objectives for the coming year. Bovee noted that there are three vacant teaching positions yet to be filled for this fall at the high school.

The expenditure of $7,000 was also approved for a new freezer for the high school lunch program.

Board Picks Geik At Galien

WILLIAM GEIK
Elected president

GALIEN — William Geik was elected president of the Galien school board last night.

He succeeds Duane Smith who had served two terms as head of the board. His election was unanimous.

Other officers elected were Jack Estep, vice president Ronald Freehling, secretary, and Dean Lozmack, treasurer.

In other areas, the board voted to ask the state for permission to borrow $100,000 against anticipated state aid revenues. The loan would finance school operations until the first state aid payments are received.

Covert To Delay Next Meeting

COVERT — The Covert township board last night rescheduled its next meeting to Monday, Aug. 9.

The meeting, originally scheduled for Aug. 2, was moved back so as not to interfere with preparations in the township hall polling place for the Aug. 3 primary election.

In other areas, it was announced in the minutes of the board's June 28 meeting, that William Brown had offered to sell a lot on M-140 and Lake street with an abandoned three-story building to the township for $19,000. No action was taken on the offer.

The board asked the township's Bicentennial chairman, Mrs. S. Mae Lucas, not to dissolve her committee yet, but to continue working with the county committee.

The board approved a permit for a trailer on 75th street near 24th avenue sought by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Koe.

Quinn Will Head Covert Board Again

COVERT — Donald Quinn was re-elected to his second one-year term as Covert school board president during the board's annual organizational meeting last night.

In other balloting, Harold Bracken was selected as vice-president, Bernard Lucas as secretary, and Mrs. Alice Blair as treasurer. In the only race where there was opposition, Lucas defeated Carl Grigeriet for secretary by a 5-2 margin in a secret vote.

The board also decided to again hold its regular meetings at 8 p.m. the second Monday of each month.

In other areas, the board voted to spend up to $7,000 and seek bids for drapes in the new high school and elementary school addition. It also authorized Bosh Plumbing of Grand Rapids to check the pipes leading to the boiler in the elementary school and make recommendation on any needed repairs.

Three bids, all low among those submitted, were also accepted. They included $383 by Parkway Electric, Holland, for brackets to prevent the removal of public address speakers; $2,750 by Jones Sporting Goods for a new football scoreboard; and $1,057 by the A.L. Holcomb company for a paint spray booth in the building trades room.

Tuesday, Sept. 7 was also scheduled as the first day of classes for students this fall.

Cyclist Injured Woman

VANDALIA — State police from the Niles post said a rural Vandalia woman was injured last night when the motorcycle she was riding on her property crashed into a parked pickup truck.

Listed in satisfactory condition this morning at Pawating hospital, Niles, was Mrs. Patricia Young, 38, route 1, Lewis Lake road, Vandalia.

Police said Mrs. Young suffered a severe cut on her knee about 9:30 p.m. when she lost control of the cycle and it struck the truck.

Machines Pried Open, Coins Gone

BUCHANAN — Police here said an estimated $150 in change was taken from four vending machines pried open at two Clark Equipment Co. buildings early this morning.

Police said the unlocked buildings on Clark's production facilities were entered sometime between 12:30 and 1:35 a.m. today. All four machines had been forced open and the change taken, police said.

Dryer Fire Causes No Damage

St. Joseph firefighters reported they were called to the home of Clifton Nelson, 839 Wolcott avenue, yesterday when fire broke out in a clothes dryer. The fire, caused by a buildup of lint which was ignited by heat, was out on arrival, firemen reported. No one was injured and there was no damage.

Work Or Go To Jail, He's Told

A Union Pier man yesterday in Berrien Circuit court was given an incentive to find a job — if he isn't employed in 60 days he'll spend 90 days in jail.

Threatened with the jail sentence by Judge Julian E. Hughes was William Barry Baker, 23, who was also placed on two years probation and assessed $250 fine and costs for receiving and concealing stolen property valued at more than $100. Baker was charged with possessing household goods stolen from a Union Pier cottage.

In arraignments before Hughes:

James Terry, 28, of 710 Madison street, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to charges of child cruelty and torturing a child at his residence on June 10. He is accused of beating his eight-year-old son, James, Jr., with an electric extension cord.

Eliga Miller, 40, of 820

Broadway, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder stemming from an alleged assault June 14 against Mary Miller with a .22 pistol.

Roscoe T. Mullins, 27, of 797 Weld street, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to murder Marcia Mullins with a revolver June 18 at Mullins' residence.

Kenneth F. Huff, 19, of 2992 Territorial road, Benton township, pleaded innocent to a charge of possession with intent to deliver marijuana June 20 in Benton township.

Raymond Freyer, Jr., 17, of Sand Ridge road, Sawyer, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering Sutton's Enco station in Bridgman on Aug. 25.

Frankie L. Barber, 22, of 945 Buss avenue, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to attempted possession of heroin Nov. 19 in Benton Harbor.

Johnnie L. Cates, 26, of 1895 Union street, Benton township, pleaded guilty to attempted possession of heroin Oct. 27 in Benton Harbor.

Byron L. Davis, 18, of Sawyer, pleaded guilty to malicious destruction of property valued at more than $100. He was charged with causing some $5,000 damage at Bridgman high school April 25.

George E. Grasse, 19, of 15678 Ruffino road, Union Pier, pleaded innocent to a charge of possession of PCP (an animal tranquilizer) June 8 in St. Joseph.

Home At Last

Janet Robey Almag, 26, who was among more than 100 hostages rescued from terrorists at a Ugandan airport July 4, was greeted by throngs of well-wishers and reporters on her return to her native Madison, Wis., Monday.

Embracing her is her husband, Extra Mrs. Almag, said Madison was only one of her homes. The other is the Israeli kibbutz where she and her husband live. (AP Wirephoto)

Asks Berrien Court Hearing

A 19-year-old Benton Harbor woman demanded preliminary examination Monday in Berrien Fifth District court on a charge of breaking and entering the Berrien county social services department's food stamp office.

Jailed under $10,000 bond was Linda Jordan, 682 East Main street. Benton Harbor police said the arrest was made when they were summoned by a silent burglar alarm early Monday and found a woman inside the office at 242 Pipestone street.

Others demanding examinations were:

Lynn Evans, 22, of 2382 Crawford, Benton township, and Darryl Lee Moon, 25, of 740 Thresher, Benton Harbor, charged with breaking into a Benton Harbor apartment July 1. They were jailed under bonds of $1,500 and $15,000, respectively.

Kelley C. Evans, 22, of 837 Colfax, and N.G. Lacy, 21, of 189 North Hull avenue, both of Benton Harbor, accused of receiving and concealing stolen property valued over $100 — stereo equipment — July 1 in Benton Harbor. They were jailed in lieu of $15,000 bonds.

Thomas Milton, 17, of 543 Red Arrow highway, Coloma, on charges of larceny of a stereo in a school building on West street, Coloma, May 10. He did not post $1,000 bond.

Ismael Villegas, 27, of Carson, Calif., and Ronald J. Wallace, 21, of 115 Water street, Benton Harbor, on charges of breaking and entering the Surplus Trading Post, Benton township, July 11. Villegas was jailed under $6,000 bond and Wallace under $3,000 bond.

Two men charged with carrying concealed pistols in cars during separate incidents the Fourth of July were bound over to Circuit court.

Bound over were M.C. Williams, 66, of 1361 Townline road, Benton township, and Charles G. Austin, 52, of Lansing. Williams, arrested in Benton township, waived examination and was freed on $5,000 bond. Austin, charged with the violation in Hagar township, posted $7,500 bond.

Sentenced yesterday were: Shirley Ann Parker, 22, of 1248 Blossom lane, Benton Harbor, 30 days in jail for assault and battery against Benton Harbor Det. Art Bell June 14 in Benton Harbor.

Walter T. Love, 41, of 24th avenue, South Haven, fine and costs of $200 and six months probation for carrying a loaded rifle in a car July 11 in Coloma township.

Sentenced for the following violations were:

Disorderly person — John T. Breisch, 22, of South Bend, Ind., three days in jail and $50 or 10 days in jail total for disturbing the peace; Lonnie Patterson, 20, of Edwards road, Sodus, $32 for creating a disturbance; Jerry Weaver, 37, of Berrien Center, 10 days in jail for carrying a concealed knife in a car, an illegal occupation.

Use of marijuana — Chiose Hill, 38, of Kalamazoo, 100: Cynthia K. Neundorff, 18, of 402 Lake street, St. Joseph, $102 and six months probation; James A. Smardon and Stephan G. Charas, both 18 and of Valparaiso, Ind., and James J. DeMaio, 32, of 3675 Arbor, St. Joseph township, each $50 or 10 days in jail.

Driving while license suspended — Early Williams, 33, of Detroit, three days in jail and $200; Johnnie R. Scott, 19, of Detroit, three days in jail and $71.

Driving while intoxicated — Charles R. Pedigo, 38, of Coloma, and Jerry L. Smith, 34, of Westville, Ind., each $155 or 30 days in jail.

Also yesterday Tony Jones, 17, of 344 High street, apartment F, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of petty larceny of a gallon of gasoline July 10 in Benton township. Bond was set at $1,000 and he failed to post the 10 per cent ($100) necessary in a misdemeanor case.

Big Brother or Big Oil.

Who's going to keep America's energy coming?

Some politicians in Washington want to dismember the U.S. oil industry. They don't like "Big Oil." That's the name they toss around for many of the larger U.S. oil companies.

What they would like to do is let Big Brother take over. To dismember each company of its wholeness by not allowing a company that produces oil to be a part of a company that transports oil, nor allowing either to be a part of a company that refines and sells the products.

They say the oil industry is overly concentrated. You'd think from hearing the critics that the larger oil companies have unchallengeable control of supplies and prices.

Actually, the larger oil companies are in competition, along with other companies of various sizes, for the consumer dollar.

And large oil companies are what we need. Especially in these days of a critical energy situation.

It takes large oil companies to attract the big investment to do the risky exploration for the energy we'll need to keep this great country running smoothly. To have the big know-how to recover the energy once it's found. And to conduct the big research and development required to make better fuels.

And all along the line, the larger oil companies have the big efficiency to get the energy in all its forms to the consumer at a fair price.

The large oil companies know how to do things right. Can you honestly say the same about Big Brother?

Our job is you.

Woman Plucked From Bridge

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — A 38-year-old St. Clair woman was plucked from the Blue Water Bridge Monday before she could jump into the waters of the St. Clair River 150 feet below.

Port Huron police said the woman, whom they described as despondent over family problems, had climbed to a cross-beam some 12 feet above the bridge's main deck.

One of her rescuers was Chick McCarthy, Port Huron dog warden. The other two, a Canadian and an American, were identified only as maintenance supervisors on the bridge, which connects Port Huron and Sarnia, Ont. The bridge currently is being repaired.

Badt Re-Elected To Coloma Post

COLOMA —The Coloma school board last night elected Marshall Badt as president of the board for 1976-77 during its reorganizational meeting.

Badt, 42, is beginning his 13th year on the board and served as board president for seven years before giving up the post in 1974. Kay Erickson served as president in the last term, but declined to re-accept the office.

Other officers for the new term, all re-elected, were Richard Eastman, vice president; Louis Gelder, treasurer; and Merin Hauch, secretary.

In other areas, Badt requested school administrators to look into the feasibility of instituting spelling tests at the high school level.

According to Badt, some people he knows who attended Coloma high school "can't spell", and that people in the area have told him that graduating seniors are unable to spell.

Badt suggested a weekly spelling test be established to help the students to spell better.

The board informed several school district residents interested in informing the community of the need for a new physical education building that the board would assist them in gathering information.

Rev. Walden Owen told the board he would chair the committee.

The board approved pay hikes to secretaries and custodians for the 1976-77 school year. Custodian hourly pay was increased from $4.33 to $4.42. Secretaries, first year, $2.63 to $2.80, with the top pay, after five years, reaching $3.55.

The board instructed school administrators to review a request for using the Coloma high school cafeteria and auditorium in late August for a summer theatre production and to determine costs for the project. The proposal was submitted by Miss Marie Nadeau.

Board member Edward Messal was appointed to serve as board representative to the Berrien-Cass school board association, with board member Charles Dean Mohney to serve as an alternate representative.

The board appointed Ted Blahnik and Gordon Noack as representatives on the Coloma

The board accepted the bid of $6,533 from Michigan School Service, Inc., Kalamazoo, for 108 lockers for the junior and varsity locker rooms at the middle school. The bid was the only one received.

In another bid awarding, for several painting jobs, the board accepted the low bid of C. L. Wolff & Sons Painting Co., Benton Harbor. The bid amounted to $2,187.

Coloma Twp. Fills Vacancy

COLOMA —The Coloma township board last night appointed Nona Stewart to fill the board vacancy caused by the death of Trustee John McCrery last month.

Miss Stewart, 39, of 6901 Island court, Coloma, filed nominating petitions for the post earlier this year and would have challenged McCrery for the seat during the August primary.

Employed at the Coloma post office as a rural mail carrier, Miss Stewart will serve in the appointed post until the November election.

Supervisor Ewald Eckblom announced last night Mrs. Thelma Zoschke, acting deputy clerk, will assume the township clerk duties through the November election in view of the death of Clerk John Ferris on July 5.

In other areas, Edward Ladwig, a township resident, informed the board his attempts to have the county grand jury investigate his difficulty in receiving figures and costs for the construction of the Paw Paw Lake sewage treatment plant and river interceptor were rejected as they did not fall into criminal action.

Ladwig indicated last night he feels the three-mill assessments by the township are no longer necessary, for the township

Nick Marinos, 6865 Indian Lane, requested the board look into reducing the large amount of dust from traffic using the road entering Deer Forest.

Marinos said the air pollution problem results with his being unable to open windows in his house.

The board appointed Rodney Krieger, 5429 Lakewood, to serve on the joint Paw Paw Lake Sewage Operating board, replacing John Steele who resigned.

The board approved the purchase of a third radar speed gun for the township police force at a cost of $1,585, provided the city of Coloma purchase an old radar gun from the township for $1,250.

The board voted not to reduce $80,000 being withheld from the contractor for the township sewage collection system, until approximately $8,000 owed the township for repairs in the system is repaid.

The board approved a $570 expenditure for repairs along a section of Little Paw Paw Lake road by the county road commission.

Atty. Ronald Postelli, representing Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sumwalt, Little Paw Paw Lake road, requested the township consider selling township-owned property, located north of the road along the lakes edge to the Sumwalts.

The board will review the request and learn if it is able to sell the property, wanted by the Sumwalts to erect a pier on the property.

New Legal Tack

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of cadets plans to file with the U.S. Court of Military Appeals a request to suspend legal proceedings in the West Point cheating scandal on the ground that allegations against them came from an illegally constituted panel.

"It's kind of a long shot," one of their lawyers, Capt. Thomas Fritz, conceded Monday night.

Decatur School Tax Levy Set

DECATUR — The Decatur school board last night set the school district's property tax levy for 1976 at 25.18 mills, up 1.1 mills from the 1975 levy.

Included in the levy is 8.58 county allocated mills; 15 extra voted; .82 for building and site; .52 for a 1962 debt retirement; and .26 for 1968 debt retirement.

The increase is due mostly to a one-mill increase voters approved along with a 4.5-mill renewal in June.

In other action, the board elected Harry Vliek as board president.

Other officers elected on unanimous ballots were George Kusmack, vice president; Emma Jean Stambeck, secretary; and Richard MacKellar, treasurer.

The board also voted to change its meeting place from the superintendent's office to the senior high library, but kept its meetings the second Monday of each month, at 8 p.m., October through April, and at 8:30 p.m. from May through September.

The board also agreed to let fourth through sixth grades take simultaneous lunch periods, from 11:30 a.m. to 12:20 p.m. next school year. Higher enrollments last school year forced staggered lunch hours. School officials said they are also looking for people outside the faculty they can hire as coaches. Seven are needed. Applicants must have at least 90 hours of credit in coaching-related fields.

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooks Fleming Ellis, a world famous expert on single-celled fossils, is dead at 78. He was curator emeritus of the American Museum of Natural History.

Coloma Seeking To Delay Work On New Howe Drain

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission moved last night to delay work on the proposed new Howe drain for 90 days.

The commission voted to authorize Commissioner Mrs. Wavie Noack to contact the drain commissioner and township officials to join in efforts to postpone action on the project.

The vote followed a proposal by Commissioner Harold Hammond, chairman of the public works committee, to wait on the proposal until a new state highway department drainage system is installed along I-94 later this summer.

According to Hammond, the diverting of the water from the expressway may eliminate the flooding conditions along the Howe drain area which led to the planning for a new drain system.

The commission action came two days before a scheduled hearing by the county drain board into the reapportionment of construction costs for the drain. The hearing is to be held at the Coloma township hall,

Wednesday, July 14, at 7 p.m.

The request for correcting the drainage problems was filed earlier this year by residents in the drain area after severe flooding occurred around their houses. Initially the state was to pay part of the cost, but withdrew because of its I-94 drain plans.

In other areas, the commission authorized City Clerk Mrs. Patricia Beezley to write the county road commission offering them $500 for property the county commission owns along North street.

Under the terms of the proposed purchase, the county road commission would demolish and clean up the old county garage site before the city purchases the land located adjacent to the city-owned garage.

Hammond announced city crews would flush fire hydrants on Thursday and Friday evenings, July 15-16, from 7:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m.

The commission approved a request from Rev. Walden Owen to hold a Jesus Rally at Harding's parking lot on Aug. 1 from 2 p.m. until 6 p.m.

New pay schedules for police personnel were approved by the commission, retroactive to June 28. Hourly pay rates are: chief, $4.95; sergeant, $4.90; patrolman, $4.55; part-time policemen and matron, $3.70 starting, $3.80 after six months and $4 per hour after one year.

The commission approved preparation of a lease between the city and the Coloma Lions club for a small parcel of city-owned land located south of the Lions park. The lease would run for 20 years.

Coloma Mayor Glenn Randall reported approximately 4,600 people visited the Michigan Art train, a touring art train, while it was in Coloma, July 8-11.

Commissioner Norman Carrothers renewed his complaint that public works employees do not talk to him, and generally imply they do not want him around where they're working.

Badt Re-Elected To Coloma Post

COLOMA — The Coloma school board last night elected Marshall Badt as president of the board for 1976-77 during its reorganizational meeting.

Badt, 42, is beginning his 13th year on the board and served as board president for seven years before giving up the post in 1974. Kay Erickson served as president in the last term, but declined to re-accept the office.

Other officers for the new term, all re-elected, were Richard Eastman, vice president; Louis Gelder, treasurer; and Merlin Hauch, secretary.

In other areas, Badt requested school administrators to look into the feasibility of instituting spelling tests at the high school level.

According to Badt, some people he knows who attended Coloma high school "can't spell", and that people in the area have told him that graduating seniors are unable to spell.

Badt suggested a weekly spelling test be established to help the students to spell better.

The board informed several school district residents interested in informing the community of the need for a new physical education building that the board would assist them in gathering information.

Rev. Walden Owen told the board he would chair the committee.

The board approved pay hikes to secretaries and custodians for the 1976-77 school year. Custodian hourly pay was increased from $4.33 to $4.42. Secretaries, first year, $2.63 to $2.80, with the top pay, after five years, reaching $3.55.

The board instructed school administrators to review a request for using the Coloma high school cafeteria and auditorium in late August for a summer theatre production and to determine costs for the project. The proposal was submitted by Miss Marie Nadeau.

Board member Edward Messal was appointed to serve as board representative to the Berrien-Cass school board association, with board member Charles Dean Mohny to serve as an alternate representative.

The board appointed Ted Blahnik and Gordon Noack as representatives on the Coloma recreation and parks committee.

The board accepted the bid of $6,533 from Michigan School Service, Inc., Kalamazoo, for 108 lockers for the junior and varsity locker rooms at the middle school. The bid was the only one received.

In another bid awarding, for several painting jobs, the board accepted the low bid of C. L. Wolff & Sons Painting Co., Benton Harbor. The bid amounted to $2,187.

Coloma Twp. Fills Vacancy

COLOMA — The Coloma township board last night appointed Nona Stewart to fill the board vacancy caused by the death of Trustee John McCrery last month.

Miss Stewart, 39, of 6901 Island court, Coloma, filed nominating petitions for the post earlier this year and would have challenged McCrery for the seat during the August primary.

Employed at the Coloma post office as a rural mail carrier, Miss Stewart will serve in the appointed post until the November election.

Supervisor Ewald Eckblom announced last night Mrs. Thelma Zoschke, acting deputy clerk, will assume the township clerk duties through the November election in view of the death of Clerk John Ferris on July 5.

In other areas, Edward Ladwig, a township resident, informed the board his attempts to have the county grand jury investigate his difficulty in receiving figures and costs for the construction of the Paw Paw Lake sewage treatment plant and river interceptor were rejected as they did not fall into criminal action.

Ladwig indicated last night he feels the three-mill assessments by the township are no longer necessary, for the township share of the overall cost.

Nick Marinos, 6865 Indian Lane, requested the board look into reducing the large amount of dust from traffic using the road entering Deer Forest.

Marinos said the air pollution problem results with his being unable to open windows in his house.

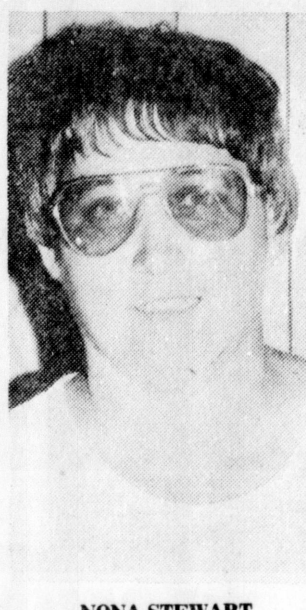

The board appointed Rodney Krieger, 5429 Lakewood, to serve on the joint Paw Paw Lake Sewage Operating board, replacing John Steele who resigned.

The board approved the purchase of a third radar speed gun for the township police force at a cost of $1,585, provided the city of Coloma purchase an old radar gun from the township for $1,250.

The board voted not to reduce $80,000 being withheld from the contractor for the township sewage collection system, until approximately $8,000 owed the township for repairs in the system is repaid.

The board approved a $570 expenditure for repairs along a section of Little Paw Paw Lake road by the county road commission.

Atty. Ronald Postelli, representing Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sumwalt, Little Paw Paw Lake road, requested the township consider selling township-owned property, located north of the road along the lakes edge to the Sumwalts.

The board will review the request and learn if it is able to sell the property, wanted by the Sumwalts to erect a pier on the property.

New Legal Tack

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of cadets plans to file with the U.S. Court of Military Appeals a request to suspend legal proceedings in the West Point cheating scandal on the ground that allegations against them came from an illegally constituted panel.

"It's kind of a long shot," one of their lawyers, Capt. Thomas Fritz, conceded Monday night.

Decatur School Tax Levy Set

DECATUR — The Decatur school board last night set the school district's property tax levy for 1976 at 25.18 mills, up 1.1 mills from the 1975 levy.

Included in the levy is 8.58 county allocated mills; 15 extra voted; .82 for building and site; .52 for a 1962 debt retirement; and .26 for 1968 debt retirement.

The increase is due mostly to a one-mill increase voters approved along with a 4.5-mill renewal in June.

In other action, the board elected Harry Vliek as board president.

Vliek defeated incumbent President Max Howe by a secret 4 to 2 vote with one board member, Arthur Hayes, absent.

Other officers elected on unanimous ballots were George Kusmack, vice president; Emma Jean Sambeck, secretary; and Richard MacKellar, treasurer.

The board also voted to change its meeting place from the superintendent's office to the senior high library, but kept its meetings the second Monday of each month, at 8 p.m., October through April, and at 8:30 p.m. from May through September.

The board also agreed to let fourth through sixth grades take simultaneous lunch periods, from 11:30 a.m. to 12:20 p.m. next school year. Higher enrollments last school year forced staggered lunch hours.

School officials said they are also looking for people outside the faculty they can hire as coaches. Seven are needed. Applicants must have at least 90 hours of credit in coaching-related fields.

Coloma Seeking To Delay Work On New Howe Drain

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission moved last night to delay work on the proposed new Howe drain for 90 days.

The commission voted to authorize Commissioner Mrs. Wavie Noack to contact the drain commissioner and township officials to join in efforts to postpone action on the project.

The vote followed a proposal by Commissioner Harold Hammond, chairman of the public works committee, to wait on the proposal until a new state highway department drainage system is installed along I-94 later this summer.

According to Hammond, the diverting of the water from the expressway may eliminate the flooding conditions along the Howe drain area which led to the planning for a new drain system.

The commission action came two days before a scheduled hearing by the county drain board into the reapportionment of construction costs for the drain. The hearing is to be held at the Coloma township hall,

Wednesday, July 14, at 7 p.m.

The request for correcting the drainage problems was filed earlier this year by residents in the drain area after severe flooding occurred around their houses. Initially the state was to pay part of the cost, but withdrew because of its I-94 drain plans.

In other areas, the commission authorized City Clerk Mrs. Patricia Beezley to write the county road commission offering them $500 for property the county commission owns along North street.

Under the terms of the proposed purchase, the county road commission would demolish and clean up the old county garage site before the city purchases the land located adjacent to the city-owned garage.

Hammond announced city crews would flush fire hydrants on Thursday and Friday evenings, July 15-16, from 7:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m.

The commission approved a request from Rev. Walden Owen to hold a Jesus Rally at Harding's parking lot on Aug. 1 from 2 p.m. until 6 p.m.

New pay schedules for police personnel were approved by the commission, retroactive to June 28. Hourly rates are: chief, $4.95; sergeant, $4.90; patrolman, $4.55; part-time policemen and matron, $3.70 starting, $3.80 after six months and $4 per hour after one year.

The commission accepted the low bid of $6,735 of Klett Construction Co., Hartford, to resurface Washington street.

The commission approved preparation of a lease between the city and the Coloma Lions club for a small parcel of city-owned land located south of the Lions park. The lease would run for 20 years.

Coloma Mayor Glenn Randall reported approximately 4,600 people visited the Michigan Art train, a touring art train, while it was in Coloma, July 8-11.

Commissioner Norman Carrothers renewed his complaint that public works employees do not talk to him, and generally imply they do not want him around where they're working.

Works On Wiring, Dies

CHARLOTTE, Mich. (AP) — A 34-year-old rural Charlotte man was killed Monday while working on the electrical wiring in his home, according to Eaton County sheriff's deputies. The electrocuted man was identified as Charles M. Woodworth, who lived with his parents about five miles outside Charlotte. Deputies said Woodworth was found by his father. County Medical Examiner Robert Leaser ruled the death was accidental.

Council Votes Down Own Raises

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP) — The Houghton City Council has voted down a salary hike for its members.

The vote came on a recommendation by the city manager to increase the per meeting fees paid to council members from $16.67 to $25.

The council rejected the raise 5-1, with only councilman Andrew McCormick favoring the increase. McCormick said he supported the increase because one of his constituents told him, "You fellows are a bunch of goons not to accept" it.

Foster Parent Probes Urged In Illinois

CHICAGO (AP) — The state should make criminal background checks on prospective foster parents, the director of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services says. Director Mary Lee Leahy made the statement in the aftermath of the arrest of a foster father sought on charges of pouring a caustic substance on a 17-year-old boy in his care. Authorities said the man had a background of complaints involving homosexual advances toward children.

HHN URGES PROBE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey has urged Congress to investigate a government report's findings that deficiencies exist in equipment, trained personnel and ammunition in first line U.S. combat armored units in Europe.

HOW LARGE?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — How large is the crack in the Liberty Bell? According to Philadelphia officials, it measures three-eighths of an inch.

I TAKE IT THAT YOUR FATHER KNEW BRICK CUTLER!

YES...AND IF I DIDN'T KNOW THAT HE WAS HERE IN INTENSIVE CARE AT THE TIME OF BRICK'S MURDER, I'D BE SURE THAT HE DID IT!

HE HAD SOME WEIRD IDEA THAT BRICK WAS LEADING ME ASTRAY / FRANKLY, I WAS TOUGHER ON BRICK THAN HE WAS ON ME!

VISIT WITH YOUR FATHER FOR JUST A FEW MINUTES! I'LL BE IN TO SEE HIM LATER!

YOU KNOW I'VE FALLEN IN LOVE WITH YOU, DON'T YOU?

MARY WORTH

I LOOK FORWARD TO SEEING YOU AGAIN, MRS. WORTH!

MARY WILL BE AT THE HOUSE-WARMING, FRANK... AS I HOPE YOU AND DUNCAN WILL!

EVER NOTICE, MR. CRAWFORD? WHEN A WOMAN SAYS GOODBYE IT ONLY MEANS YOU'LL BE LEAVING SOMETIME!

ARE YOU IN A HURRY TO GET TO THE MILES PARTY, DUNCAN?

NO...THE TRUTH IS, I WISH WE HADN'T ACCEPTED THEIR INVITATION!

I HAVE A STRONG FEELING THAT IT'LL NOT BE A FUN EVENING!

AND DUNCAN WILL HAVE CAUSE TO REMEMBER THAT PRESENTMENT!

JUDGE PARKER

WE'LL JUST NOT TELL MR. K ABOUT THESE PICTURES!

HOW'S HE GONNA FIND OUT?

SUPPOSE DRIVER SENDS HIM THE PICTURES TOO?

WHERE'S HE GONNA SEND THEM? NOBODY KNOWS WHERE KONRAD KOLE LIVES...NOT EVEN US! WHENEVER I WANT TO GET IN TOUCH WITH HIM, I USE A CERTAIN UNLISTED PHONE NUMBER!

NEXT WEEK I'LL BE GIVEN ANOTHER UNLISTED PHONE NUMBER!

Council

Votes Down

Own Raises

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP) — The Houghton City Council has voted down a salary hike for its members.

The vote came on a recommendation by the city manager to increase the per meeting fees paid to council members from $16.67 to $25.

The council rejected the raise 5-1, with only councilman Andrew McCormick favoring the increase. McCormick said he supported the increase because one of his constituents told him, "You fellows are a bunch of goons not to accept" it.

Foster Parent

Probes Urged

In Illinois

CHICAGO (AP) — The state should make criminal background checks on prospective foster parents, the director of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services says.

Director Mary Lee Leahy made the statement in the aftermath of the arrest of a foster father sought on charges of pouring a caustic substance on a 17-year-old boy in his care.

Authorities said the man had a background of complaints involving homosexual advances toward children.

CHARLOTTE, Mich. (AP) — A 34-year-old rural Charlotte man was killed Monday while working on the electrical wiring in his home, according to Eaton County sheriff's deputies. The electrocuted man was identified as Charles M. Woodworth, who lived with his parents about five miles outside Charlotte. Deputies said Woodworth was found by his father. County Medical Examiner Robert Leoser ruled the death was accidental.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Continue To Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market forged ahead in very active trading today, continuing the sharp rally of the past two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose nearly 3 points in the early going. Gainers opened up a 5-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The consolidated ticker tape reporting trades in NYSE issues ran as much as six minutes late in early activity.

Brokers said investors seemed to have been heartened by the Dow's ability to break through to its highest closing level in nearly 3 1/2 years on Monday.

They noted a generally bright economic news background, including a recent downward turn in short term interest rates.

Today's early prices included Westinghouse, up 1/2 at 17 1/2; Texaco, unchanged at 27 3/4; Citicorp, off 1/4 at 35 1/4; and Clorox, up 1/4 at 12 1/2.

Monday's advance carried the Dow Jones industrial average ahead 8.10 points to 1,011.21, its highest close since it finished at 1,018.66 on Jan. 23, 1973.

Gainers outpaced losers by more than a 2-1 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index rose .48 to 56.34.

Big Board volume reached 23.75 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index added .48 to 107.66.

Big Gain Reported In Net Earnings

Whirlpool Corporation has reported a 60 per cent increase in consolidated net earnings for the first half of 1976 compared to the same period of 1975.

The company said earnings for the first six months of 1976 totaled $27,812,000 or 76 cents a share compared to $16,641,000 (46 cents a share) for the first half last year.

However, Whirlpool also restated its earnings to deduct Warwick Electronics for which Whirlpool is in the process of selling its 57 per cent interest. The restatement treats Warwick as a discontinued operation and shows that consolidated net earnings for continuing operations were $41,676,000 or $1.15 a share compared to $21,403,000 (59 cents) a share, restated for the first six months of 1975.

The increase of nearly 100 per cent in restated earnings for 1976 is attributed in part to Whirlpool taking a $10.9 million disposal loss on Warwick in the consolidated statement that includes Warwick.

Warwick's operating losses for the first half of 1976 were reported as $3.2 million compared to $4.7 million for the same period of 1975. Warwick has been consistently unprofitable for Whirlpool.

Net sales for the first six months this year were $813,088,000 — an increase of $151 million.

Whirlpool Chairman John Platts said that during the 1976 first half, stronger consumer demand reflecting the improved economy brought higher production and sale levels than in the first half of 1975. He noted, however, that there has been a modest softening in industry demand for such appliances in recent weeks and, as a result, factory production has been adjusted to keep inventory levels in balance. The improvement in Whirlpool's earnings from continuing operations is due primarily to the higher volume of sales and an improvement in the cost-price relationship of appliances.

Platts referred to the announcement made by Whirlpool on April 26, 1976, that an agreement in principle had been reached with Sanyo Electric Co. of Osaka, Japan, for acquisition by Sanyo of Whirlpool's interest in the television business of Warwick for $11 million. The transaction is subject to the development of a mutually acceptable definitive agreement, approval by the respective boards of directors and Warwick's stockholders, and appropriate governmental clearances.

In view of the proposed sale to Sanyo and assuming its consummation, Whirlpool has treated Warwick's television business as a discontinuation operation in its financial statements for the quarter and six-month periods ended June 30, 1976. Accordingly, Whirlpool's financial statements for these periods and for the comparable periods in 1975 reflect such discontinuance by separately stating as discontinued operations the results of operations and the anticipated loss on disposal of the television business.

The loss on disposal, amounting to approximately $10.9 million consists of an estimated provision of $5.3 million for expenses incurred by Warwick in connection with its program to reduce costs by adjusting operations to lower sales levels and in closing facilities to concentrate television production at one location, and an estimated $5.6 million provision which, if the proposed sale to Sanyo is consummated, will eliminate the goodwill on Whirlpool's balance sheet applicable to its investment in Warwick's television business.

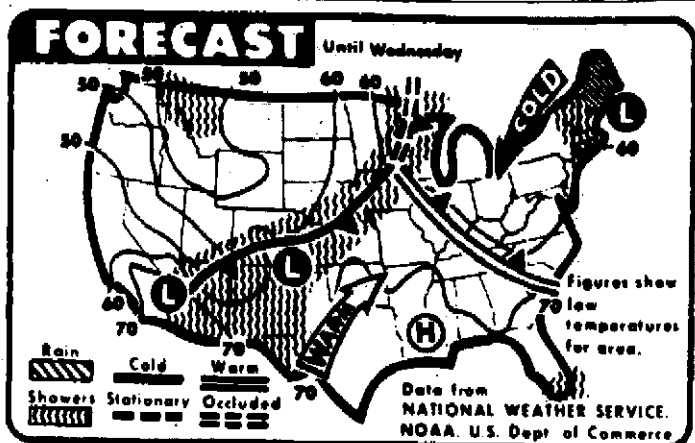

Platts added that assuming the economy is strong during the second half, he is optimistic regarding the performance of Whirlpool and the major home appliance industry during the balance of the year.

THREE-YEAR CONTRACT Whirlpool, Union Settle In Minnesota

While a contract impasse continues at Whirlpool's St. Joseph division, the company announced settlement of a three-year contract at its St. Paul, Minn., division. The contract at St. Paul was to expire July 22.

According to Lloyd Wampach, St. Paul division general manager, the new agreement ratified yesterday by members of Teamsters' Local 827 include wage increases of 15 cents an hour in the first year and 12 cents an hour in the second and third years, plus unlimited cost-of-living payment coverage over the life of the contract and significant improvements in employee benefits.

Whirlpool's contract at the St. Joseph division with International Association of Machinists Local 1818 expired May 6. The St. Joseph division is closed to local 1818 members who began picketing yesterday.

Wampach said the early settlement at St. Paul confirms the faith the company placed in the union and company employees when it decided to build a new manufacturing facility in nearby Cottage Grove, Minn. The new facility is nearing completion and is scheduled to go into production in the near future.

In addition to wage increases and unlimited cost-of-living payment coverage, the agreement includes a new basic dental program and significant improvements in other areas such as retirement, medical and life insurance, holiday, sick pay, and vacation benefits.

The following statement was issued by Ed Kepp, business representative for Local 1818:

"The St. Paul settlement in no way affects the situation here at St. Joseph. Local 1818 has stated repeatedly that we were not coordinating with St. Paul or any other Whirlpool division. In letters to its employees and in news releases, the company has made it try to appear that the union's coordinating effort was a major factor in the dispute here at St. Joseph.

"The St. Paul settlement should prove beyond all doubt that the union has been telling the truth all along. If the St. Paul contract has been a major factor in the company's refusal to meet with Local 1818 and negotiate, then that factor has now been removed. We call on Whirlpool to come forward to the negotiating table so we can meet and make efforts to resolve our differences and put an end to the unnecessary conditions that exist here at the St. Joseph division."

Tile Mart's Tax Status Unresolved

There is an apparent disagreement over the amount of personal property taxes owed on the Tile Mart, 2260 M-139 South, Benton township, according to comments from township Treasurer Joseph Postelli and building owner Ted Smith.

Postelli told The Herald-Palladium yesterday that he "had closed down" the Tile Mart for default of personal property taxes for 1973-74-75, totaling $7,014.98 including interest. Postelli said he posted a sign on each of the building's three entrance doors last Friday.

Smith today said he took the signs down about five minutes after they were posted. Smith said there is a difference of opinion on the amount of taxes owed and he hopes to meet soon with township Atty. Thomas N. Robinson Jr. Smith did not comment further.

The Tile Mart building has been closed for business since last April 17, when a fire destroyed Michelle's Fashions, an occupant of the building, and did extensive damage to two other stores and offices, including the Tile Mart store.

Postelli said his notices prohibited the building from opening or removal of any items until the taxes are paid.

WHAT WOULD 'PRESIDENT CARTER' MEAN TO INVESTORS?

If Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter were to become U.S. President Carter, what would it mean to you, one of America's tens of millions of investors in stocks?

A. If you accept as a guideline the history of stock market performance going back to 1900 — more than three-quarters of a century ago — you must conclude you would make out far better under a Democratic than under a Republican administration.

On top of that shocker, nominee Carter is unequivocally on the line against double taxation of corporate income: first, a tax on corporate profits and then, second, a tax on dividends paid out of the remaining corporate profits. Carter would eliminate this inequity either by wiping out all taxes on dividend income or by not taxing the amount of corporate profits paid out to stockholders in the form of dividends. This tax reform has long been a favorite of Wall Street — but without result.

In brief, although Wall Street is supposed to be shuddering at the prospect of a Democrat succeeding Republican administrations, the stock market in

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Continue To Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market forged ahead in very active trading today, continuing the sharp rally of the past two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose nearly 3 points in the early going. Gainers opened up a 5-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The consolidated ticker tape reporting trades in NYSE issues ran as much as six minutes late in early activity.

Brokers said investors seemed to have been heartened by the Dow's ability to break through to its highest closing level in nearly 3½ years on Monday.

They noted a generally bright economic news background, including a recent downward turn in short term interest rates.

Today's early prices included Westinghouse, up ½ at 17½; Texaco, unchanged at 27½; Citicorp, off ¼ at 35½; and Clorox, up ¼ at 12½.

Monday's advance carried the Dow Jones industrial average ahead 8.10 points to 1,011.21, its highest close since it finished at 1,018.66 on Jan. 23, 1973.

Gainers outpaced losers by more than a 2-1 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index rose .48 to 56.54.

Big Board volume reached 23.75 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index added .48 to 107.05.

WHAT WOULD 'PRESIDENT CARTER' MEAN TO INVESTORS?

If Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter were to become U.S. President Carter, what would it mean to you, one of America's tens of millions of investors in stocks?

A. If you accept as a guideline the history of stock market performances going back to 1900 — more than three-quarters of a century ago — you must conclude you would make out far better under a Democratic than under a Republican administration.

On top of that shocker, nominee Carter is unequivocally on the line against double taxation of corporation income: first, a tax on corporation profits and then, second, a tax on dividends paid out of the remaining corporate profits. Carter would eliminate this inequity either by wiping out all taxes on dividend income or by not taxing the amount of corporate profits paid out to stockholders in the form of dividends. This tax reform has long been a favorite of Wall Street — but without result.

In brief, although Wall Street is supposed to be shuddering at the prospect of a Democrat succeeding Republican administrations, the stock market in the past has shouted a message "relax!" — and it seems to be shouting it again.

Here are figures prepared by Yale Hirsch, to be published in September in Hirsch's "The 1977 Stock Trader's Almanac" (Old Tappan, N.J. 07675, $9.95). They show the stock market under the GOP and Democrats, based on the Dow Jones industrial stock average on election day.

REPUBLICAN ERAS

Per Cent Change
1901-12 (12 years) plus 48.3
1921-32 (12 years) minus 24.5
1953-60 (8 years) plus 121.2
1969-76 (7½ years) plus 4.6

DEMOCRATIC ERAS

Per Cent Change
1913-20 (8 years) plus 29.2
1933-52 (20 years) plus 318.4
1961-68 (8 years) plus 58.3

In the 39½ years of Republican Presidents, the stock market rose 149.6 per cent, an average annual change of 3.8%. In the 36 years of Democrats, the stock market rose 405.9 per cent, an average annual change of 11.3 per cent.

To make it even more dramatic, a $10,000 investment compounded during the Democratic eras would have grown to $85,573 in 36 years. The same investment during the 39½ GOP years would have appreciated to only $25,906.

Deducting the original stake leaves a net appreciation for the Democrats more than five times that of the Republicans.

When adjusted for loss in purchasing power, the Democrats' $85,573 is reduced to $18,056 and the Republicans' $25,906 to $18,186. "A draw!" says Hirsch, but he adds that the Republicans' 46.7 per cent gain in purchasing power — mostly during the depression of the early 1930s — "was not too meaningful to those of the 25 per cent who were unemployed."

What about recessions and bear markets?

There have been 12 recessions and 10 bear markets under the Republicans and 6 recessions and 8 bear markets under the Democrats. While the Democrats can boast of their stock market gains, the Republicans can counter that all four wars of the 20th century began while the Democrats were in power.

In the shorter 56-year span since 1920, each party has been in office 28 years. A $10,000 investment during the 28 Democratic years would have grown to $66,233 (excluding dividends) while the 100 cent dollar was dwindling to 43.7 cents. During the almost 28 years of Republicans in power, $10,000 would have grown to $17,469 and the 100 cent dollar would have declined less, to 81.5 cents. When adjustments are made for inflation, the Democrats still come out ahead: their $66,233 is reduced to $28,944 and the GOP's $17,469 is lowered to $14,237 — a gain of 189.4 against 42.2 per cent.

And now back to Carter. The U.S. economy is into a strong, broad, healthy advance, with virtually every key signal pointing upward. Nominee Carter is a political pragmatist and, except in consumer issues, hardly an economic radical, as this week's columns will document.

As one shrewd Republican in Wall Street summarized it: "Look at the way he's raised money down here. That says it."

Big Gain Reported In Net Earnings

Whirlpool Corporation has reported a 60 per cent increase in consolidated net earnings for the first half of 1976 compared to the same period of 1975.

The company said earnings for the first six months of 1976 totaled $27,612,000 or 76 cents a share compared to $16,641,000 (46 cents a share) for the first half last year.

However, Whirlpool also restated its earnings to deduct Warwick Electronics for which Whirlpool is in the process of selling its 57 per cent interest. The restatement treats Warwick as a discontinued operation and shows that consolidated net earnings for continuing operations were $41,676,000 or $1.15 a share compared to $21,403,000 (59 cents) a share, restated for the first six months of 1975.

The increase of nearly 100 per cent in restated earnings for 1976 is attributed in part to Whirlpool taking a $10.9 million disposal loss on Warwick in the consolidated statement that includes Warwick.

Warwick's operating losses for the first half of 1976 were reported as $3.2 million compared to $4.7 million for the same period of 1975. Warwick has been consistently unprofitable for Whirlpool.

Net sales for the first six months this year were $813,098,000 — an increase of $151 million.

Whirlpool Chairman John Platts said that during the 1976 first half, stronger consumer demand reflecting the improved economy brought higher production and sale levels than in the first half of 1975. He noted, however, that there has been a modest softening in industry demand for such appliances in recent weeks and, as a result, factory production has been adjusted to keep inventory levels in balance. The improvement in Whirlpool's earnings from continuing operations is due primarily to the higher volume of sales and an improvement in the cost-price relationship of appliances.

Platts referred to the announcement made by Whirlpool on April 26, 1976, that an agreement in principal had been reached with Sanyo Electric Co. of Osaka, Japan, for acquisition by Sanyo of Whirlpool's interest in the television business of Warwick for $11 million. The transaction is subject to the development of a mutually acceptable definitive agreement, approval by the respective boards of directors and Warwick's stockholders, and appropriate governmental clearances.

In view of the proposed sale to Sanyo and assuming its consummation, Whirlpool has treated Warwick's television business as a discontinuation operation in its financial statements for the quarter and six-month periods ended June 30, 1976. Accordingly, Whirlpool's financial statements for these periods and for the comparable periods in 1975 reflect such discontinuance by separately stating as discontinued operations the results of operations and the anticipated loss on disposal of the television business.

The loss on disposal, amounting to approximately $10.9 million consists of an estimated provision of $5.3 million for expenses incurred by Warwick in connection with its program to reduce costs by adjusting operations to lower sales levels and in closing facilities to concentrate television production at one location, and an estimated $5.6 million provision which, if the proposed sale to Sanyo is consummated, will eliminate the goodwill on Whirlpool's balance sheet applicable to its investment in Warwick's television business.

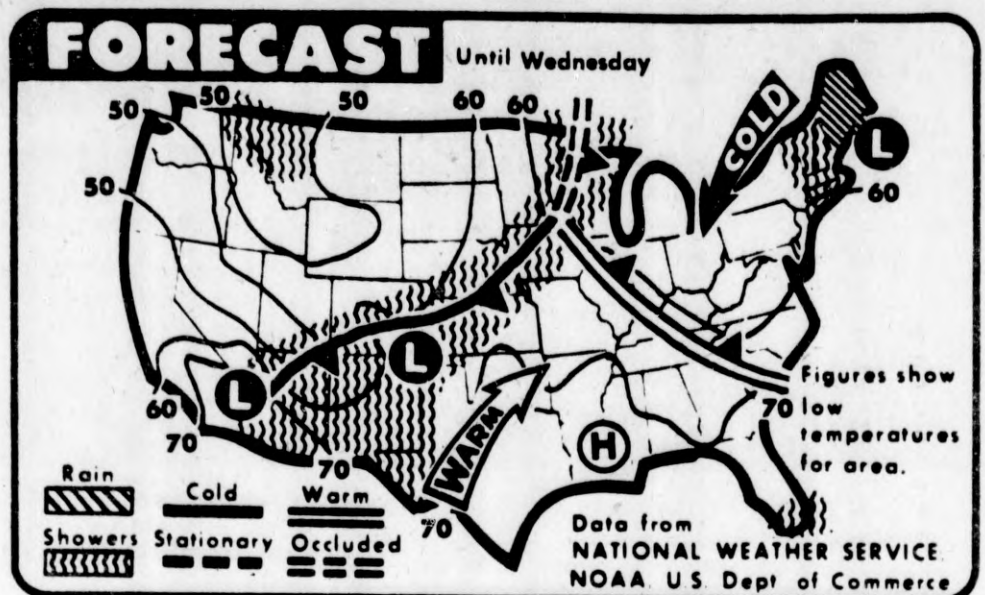

Platts added that assuming the economy is strong during the second half, he is optimistic regarding the performance of Whirlpool and the major home appliance industry during the balance of the year.

Half-Brother Stands Mute In Hartford Girl's Death

BY DENNIS COGSWELL

PAW PAW — A 23-year-old Hartford man stood mute on a charge of manslaughter in a written arraignment filed yesterday in Van Buren circuit court.

Judge Meyer Warshawsky ordered that a plea of innocent be entered for Roosevelt Sutton, 503 East Linden, on the charge which grew out of the fatal shooting of Sutton's half-sister, Lady Day Hughes, 11, last May.

Miss Hughes, of 411 Cass, Bangor, was hit in the head by a shotgun blast at the Sutton home, according to Hartford police. Witnesses have told police the gun discharged after Sutton tripped over a bed.

In other cases, David Bowden, 22, South Haven, pleaded innocent to a charge of arson stemming from a Nov. 20, 1974 fire at the Lappo Lumber company, South Haven, which did an estimated $500,000 damage.

Bowden was convicted of the charge by a circuit court jury in 1975 and was sentenced to serve from five to 10 years in prison. However, the state appeals court overturned the conviction in May and remanded the case back for trial.

Jack J. Tsai, 40, 328 MacArthur, Mattawan, pleaded innocent to a charge of felonious assault. The charge grew out of a complaint by James Lobretto, 25, Kalamazoo, that a man tried to run him down with a car outside the Eastern House restaurant, Paw Paw, on June 7.

IN COURT: Utah Democratic Rep. Allan T. Howe leaves the courtroom Monday after a Salt Lake City court hearing in Howe's motions to dismiss a charge that he tried to buy sex from police decoy prostitutes. Judge Raymond Uno denied the motions however, and Howe is scheduled for trial on the misdemeanor charge next Monday. He says he is innocent and was "set up" by persons who tricked him into going to the red-light district where he was arrested by a vice squad June 12. (AP Wirephoto)

POLICE ROUNDUP

Officers Grab Man, Pair Of Juveniles

Benton township police said a man and two juvenile boys were arrested after police responded to silent burglar alarms at a junior high school and elementary school Monday night and early today.

Police said the two juveniles, 15 and 16, both of Benton Harbor, were to be petitioned to juvenile court on charges of breaking and entering Fairplain junior high school, 120 East Napier avenue. The two were released to the custody of their parents, police said.

Police said the two were taken into custody near the school after police were called about 8:25 p.m. Nothing was believed taken, but police said several desks were ransacked.

About 3 a.m. today police said they arrested a man seen running near Bard elementary school, 1212 East Main street, where a silent burglar alarm was reported. Police said entry was made through a side window. Nothing appeared to have been taken.

Booked at the Berrien county jail on a charge of breaking and entering was Garland Ray Johnson, 22, of 331 Walnut avenue, Benton township.

Both schools are in the Benton Harbor area school system.

Seven thefts were reported to Twin Cities area police Sunday and Monday including goods valued at about $1,400 reported stolen from a Benton Harbor home.

Benton Harbor police said Lucille Nixon, 733 Pavone street, reported her home was broken into between 5 and 10 p.m. Sunday. Among goods taken from the ransacked home were two tape players, a television, clock radio, electric portable typewriter, an iron, two watches and jewelry.

Rita Travis, Benton Heights, told Benton Harbor police her purse was stolen from near her desk at the Neighborhood Center, 809 Territorial road. She told police the purse contained $6 in cash; identification; and keys.

David Sills, 7084 Blue Star highway, Hagar township, told Berrien sheriff's deputies his motorcycle was stripped of several parts. Value of the stolen parts was not reported.

Edwin Vann, 4370 Tanglewood, Royalton township, told Berrien deputies a $500 swimming pool sweeper and sweeper pump were stolen from the yard of his home.

A $129 CB radio was reported stolen to Benton township police from the car of Dennis Smith, 241 East Ridgeway. He said the car was parked at the rear of his home.

Thefts reported to St. Joseph police were:

—Two radio microphones and speakers from four cement trucks at the Ireland & Lester Company, Inc., 220 Wayne street.

—Clothing valued at $150 to $200 from the residence of Brenda Smith, 216 Ward avenue.

Barry Wise, 9420 Territorial road, Bainbridge township, told Berrien sheriff's deputies Monday vandals pulled controls and hydraulic hoses from his tractor after driving it around his field. He said the tractor was in a field near the intersection of Black Lake and County Line roads, Pipestone township. No estimate of damage was reported.

Paw Paw Doctor Back In Court On 2 Charges

BY DENNIS COGSWELL

PAW PAW — A Paw Paw physician who was acquitted in May on one assault charge was back in Seventh district court here yesterday on two other charges.

Dr. Timothy McManus, 43, demanded preliminary examination on a charge of resisting arrest and pleaded innocent to a charge of assaulting his son, Timothy McManus, 21, Ann Arbor.

He was released on his own recognizance on both charges. A July 27 hearing was set on the resisting arrest charge, but no pre-trial date was scheduled on the assault charge.

McManus was arrested Saturdy at his home on Red Arrow highway.

State police at Paw Paw said that they had been asked to stand by while the younger McManus helped his mother remove some items from Dr. McManus' house. Dr. McManus and his wife are in the process of a divorce, according to troopers.

Troopers said that a shoving match involving Dr. McManus and his son occurred and that a scuffle then broke out with an officer there when the officer tried to stop the shoving.

McManus was in court in May on an assault charge stemming from an April 3 arrest also at his house. Van Buren sheriff's deputies charged then that the doctor had hit his son after the younger McManus had attempted to help his mother remove possessions from the home.

Dr. McManus was acquitted of that charge by a district court jury on May 20.

In another case, William J. Augusta, 36, route 2, Hartford, demanded preliminary examination on a charge of using forged registration plates. He stood mute on charges of driving on a suspended license; second offense; open intoxicants in a motor vehicle; no valid registration; and no proof of insurance.

Hartford police said Augusta was arrested Sunday after he had stopped a car on East Main street that was weaving back and forth.

License plates on the car appeared to be homemade, and a bottle of wine was found inside the vehicle, police said.

Augusta was ordered held on bonds totaling $2,275. A hearing on the forged registration plate charge was scheduled for July 20, and pre-trial conferences on the other charges for Aug. 16.

South Haven Teens Demand Hearings

BY TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — Duncan Grays, 17, 309 Abel street, South Haven, and George Davis, 17, 1059 Kalamazoo street, South Haven, each demanded a preliminary examination when arraigned yesterday in Seventh District court here on charges of unlawfully driving away an auto.

Grays and Davis were arrested early Saturday by South Haven police after officers stopped a car that had been reported stolen a few hours earlier from a South Haven car dealer.

Grays also demanded an exam on two counts of breaking and entering in connection with the alleged illegal entries of Seiler Auto Sales and Van Der Zee Buick-Pontiac, both of South Haven.

The exams were scheduled for July 17. Grays was released after posting $1,000 bond while Davis was released on personal recognizance bond.

In other cases, Terrance Wavro, 19, route 3, South Haven, demanded preliminary examination a charge of larceny from a building. Wavro was arrested on a bench warrant in connection with the June 25 theft of meat valued at $112 from Ma's Truck stop, M-140, South Haven township. He was released on personal recognizance bond pending the July 27 exam.

Paul Frazier, 34, 251 Center street, South Haven, demanded a preliminary examination on a charge of resisting and obstructing a police officer in the performance of his duty. Frazier was arrested by state police troopers from the South Haven post who alleged that he failed to identify himself when asked by officers and subsequently scuffled with officers.

Frazier pleaded guilty to a charge of walking on a roadway and was fined $15.

Donna Jean Cousins, 18, route 1, South Haven, was sentenced to 15 days in the Van Buren jail on a charge of probation violation in connection with an October, 1975 conviction for possessing marijuana. She was ordered to pay a $104 fine by Aug. 15 or serve an additional 15 days in jail.

Louisville's Youths Don't Mind Busing

By EARNI YOUNG
Associated Press Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — It's dark as 12-year-old Mark Jump hurries toward his neighborhood school. There, he will join about 30 other youngsters on a yellow school bus which will take them across town.

Mark is white. His new school is in a predominantly black neighborhood.

About the same time, Babbette Norfleet, 12, leaves her home in a housing project on the other side of Louisville. Shortly, she will board a bus for a 25-minute ride through the rolling Kentucky countryside to suburban Middletown.

Babbette is black. Middletown is not.

Mark and Babbette are among 22,600 students, half of them black, who participated this past school year in the massive and often wrenching social experiment called forced busing. There were 119,000 students enrolled in the school district.

Their movements were dictated by the federal courts, which found Louisville's school system to be unconstitutionally discriminatory.

Busing is one of the most emotional and controversial experiments in the nation today. It turns law-abiding parents into rock-throwing rebels. It disrupts public budgets. It swings elections.

But what does it do to the kids?

Mark recalls his fear nine months ago when a rock crashed through the window of his school bus, showering the children aboard with broken glass. His friend was cut.

"I was afraid," Mark said.

But as time went on, he added, the fear lessened. He now says it's his parents who are frightened, not he.

"I like it here better than my old school. The building's much newer and the teachers aren't so old fashioned," the youngster said.

Interviews with other children on Louisville's buses brought much the same reaction. For most kids, busing is no big deal. There are no traumas, no nightmares, no instant geniuses, no unexplained duces. Just kids.

Adults are a different matter.

One white Middletown student, 8-year-old Kendra Bryant, wrote a letter to the Louisville Courier Journal, saying, "I think busing is good because I've gotten to meet two new friends I would not have met before."

The Bryants received a flood of abusive telephone calls and hate letters as a result of Kendra's letter.

Gwen Bryant, Kendra's mother, said one of the letters was signed by the Ku Klux Klan and another by the National White People's Party. At least one of the callers identified himself as a member of the KKK.

Kendra, unconcerned about the names she was called in the hate mail, said, "You should have seen the writing on those letters. They write worse than first graders."

"What parents don't understand is that we're all the same inside," said 11-year-old Dorris Holloway, a black student at Martin Luther King Jr. Elementary, the same school Mark attended.

"Even if you're red or green or purple, it'll still be the same. You have a heart, a brain, a nose and eyes. You're just a different color outside."

Dorris, who expects to be bused outside of King's district to a school in a largely white area this fall, said she looked forward to it as a chance to get to meet new people and "observe how they live."

"Parents should give busing a chance to see if it works. If it's bad, they can do something about it. But if it's going on fine, they should leave it alone."

More happy Chevette owners talk about their cars.

Howard Hale, Atlanta, Georgia.

"I'm 6'3" and the head room and leg room in the driver's seat are fine. I like Chevette's interior room."

Jan Dahl, Los Angeles, Calif.

"It does everything I wanted it to do. I'm delighted. I love it!"

David Hatch, Sherborn, Mass.

"Chevette is a dynamite car. You don't appreciate it until you get it out on the street. I traded in a VW."

Marilyn Summers, Atlanta, Georgia.

"I traded in a Fiat for my Chevette. I like the maneuverability and the fact that I don't feel like I'm in a small car."

Glenn Twitchell, Laguna Hills, Calif.

"It has better carrying capacity than I expected. I'm able to put 4-foot sheets of plywood in the back."

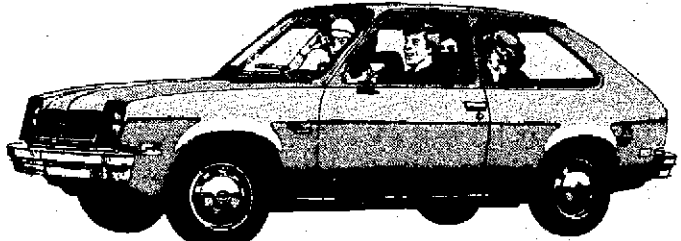

Leonard Stasiukiewicz, South Attleboro, Mass.

"I like Chevette because of the economy. I put on about 100 miles a day and that adds up."

CHEVETTE: 40 MPG EPA HIGHWAY ESTIMATE, 28 MPG EPA CITY ESTIMATE.

With standard 1.4-litre engine, 4-speed manual transmission and 3.70 axle ratio. Actual mileage may vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition and available equipment.

Chevette

It could make you a happy owner, too.

In every Chevette Coupe there's a lot to make you happy. And it's all standard.

ROOM FOR FOUR—more head room than some mid-size cars. Front bucket seats.

WAGONLIKE CARRYING SPACE—fold down the rear seat back. Presto! 26 cu. ft. of flat, clear load area.

FULL-WIDTH HATCH DOOR—opens to take objects a full four feet wide.

VERY EFFICIENT 1.4-LITRE ENGINE—with hydraulic lash adjusters engineered for quiet valve operation.

FREEDOM BATTERY—Delco's carter battery that never needs filling.

30.2-FOOT TURNING CIRCLE—one of the shortest of any car in the world. Great for city maneuvering.

RACK-AND-PINION STEERING SYSTEM—responsive and easy.

17 ANTI-CORROSION METHODS—Chevette is built with rust-fighters like wax base spray, epoxy paint, galvanized metal, zinc-rich paint primers, etc.

DIAGNOSTIC CONNECTOR—built in to allow quick, accurate checks of your Chevette's electrical system.

DO-IT-YOURSELF MANUAL—in every glove compartment, simple instructions to help you do minor maintenance.

No wonder so many people have good things to say about their Chevettes.

See one of America's more than 6,000 Chevy dealers for yourself. (That's nearly twice as many dealers as VW, Toyota and Datsun combined.) Your Chevy dealer would be more than happy to let you test-drive a new Chevette this week.
